INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

The Painters' union will meet tonight in the Painters' hall in the Runnels building.

There will be an open meeting of the machinists tonight at Cotton Spinners' hall, Middle street.

John Taylor of the Silesia mills, North Chelmsford, is confined to his home with illness.

Thomas Baxter of the Massachusetts mills will be one of the leading soloists in the Palmer minstrels.

James Conney, formerly employed at the Lowell Rendering Co., has accepted a position at the Saco-Lowell foundry.

"A Perfect Day" as rendered by Thomas Clark of the Bay State mills at the party held last night was about all that could be desired.

Organizer Thomas McMahon of the United Textile Workers went to Maynard Tuesday night where he addressed a large meeting of mill operatives.

Now that the good weather is here the department store clerks will be given their Thursday afternoons off, and it certainly can't be said that they don't deserve the half holiday.

Charles E. Anderson of the Trades and Labor council left today for Providence, R. I. where he will attend the New England Conference of Abolitionists. He will remain over the week end.

Thomas Keyes, a popular young plumber of the city and a prominent member of the Four of Clubs is entertaining his brother Paul, who is a clerk at the Hotel Martineau, New York City.

Chester Hartigan, the well known athlete, is now working on the night shift at the U. S. Cartridge Co. Chester is getting in form for a number of track events to be held during the summer season.

Frank Merritt, a prominent member of the Electrical Workers' union, and a son of "Billy" Merritt, the old Lowell catcher and former big leaguer, will be seen doing mound duty for one of the fastest amateur teams in the city this year.

The Moynihan brothers, James and

John, who are members of the Bricklayers' union are attracting considerable attention in their high powered Buick roadster. The car has been recently overhauled and Jim says it can make 50 without half trying.

Union officials state that the Snow Co. of Brockton, which had some difficulty over prices with its help and decided to move to other quarters, will not come to this city. Plans are now arranged, according to a prominent labor official, whereby the company will stay in Brockton and the shoe manufacturing that has been done at the Field-Lumber plant in West Adams street will be discontinued.

"Babe" Christa, one of Lowell's prominent waterweights, is working on the night shift at the U. S. Cartridge Co. "Babe" has met and defeated some good men this season and says he is willing to meet any boy in the world who can make his weight. He is a brother of "Joe," who acquired some a few years ago in migration circles.

Carpenters' Union, Local 1010

The Carpenters' union, local 1010 held a largely attended and interesting meeting in the union headquarters in the Runnels building last evening and considerable business of importance was transacted. Nothing was said relative to the agreement with the contractors which expires May 6. Two new members were admitted and several applications were turned over to the investigating committee. A number of reports were read and accepted as progressive and a bunch of communications were turned over to the secretary for proper disposal. The business agent's report showed the majority of members steadily employed and the secretary reported the union to be in excellent financial condition.

Nearly 40,000 women employed by the jewelry trade in the Birmingham district in England were thrown out of work due to the war.

SHE GAVE HERSELF UP

BROCKTON WOMAN UNDER ARREST ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO MURDER MAN

BROCKTON, May 5.—Mrs. L. A. Lombardi, 26, a chocolate dipper, living apart from her husband, is under arrest on the charge of assault with intent to murder Placido Bergamasco of about the same age.

Mrs. Lombardi makes a serious allegation against the man. She shot at him as she started to enter the A. E. Little & Co. factory this morning and then calmly walked to the police station, not far away, and gave herself up. Bergamasco was not severely wounded, receiving the revolver bullet in his hand as he tried to prevent the woman from shooting.

FULTZ WINS DEBUTANTE

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., May 6.

—When Attorney David L. Fultz, head of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, played ball in this place 17 years ago, he in sport pushed a friend's baby carriage through the streets.

"I'm going to wait for you," remarked Fultz, as he cuddled the pretty little girl occupant under the chin.

Mr. Fultz's engagement to that same child, one of the prettiest debutantes of the season, was announced this week.

Mr. Fultz attended a reception here on New Year's given by Mr. and Mrs. William Lauder. He was introduced to Miss Ida M. Verlin and it was love at first sight.

He did not know it at the time, but the girl he loved was the babe he had cuddled in his infancy.

The marriage will take place in June.

BANQUET AT WAVERLY ANNUAL MAY PARTY

NATIONAL PRESIDENT OF A. O. H. ADDRESSED MASS MEETING OF MEMBERS IN THEIR HALL

Members of the local division of the A. O. H. gathered last evening, to the number of about 120, at the Waverly hotel at a complimentary banquet to their visiting national president, Joseph McLaughlin. James O'Sullivan presided as toastmaster, and speeches were made by President McLaughlin, Mayor Dennis J. Murphy, State President John F. Donnelly and Capt. Dinnoy of Boston. The addresses were on Irish and American subjects and were characterized by earnestness and loyalty to the flag.

Preceding the banquet a great mass meeting was held in the Waverly hall, attended by hundreds of members from all local divisions. President McLaughlin made a stirring address, speaking for almost one hour, and made an excellent impression on his audience. The meeting and banquet were under the auspices of the Central council, A. O. H.

HOOF DISEASE STOPPED

UNITED STATES QUARANTINE MAY SOON BE LIFTED BUT CARE IS NECESSARY

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Though believing the foot and mouth disease epidemic practically wiped out in the United States, the agriculture department is not relaxing vigilance. Like typhoid fever, its victims sometimes spread infection after they themselves are cured and it will be some time yet before the quarantine will be lifted entirely.

Defending the slaughter of more than 140,000 animals during the war on the disease, the department cites the case of Germany where the disease has been allowed to gain such a hold at times that the slaughter of exposed animals could not be resorted to. In 1911, for example, it was estimated that there were 3,968,329 head of cattle, 1,820,227 sheep, 2,355,211 hogs and 52,674 goats suffering from the disease in Germany, making the pestilence a perpetual drain on the farmers. There are more than three times as many of these animals in the United States as in Germany and the consequences of allowing the disease to get such a foothold are obvious.

BIG SHIPMENT OF GOLD

FRANCE WILL SEND $10,000,000 HERE AS PAYMENT FOR GOODS—

FEAR SUBMARINE ATTACK

NEW YORK, May 6.—Ships sailing from France to this country during the next two weeks are likely to afford a very inviting target to German submarines, as the Bank of France is preparing to ship $10,000,000 in gold to this country during that period for the payment of supplies purchased here. These shipments are in addition to the $2,000,000 in gold received from that source last Tuesday.

All told $12,300,000 has been withdrawn from the Bank of France within the last two weeks and while no official announcement has been made it is understood in banking circles that the money will be sent to New York.

The greatest secrecy, however, is being maintained as to the date of the shipment and the names of the vessels selected as carriers, because of the danger of inviting submarine attack.

WELD FOR GRAND JURY

WEYMOUTH, May 6.—Joseph E. L. Miller of Weymouth was held in $1500 for the grand jury by Judge Cook in the Quincy district court yesterday on the charge of manslaughter, and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, causing the death of Chief of Police Patrick Butler of Weymouth on the night of April 13. The case was continued to Saturday, as Miller had but one bondsman present.

MOTORCYCLE HONEYMOON

A motorcycle unexpectedly carried Mr. and Mrs. Willett Seaman of Mineola, N. Y., on their honeymoon trip. Seaman and Miss Helen Downs rode to the home of Justice of Peace Dodge, where they were married. Then they discovered that they had just missed the train which was to convey them to New York. "Never mind," said the bride, "you start the motor and I'll hop on behind." So within a few minutes they were chugging away in the direction of New York.

On April 25, in a bombardment, the Friedrichshafen hangars were damaged and a Zeppelin was destroyed. Bombs were also dropped at Leopoldsdorf and Lereach and on the station at Haltingen. Two locomotives and two express trains were disabled and all traffic between Leopoldsdorf and Haltingen was suspended.

On April 15, the station at St. Quentin was bombarded and a central depot of munitions. One hundred and fifty cars, many of them containing benzol, were completely destroyed by fire which last 14 hours. Explosions were heard throughout the night. Twenty-four soldiers were killed.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Remember that with all the good shows at the B. F. Keith theatre, in the past, there has never been such a rush for seats as characterizes the present week. Without question the biggest week's business in the history of the theatre, will be the result, and it is due to the fact that probably the most attractive combination of acts ever offered locally is on the bills. "The Fashion Show," a style musical-comedy, featuring Hugo Jansen, Maida Barker, Blanche Latell and Earl Corn, and four mighty classy models, is the leading feature of this show. Beginning this afternoon Jansen will design six entirely new gowns, and will show them on his models. Also, the versatile entertainer, gets a half dozen encores at each performance, and the Five Violin Beauties, with Miss Ethel Sharpe, holding a leading position, proves to be one of the very best of musical entertainments. "The Fixer," a clever little comedy, is played by Marion Buell & Co., and Marcus & Clemens, grand opera singers, are among the best in their line. Other points of interest are: Hilton & Roberts, entertainers, the Musical Chef, the Heart-Sell and the St. John-St. Vincent de Paul football games. Seats are going fast. Get one. Phone 28.

THE OWL THEATRE

Wilton Lockyer, the great Broadway star is seen to advantage in "The Owl," the feature photoplay being shown at the Owl theatre for the last two times. The production is one of great dramatic strength, and contains all the elements to make it a popular play. Five other comedies and dramas are also shown. Besides this big feature, William Forman will soon be starred in another big production at this theatre.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

A beautiful and thrilling photoplay of Jack London's "Odyssey of the North" is the feature of the Academy of Music performance for today, Friday and Saturday. The leading part in this six-reel production is played by the celebrated Hobart Bosworth, and the role he plays is one in which he appears at his best. The story is a powerful one and there is not a dull moment throughout the entire six parts. The picture is one of the famous Paramount triumphs and has been widely commended. The program at the Academy during the last three days of this week is one of the highest merit. In addition to the Paramount offering, patrons will see two other good dramas and a comedy.

FOR MEMORIAL DAY

POST 185, G. A. R. ARRANGES FOR MEMORIAL DAY—BUSY MEETING HELD

At the post meeting last evening, general orders from department and national headquarters, relating to the recent department convention and to Memorial Day were read. Comrade Augustus V. Hovey, of 185, W. L. Dickey, of 120, and George E. Worthen, of 42, were appointed by the department commander on his staff. George E. Bryant was elected and installed as officer of the guard, to succeed B. S. Clough, who resigned at the last meeting to become adjutant of the post. Commander Caverly, called the post up and at "parade rest" taps were sounded by the Bugler Bryant and lights were extinguished in memory of our late Com. W. E. Baton, who was buried with post honors in Belle View cemetery, Lawrence, April 19, 1915. Q. M. Arnold, expressed the thanks of the family and relatives, for the impressive G. A. R. services at the grave. The sick call revealed the fact that although many of the veterans were sick during the last week, there is a slight improvement in most of them. Reports from the post Memorial committee were received. Rev. George C. Pierce, Corps in Co. I, 2nd Mass. Inf. is to be the orator at the joint memorial services in the First Congregational church Sunday p. m., May 30. The program for this service is ready in the printing committee and the commander's general orders for Memorial week are also ready. Past Commander Arthur Hamblet and Comrade Frank Coburn, spoke in good of the order.

CITY MARSHAL REMOVED

SALEM, May 6.—After summarily removing from office yesterday morning City Marshal Cornelius F. Harrington because that officer would not waive the exclusive power given him by the new city charter in the matter of appointments, Mayor O'Keefe of Salem last evening caused the entire membership of the police department to be lined up before him at police headquarters and informed them that many of them had been remiss in their duty and that he is about to call a "police expert" from Jersey City to reorganize their department. Harrington was chairman of O'Keefe's campaign committee.

THE JITNEY BUS

The craze for the popular jitney bus is growing. Starting out west, it has come closer and closer and now it seems we shall soon see it operating on our own streets. Time alone will demonstrate whether the jitney is a passing fad or whether it will become a permanent institution, but meanwhile there are aspects of the question that merit close attention.

The weight of testimony from those cities where the new transportation system has been introduced indicates that it is opposed strongly by the street car companies and favored strongly by the general public. There are side issues that cannot be ignored, however, if the people of the community would realize what the ultimate effect of the jitney may be on general transportation and general conditions.

In Providence, the patronage of the jitneys has resulted in great loss of revenue to the car companies, for the jitney runs over the short routes and leaves the long haul to the electric. It has long been the contention of the street railways that the short distance patron makes the long distance run possible as a paying proposition, and the introduction of the new factor has so seriously affected the margin of profit that the street car companies have petitioned the city officials for an abatement of the franchise tax. This would be a serious blow to the taxpayers and might easily result in an increased tax rate.

Furthermore, in Providence the railroad officials say that they will be forced to rearrange their rates according to a zone system. This may make it fifteen cents to some outlying districts that could have been formerly reached with a nickel fare, and the effect on the citizens in the suburbs will be serious. Should this come to pass, it will have the effect of leading to congestion within the five cent limit, to the general disadvantage of the community. When some years ago, the city of Glasgow, Scotland, arranged its street car routes in a zone system, the plan was hailed generally as scientific and efficient, but it resulted in unspeakable slum conditions within the region of low transportation.

The question of jitney regulation is also a serious one. As yet the system is too new to permit of full adjustment to municipal conditions, and consequently there is considerable confusion. It is only fair that the public should be protected sufficiently and that at the same time the city should receive a revenue for the privilege of using the highways. Were the jitney craze to prove permanent, it would have a serious effect on the revenue of street car companies, and the public would eventually lose part if not all of the taxes now paid by the street railroads for the franchise privilege. This revenue should be made up from jitney returns, but the exact regulations cannot be framed offhand. In their espousal of the unique system that is making such a stir in all directions, the public should not lose sight of the fact that the jitney bus has aspects which invite long and serious reflection, if the city is to gain in more than rapid transportation within restricted zones. The introduction of a system that would monopolize the short rides and leave the long to the railways would strike at the suburbs, would retard the city's growth outward because under present conditions few could afford to pay double or treble the present rate of carfare.

GOVERNOR ON EDUCATION

Those who heard Governor Walsh's eloquent and earnest plea for educational extension at the banquet of the teachers' organization must have been impressed with the soundness of his views and the sincerity of his attitude. It was no mere academic platitude uttered for political effect but an exposition of a situation that is apparent to all who come in touch with the masses of the people. Furthermore, the scheme of educational extension embraced in his bill is not an untried theory but an educational project that has been tried successfully in the great farming state of Wisconsin where man, woman, boy and girl have an equal opportunity to secure elementary and university education under state auspices.

Governor Walsh brought the needs of Massachusetts home to his audience by telling of his recent visit to a great private correspondence school in Scranton, Pa., where almost 100,000 citizens of this state are enrolled for courses that to many are costly. When there he looked up the students from Clinton, many of whom he knew, and the struggles of some, as related by him, must indeed have shown that the state could bring the light of education to many homes that are now hedged around by the prohibitive wall of poverty. After his poignant recital of concrete instances, his audience must have hoped in all sincerity that he will be successful in putting through a bill that does credit to his heart as well as his judgment.

The views of Governor Walsh in this connection are too broadly humanitarian to be classed as partisan, and it is to be hoped that party politics will be sunk in the treatment of the bill by the legislature. He has received the endorsement of many of the leading educators of the state, and the bill has the approval of the committee on education, but there is a disposition in some quarters to withhold approval for political reasons. Could he come before the Massachusetts public on the whole as he came before the Lowell body Tuesday evening, there is no doubt that he would receive popular commendation and approval for a bill that, if passed, would mark a new era in Massachusetts legislation.

JAPAN AND CHINA

While the great powers of Europe are playing their deadly war game, events in the far east are rapidly approaching a crisis. Shortly after the commencement of the war, Japan took possession of the German provinces of the Chinese coast, assuring the powers that while that its aims were unselfish and that Chinese interests would not suffer. Later, Japan sent a diplomatic note to the great neighboring republic in which were many stipulations which China could not well accept without recognizing Japanese sovereignty over China. China accordingly refused to acknowledge Japan's right to assume direction of the new republic, and now Japan is arming for a possible defence while Japan prepares an ultimatum. So far, no nation has directly protested as threats against Japan were in plotted rather than mentioned directly, but now the world is watching the eastern situation anxiously.

If war should break out between Japan and China, without the protests or active interference of outside powers, the immediate effect is not hard to anticipate. Japan is prepared for a conflict while China is practically helpless. To the outside observer, the moral right is on the side of Japan, but in this day moral rights do not offer a strong defence to warships and great guns. Still, it is hardly possible that the world would permit Japan to take advantage of the general situation to grasp the great opportunities in the struggling republic which has so recently emerged from the centuries of darkness and misrule. Great powers are selfish, in many cases recognizing no right except the right of might, but China shall not be friendless if the designs of its progressive neighbor should imperil its aspirations for national liberty and democracy.

BUSINESS COURTESY

Former Senator Root declared recently at a banquet in New York that if this country is to make a substantial increase in its volume of business with South America, it will have to be very courteous in its business dealings. This doctrine may sound peculiar to a people that have regarded courtesy as belonging to social life as differentiated from business life, but in Latin America and many other countries, courtesy and politeness are carried into business. All merchants who deal directly with the public know full well the value of courtesy, for the courteous clerk may drive away an old customer by rudeness or indifference. It is now the practice of some of the greatest business leaders in the country to foster cordial relations with the public, realizing that in courtesy is the germ of good business. If the manners of South America are different, they are generally better than ours, and it is advisable that all who aim at trade extension there take advantage of the advice offered by the shrewd Mr. Root.

SOAKING THE CITY

Soaking the city is a very popular game. It is generally very interesting. It is often amusing, but it is always expensive—in the long run. Robbing the city is all of this, besides being of late, a fine art.

But, do not forget, Mr. Citizen, that No One to Try and Wear Out Your Cold It Will Wear You Out Instead.

Thousands keep on suffering from colds and coughs through neglect and delay. Why make yourself an easy prey to serious ailments and epidemics as the result of a neglected cold? Coughs and colds sap your strength and vitality unless checked in the early stages. Dr. King's New Life-Giver is what you need—the first dose helps. Your head clears up, you breathe freely and you feel so much better. Buy a bottle today and start taking at once.

when you rob or soak the city you rob and soak all of its people and when you pervert the robbing and soaking of the city you permit the robbing and soaking of all of its people. Furthermore, do not forget for a moment that you are one of the people and that the people ultimately pay the bill. This popular, very interesting and rather amusing game is a very expensive one for all concerned, including yourself. Think it over!

SEEN AND HEARD

A hard and well beaten path. The way of the transgressor.

A COMPLIMENT
"Yes," said the amateur tenor, "I once received a high compliment from a very great musician. It was singing on board a New York liner, but without accompaniment, for accompanists can never keep time with me, you know."
"That did the musician say?"
"He said—and these were his very words—'When I saw you begin to sing without accompaniment, I was surprised; when I heard you I was amazed; but when you sat down I was delighted.'"

ALL TAKEN IN
An amateur photographer was detected of taking a village church noted for its beauty, and as it was near the village school he did his best to get there before the children came from class.
Alas! just as he had got it nicely focused out trooped the children, who crowded round the camera wanting to be taken in the photograph. Suddenly a bright idea struck him. He proceeded to group the children behind the camera and then took a good photograph of the church.
"Are we all taken in?" eagerly asked the children, as he began packing up.
"Yes, you are all taken in," said he, as he walked away smiling.

TOO EARLY
M. Tavish and a brother Scot, M. P. H. entered the train and took their seats near the door. Sitting up in the corner was a nice young fellow, last night, and M. Tavish was always nudging his friend.
"Hello, man," said M. P. H., "I ken her fine."
"How are ye no again up aside her then?" asked M. Tavish.
"Oh," said M. P. H., "she hasna peyed her fare yet."

THE DANDELION HUNTER
The fields are now scoured by the dandelion hunters. Sunday as I passed some of the vacant lots in the outlying districts in the course of a walk, I noticed women of foreign nativity, evidently searching the vacant lots, digging here and there for the dandelion.

Bad Teeth Rival the Enemy's Bullets in Disabling Soldiers in the European War
An editorial in one of the New York newspapers states on good authority the following:

"In the trenches in Europe, more soldiers have been disabled through ill arising from bad teeth than by any other cause, save the bullets of the enemy."

ARE YOU AT WAR WITH YOUR OWN GOOD HEALTH?

You are if you are neglecting your mouth and teeth. You are laying your system open, unprotected against the attack of most any known ailment. Do you think there's one soldier among the thousands suffering from bad teeth in the east armies of the European countries who would not be only too happy to have your opportunity to have his mouth and teeth placed in condition which would mean for him increased health and strength with which to continue the struggle for his beloved country? Indeed there is not and yet many right here in Lowell postpone their trip to a dentist, the trip that means the greatest dividends in health and happiness. Why they do this is difficult to explain.

There's positively no good reason for fighting against your own best interests. You are doing this though, if you are permitting your teeth to decay. If you are among the vast army of people who are neglecting their mouths, may we presume to ask

WHY ARE YOU DOING SO?

TOO MUCH PIE

As accidents are likely to happen in the best regulated families, so it is not surprising that one has recently occurred in a while at the best conducted May breakfasts. As the result of one mishap Saturday morning a well known Lawrence man got an all too generous helping to that luscious cream pie that was served. He, with the members of his family, was seated at one of the tables enjoying a meal when, along came one of the waiters, with tray held high above his head to get through the crowd. He did a real Japanese balancing act with that tray until he came directly back of where our friend aforementioned sat. Then he lost control, and down came tray, cream pie and all. The pie cream side down, slid all the way down the side and back of the breakfaster, leaving its trail of delicious cream behind, and emptying goodly part of it into his neck. It is reported that when getting rid of the superfluous helping was not forthcoming, but it is safe to say that the coat will not be worn again at a public function until it has been given a course in elimination treatment.—Lawrence Telegram.

MAY NOT BEAT GERMANS

WILLIAM WATSON, THE POET, SOUNDS WARNING TO BRITONS—DENOUNCES THEIR APATHY

LONDON, May 6.—William Watson, the poet, has contributed a prose article to the Evening News in which he denounces the apathy of the British government and people in the following terms:

"It is high time that the masses of the people of this country had it driven and hammered into their somewhat slow minds, for no gentler mode of introducing it will suffice, that it is very doubtful indeed, whether we are going to beat the Germans at all."

Criticizing the "bulling assurances" that all will ultimately be well, Mr. Watson praises the spirit of the Germans and declares that "our allies and ourselves are in imminent and grievous peril." Continuing, Mr. Watson makes the statement that Germany is "supremely formidable with the spirit that makes her an unrepentant maniac and terror to us and to the world," and declares that "we are acting, so far as our land forces are concerned, if not a subordinate, at any rate a secondary part in this gigantic drama of the nations, and it will be the fault of our own apathy, sluggishness, and fatal optimism if the drama closes at the last in a tragedy both for us and for the trust interests of mankind."

BOY FELL OVERBOARD

BOSTON, May 6.—While playing with companions on an Albany street wharf at the foot of Union Park street, yesterday afternoon, little Lawrence Sullivan fell overboard. His cries quickly attracted the attention of Frank Grinnell, driver of a bakery wagon for a North End firm. Grinnell jumped from his wagon and rushing to the wharf, plunged into the water of the South Bay, rescuing the boy.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION

To Govern Working Hours of Women and Children Favored by Hosiery Men

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 6.—Federal rather than state legislation to govern the working hours of women and children and other measures affecting manufacturers were advocated in a resolution adopted at yesterday's session of the National Association of Hosiery and Undergarment Manufacturers. The resolutions demand that federal legislation is necessary in order that manufacturers in different states may be placed on an equally competitive basis.

DESPATCH FROM COE

MESSAGE DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF HARRY—FATHER SEES EVIDENCE OF UNBALANCED MIND

NEW YORK, May 6.—The following remarkable despatch was received from Fairbanks, Alaska, where Henry Clarke Coe, Jr., who deserted his wife and unborn child in Boston on Jan. 30, last, was found a few days ago.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, via Seattle, May 3.—Henry Clarke Coe very much surprised when informed of child. Denies knowing wife was to become a mother. Does not believe birth story.

"It is evident that my boy is out of his mind," said Dr. Henry Clarke Coe, Tuesday night, after reading this telegraph.

SIX weeks before he went away, my wife and I received a letter from him in which he said that his wife was to have a child, and told of his great happiness over it. There is no doubt in my mind that he is mentally unbalanced. Mr. Burns has this letter, or I should be glad to turn it over for publication."

Dr. Coe denied that there had been any friction between his family and the Alas, his son's wife's people, since young Coe disappeared. "They love him as much as we do," he announced. "My wife and I spent last Saturday in Boston with our daughter-in-law and her mother. Both of them said then that they were eager to hear from Henry."

When asked whether the married life of young Coe and his wife had been happy, Dr. Coe became indignant. The pair had been deeply attached to each other, he said. They had not cared for society and were almost stags in the way they saved money. Mrs. Coe had refused to keep a servant and did all of the housework herself.

"It is an outrage," he insisted, "to say that the relations between my son and his wife were anything but happy before he left." Friends in Alaska, Dr. Coe said, were going to take care of his son, and observe his mental condition carefully. Young Coe had always been a high strung boy, he asserted, and it was only reasonable to believe that his disappearance had been caused by some hallucination. The father denied the story that his son had once suffered injuries to his head in a fall from his horse.

"Nothing of the kind ever occurred," he said emphatically.

Explains Why Germany is in the War—Three Main Causes

Mr. Carl D. Burtt, head of the German and college preparatory department of the high school, addressed the members of the Brotherhood of the First Trinitarian church last evening on a subject concerning the European war and analyzed the fundamental reasons why Germany is in the war. Mr. Burtt's well prepared address was very instructive. He struck the real reasons for the war more closely than any speaker who has yet attempted to explain them in this city.

The three main reasons presented were: First, the need of room for expansion for a people multiplying so rapidly in such a confined area, a need which the government does not want to meet by emigration after it has trained and educated the people to so high a degree of efficiency; second, the familiarity of the people with the army and navy as an integral part of the national life, developed to so high a degree of efficiency and with such thorough use of every available man throughout his period of active serviceableness as to give them a feeling that they are invincible; third, the turning of the Protestant part of Germany from religion because of the control of the church by the state, such a revolt always leading to the defilement of force and to a war of aggression and high handed robbery.

Power of Socialism
A fourth reason was the growing power of socialism by overcoming internal divisions through the appeal to defend the whole country from a foreign foe. This socialistic trend has been fomented particularly by the very thoroughness with which the people have been trained so that when they come to earn a living there is not the chance in their restricted area for all to get a reasonable return for the excessive effort by which they have been obliged to fit themselves.

It was his opinion and desire also that the present regrettable struggle continue till the dread disease of militarism be thoroughly removed, however great the cost of the surgery. This can only come by the exhaustion of both sides—a condition that must be yet a long way off, in view of Germany's far-sighted preparation. Such a conclusion was hardly expected when the address was opened by the remark that it was meant to fill the general American lack of information from the German point of view. Considerable surprise was expressed by Mr. Burtt over recent news in the Berliner Tageblatt that the landstrum, the last reserve from 37 to 45 years of age, have been called out. This must mean that the youth of Germany have been shot down to a larger extent than we had realized.

The election of officers resulted as follows: William H. Harvey was elected president; Orrin B. Randlett, second vice president; C. T. Upton, secretary; Thomas Ferguson, treasurer.

U. S. REPLY TO GERMANY

BERLIN, May 5.—The reply of the American government to the explanatory communication of the German foreign office regarding the sinking of the American steamer William E. Frye, by a German torpedo boat, was presented to the German government today by Ambassador Gerard. It follows:

"In reply to your note of the 5th of April to the government of the United States admitting the liability of the Imperial German government for the damages resulting from the sinking of the American sailing vessel William E. Frye by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich on January 25 last, I have the honor to say by your note that the legality of the capture and destruction, the standing of the claimants, and the amount of indemnity should be submitted to a prize court.

"Unquestionably the destruction of this vessel was violation of the obligations imposed upon the Imperial German government under existing treaty stipulations between the United States and Prussia, and the United States government by virtue of its treaty rights has presented to the Imperial German government a claim for indemnity on account of the resulting damages suffered by American citizens.

"The liability of the Imperial German government and the standing of the claimants of American citizens and the amount of indemnity are all questions which lend themselves to diplomatic negotiations between the two governments and happily his question of liability has already been settled in that way. The status of the claimants and the amount of indemnity are the only questions remaining to be settled and it is appropriate that they should be dealt with in the same way.

"The government of the United States fully understands that, as stated in your excellency's note, the German government is liable under the treaty provisions above mentioned for the damages arising from the destruction of the cargo as well as from the destruction of the vessel. But it will be observed that the claim under discussion does not include damages for the destruction of the cargo and the question of the value of the cargo, therefore is not involved in the present discussion.

"The government of the United States recognizes that the German government will wish to be satisfied as to the American ownership of the vessel and the amount of the damages sustained in consequence of her destruction.

"These matters are readily ascertainable and if the German government desires any further evidence in substantiation of the claim on these points in addition to that furnished by the ship's papers which are already in the possession of the German government, any additional evidence found necessary will be produced. In that case, however, inasmuch as any evidence which the German government may wish to have produced is more accessible and can more conveniently be examined in the United States than elsewhere on account of the presence there of the owners and captain of the William E. Frye and their documentary records and other possible witnesses, the government of the United States ventures to suggest the advisability of transferring the negotiations for the settlement of these points to the Imperial German embassy at Washington.

"In view of the admission of liability by reason of specific treaty stipulations it has become unnecessary to enter into a discussion of the meaning and effect of the declaration of London which is given some prominence in your excellency's note of April 5th further than to say that as the German government has already been advised the government of the United States does not regard the declaration of London as in force."

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

One should remember that most "supervision" is meddling, and that one does the child a real injury in correcting a mistake which, with a little more time and experience, he would have been able to correct for himself.

It is well to keep in mind also that little children, some of them at least, have a peculiarity shared by many of us adults, and that is a nervousness under even silent inspection. Even though we may refrain from actually interfering in the child's fumbling efforts to conquer his own lack of muscular precision, we may wear on him nervously if we give too close attention to his efforts.

The right thing is to show him; if necessary, what he is to do, and then, if it crosses his question so that he sets to work upon it, we will do well to busy ourselves somewhat ostentatiously, with something else in the room.

This spring brought out many smartly dressed children who paced up the avenue beside their elders on the way home from church, evidently conscious of dainty new finery, as older women would not dare to appear conscious of the same.

And all the little girls wore bejeweled coats. Sometimes there were but two ruffles, but often there were three, or four, or even six, gay, fluttering ruffles down the cuffs or belt. These ruffled coats did not fall to the knee, but were between knee and waist line, the frock of white lawn and embroidery showing beneath.

An enchanting little coat was of Edgewood blue mohair and worsted mixture with buttons of white pearl and six narrow ruffles of Wedgwood blue pussy willow hemmed, overlapping each other below a wide belt of blue suede. The little girl's hat was trimmed with blue cornflowers and her blue eyes matched the tones of her new costume.

For the little mother-to-be, there are a number of requisites, none of which should be forgotten. Plenty of night gowns, of extra amplitude, are, of course, the first necessity. Then come the pretty bed clothes, made with reference to the poetic attractiveness of motherhood.

In one instance all were of washable crepe, made with dainty and original touches. The nursing night gowns, by the way, are of unique designs, having a buttoned-over piece at the front for convenience in nursing. The bodice caps matched or pleasingly contrasted with the bed sacques, and one could readily imagine how prettily these will frame the sweet mother face.

Then, for the time when the home duties will be resumed, there is a order of house dresses made on the quota of kimono aprons, but having the buttoned front like the night gowns, so that baby's comfort shall be easily compassed.

Nowadays enlightened people realize that a child with broken down or painful teeth cannot masticate its food properly, and that the digestion will be impaired unless dental care is given. The following prescription is fine for a child's teeth, if compounded by a careful dentist:

Precipitated chalk, one ounce; powdered resorcin, powdered myrrh and powdered castile soap, each fifteen grains with a few drops of wintergreen added to flavor it. If a sweet taste is desired, a half grain of saccharin may be added to one ounce of powder.

Genuine castile soap and tepid water makes a good tooth wash. The following is also recommended for the same purpose: Boracic acid, one dram; tincture eucalyptus, five drams; absolute alcohol, four ounces; oil of peppermint, fifteen drops. Great care should be taken in brushing the teeth not to irritate the gums and make them bleed, as this will cause them to retract.

Without question there are children who are "pictures of health" and at the same time lazy enough to exasperate their parents and teachers. When it has been made sure that the picture of health is not a deceptive appearance, it is a time to look for their laziness, and not till then. Judging from the appearance of the schools, there are lazy children who have good health.

But the usual attitude toward indifference to work is hardly effective in making children get over it. To send a child to drive may help in getting a particular task finished, but is not very helpful in establishing habits of industry. By nature the child adapts himself very readily to the establishment of such habits. In the first place there are the instincts of activity, the native curiosity and the imitiveness. And in the next place, the ease with which repeated acts become organized into habits. Could anything be easier than to make a child get into the habit of doing something all of his waking time?

The making of little garments for the expected baby is lovely and fascinating work. Every stitch brings you closer to the little new comer. It is a good plan to lay out all your work in a systematic way. Make all the night gowns at one time, fold them carefully and put them away; then all the petticoats, and so on through the list. Keep pick-up work on hand to help while away the last long months.

Do not use the machine if you can avoid it; either have someone do the stitching for you, or be content to sew everything by hand. Put small flat buttons on everything and have no pins on your baby except for the napkin and stockings. Let simplicity rule the entire layette.

Design the dresses yourself, not with rows and rows of insertion, but with cunning rows of small hand-run tucks, tiny feather-stitching, daintily embroidered bow-knots or tiny sprays of flowers. Finish the necks with a soft binding and edge of tiny lace. Nain-sooks and the various soft, fine materials are suitable for dresses.

FINGER PRINT SYSTEM

LEADS TO IDENTIFICATION OF JOHN SMITH, ALIAS TEELON, OF LAWRENCE

The finger print system in vogue at the local police station, as well as at many other stations throughout the state, has solved another mystery and established the identity of the man arrested Monday by Lieut. Maher, who gave his name and address as John Smith, South Boston. The prisoner is Patrick Teelon, aged 35 years, of Lawrence, who has a long record, according to the Lawrence police, and H. C. Hall of the prison commission office in Boston. He is charged with the larceny of two pairs of shoes.

At the time of his arrest, Teelon was cross-examined by Lieut. Maher and Sept. Welch in regard to his right name but he vehemently claimed that it was John Smith. In court yesterday he again asked his proper name and promptly responded "John Smith." John J. Plender was then called to the front and after taking the prints of the man's fingers sent them to the office in Boston.

This afternoon a reply was received giving a complete record of the prisoner. Though he gave his name to the local police as he is registered as 25. He has appeared in the Lawrence police court 37 times for drunkenness, once for assault and battery, once for malicious mischief and once for stealing a horse and wagon. He was also being found guilty of breaking and entering and larceny in Manchester. Teelon gave the name of Fred Taylor.

TORPEDOING OF U. S. SHIP

Gulflight Was Flying "a Large American Flag" and Was Attacked "Without Warning"

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The American steamer Gulflight was torpedoed by a large American boat and was torpedoed "without warning" by a submarine whose nationality is not yet established, according to a cablegram received by Secretary Bryan today from Chief Officer Smith and Consul Agent Randolph.

American Ambassador Page reported that Lieut. John H. Tennyson, of the naval attaché of the American embassy at London and Naval Constructor McBride will make an investigation of the hull of the Gulflight now in charge of the British admiralty. It also entered the American coast at Plymouth to take deposits from the officers and crew of the ship.

The statement received in the state department from Chief Officer Smith was called originally to the owners of the vessel, the Gulf Shipping Co., who telegraphed it here today.

The statement of the first officer of the Gulflight and Consul Bandfield made public by Secretary Bryan follows:

"I am, Saturday heavy weather 12 miles west of Bishop, flying large American ensign following British patrolboat in chase. Ship was torpedoed without warning. Submarine was seen fifteen minutes ahead of 3:45 p. m. Submarine surfaced about 3:45 p. m. and fired three torpedoes. One hit the hull of the ship, causing damage on the starboard side. The ship was sinking rapidly. The crew and passengers were saved. The ship was abandoned. The cargo in tanks apparently undamaged."

THE TENT CATERPILLAR

If there are any tent caterpillars on the leaves of the tent caterpillar, or about your premises it is up to you to get rid of them either by personal endeavor or by calling to your assistance a professional caterpillar exterminator.

When in convenient reach the nests may be torn down with a brush, with a cloth, or otherwise, and the larvae crushed on the ground, care being taken to destroy any caterpillars which may remain on the tree. The caterpillars are readily destroyed by arsenicals sprayed on the foliage of the trees infested by them. In spraying for the tent caterpillar only, Chief Gordon says, applications should be made while the caterpillars are yet small, as these second stage quickly to poisons

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

AUNTIE'S NEW BLOUSE

"Where did auntie get that beautiful blouse?" questioned Marjorie enthusiastically, as she lovingly fingered the folds of a black net creation which Marie was shaking out preparatory to laying it away.

"The Paris of course," answered Marie. "Wherever else do you think you could get one like that?"

"It is a pretty novelty across the water," continued Marie. "To replace the linen blouse, which is worn less and less, this blouse is of black net without lining, crossed in surplice fashion and with short sleeves. As you can see, the daintiness of the fabric and ribbing underneath is revealed by this transparent corgage, which is of an indiscreet full of attraction, as well as the fineness of the net, which allows of its being worn with the most elaborate afternoon suits."

"Why," said Marjorie in a shocked voice, "how do they dare to wear them?"

"Well," rejoined Marie, "without wishing to displease conservative husbands, the transparent effects are becoming more and more daring. Here is an example," and Marie picked up a robe band of broadtail, the skirt draped very much toward the back. The lower part of the robe was in princess effect, extending up in a bit to the bust.

"It is here that the audacity of the gown is felt," continued Marie. "The shoulders and the sleeves are of black tulle, kimono shaped and unlined. Here the lingerie effect is left out underneath, and the madame goes about in this unusual décolleté. Luckily, her short coat is worn, since no robe today is seen unaccompanied by its coat."

"I suppose I shall come to it sometime," sighed Marjorie, "but I am sure I should be blushing every moment I had it on," and she rushed away to wonder at the astonishing freaks of fashion.

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

Much disease, trouble, suffering, depression and worry, usually blamed to other causes is due to constipation. Even chronic constipation can be corrected by care in the diet and proper treatment with a gentle laxative.

The use of harsh laxatives, unfortunately so common, gives temporary relief but in the end aggravates constipation. Pinklets are dainty sugar-coated granules, they act gently, causing no nausea or griping. They clear away the waste and prevent congestion. With a little persistence, which the result is well worth, Pinklets really correct chronic constipation.

An investigation was made and it was learned that there is no such number on Hildreth street and that none of the residents of the vicinity knew of an Albert Dalton. Supt. Welch

FITCHBURG TRIMS LOCALS

Pitcher Moses Proved Easy Picking for Noonan's Team and
Lowell Lost, 9 to 2

(Special to The Sun)

FITCHBURG, May 6.—Moses was selected to lead the Lowell team to victory over the Fitchburg Boosters, Wednesday afternoon, but the latter were all logged out in their batting clothes, and while they didn't drive the southerner to the dais they did hit him hard enough to win by a 9 to 2 score. Moses was found in the first, sixth and eighth innings, while Reiger aided by superb fielding on the part of his teammates held the Lowell outfit in check all the time.

The day was anything but favorable for baseball, but still over 500 fans, including a number of fair rooters, were in the stands. They were well repaid, if their sympathies were with Fitchburg, as the teams played clean, fast and snappy baseball. Fitchburg won by its hitting as there wasn't a fielding misplay until the ninth session, when Sherwood fumbled a hot grounder. It gave Lowell a run but had no effect on the result.

Both teams trotted out new twirlers. Moses was a tall individual from the south, who looked like Freddie Lake, although somewhat taller. He got a warm reception right at the start and seemed booked for the hook. He didn't get it, as the Lowell manager evidently believed in allowing the recruit to take his medicine. He got it all right as Manager McCune kept urging the Boosters to exert themselves to the utmost. They responded with a will in the eighth and clinched a game that was theirs from the beginning.

Reiger was inevitable as far as hitting him safely was concerned but, like his friend, with the biblical name, he was wild and generous. He was in difficulty at times by hitting three and passing live so that Lowell succeeded in getting numerous men on the bases. When things looked the darkest the Fitchburg team braced and by brilliant fielding carried their twirler over the chin spots. Fitchburg fans liked the game. It was one-sided but as errors were scarce and hitting plentiful on the part of the home team the rooters found much to enjoy.

Fitchburg bunched its clouting. It got six hits in the eighth, and three in the first, so that nine of its 12 hits came in two innings. The hits came, not only in those innings but also in the sixth when a base on balls, a triple and a single netted two more runs. Lowell was held at bay except in the third and ninth when they got single tallies.

While the heavy sticking of Fitchburg was the feature, with every man on the team except Duggan getting one or more hits, there were several fielding stunts that stand out pretty prominently. Sweeney in right field for Lowell was forced to roam into the next town to get five flies, two of which robbed Clay of hits. Bill Smith did this period and Fitchburg went out in order in the third, fourth and fifth. He was working about his normal speed, however, as in the sixth Smith was passed. Clay made a great attempt at a home run but Sweeney was under the sign board in deep light and got the day. Sherwood also went out the same way. Then Sullivan drove a three-bagger to the center field fence, scoring Smith and came across himself when Duggan beat out a slow one to Moses. Reiger hit to Barrows. There wasn't anything doing in the seventh but the eighth was pitiful from a Lowell viewpoint.

Six hits, a base on balls and a sacrifice netted four runs. Every man on the team went to bat. Nearly all of them got hits. Clay opened with a two-bagger to center field fence. Sherwood put him on third by a neat sacrifice. Then came the deluge. Sullivan, Gaston, Reiger, Campbell singled in order, scoring four runs. Duggan walked only to be forced when Smith hit to Dee while McCleskey completed a double play by throwing to Meyers. The score:

TOOK NO CHANCE

Umpire in Pool Room
Shotgun

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6.—A baseball umpire who carries an automatic shotgun is a rarity in the North side. Ross Phasmatas, official umpire for the North Side Pool Hall teams, made his debut yesterday with his armament on the grounds just south of the court house.

The novel spectacle of a man standing in the center of a diamond pointing a shotgun at a runner whom he was attempting to halt and send back to second base because of a ground rule providing that a runner take only one base on a passed ball, attracted Prosecuting Attorney Jacobs as he looked out of his office window. Inquiry developed that the runner counted to be official; umpire only on the consideration that he be allowed to carry something with which to defend himself.

RECORD WON'T GO

Kolehmainen Robbed of
cent Ruling

Failure to comply with the new rules regarding track measurement will rob the name of Kolehmainen of the American record for 15 miles which he made without the shadow of a doubt at the games of the Monuments at Colde park on Sunday. By a small vote the Amateur Athletic union recently verified the new rule of track measurement, which states that tracks shall be measured 12 inches from the curb instead of 18 inches. Thus, unless the competitors ran over the regular number of laps the course was bound to be short. The officials of the Irish American A. C. did not think enough of the new rules to alter the track before the meet and not one of the foregoers to send Kolehmainen the extra distance so that his record might be valid.

This is a distinct injustice to Kolehmainen, as the Plan continued in the race long after it was apparent that the excessive handicaps gave him no chance of winning a prize. Instead of running the pound of flesh, and the fact that Kolehmainen ran on the very track on which Crowley made his record, and that all the records in the world will not avail if he claims a new mark. Although not comparing with the world's record made by Appleby of England, Kolehmainen's time of 44:14 is a real thing, and considering that the distance is unusual would probably have stood for some time. What made it even less than 44 minutes on paper was the fact that the track was in poorer condition than it had been for some time.

JIM COFFEY WON BOUT

DUBLIN GIANT KNOCKED OUT AT REICH IN THIRD ROUND AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 6.—Jim Coffey, the Dublin Giant, knocked out Al Reich, the New York heavyweight, in the third round of what was to be a round bout at Madison Square Garden last night.

After two rounds, in which Coffey had a slight lead, his aggressiveness caused Reich to break ground in the third round. Reich left hand and a right smash to the jaw and a hard left to the stomach as Reich was falling were the blows that decided the fight.

Coffey forced the pace in the first round. Reich opened the second with a rush and after some sparring crossed a right to the chin, stopping Reich. Coffey managed to keep Reich away with left jabs for a while, but Reich broke through with another blow on the chin that sent Coffey to the ropes. Coffey came back with a rush, landing a straight left that knocked Reich down. Reich got up, but Reich's chin took a four Reich assumed the defensive in the third.

$30,000 FOR BOLT

Johnny Corbett, manager of Young Corbett when the latter won the featherweight title from Terry McGovern, is matchmaker of the local club. He expects to enter with both Willard and Smith before the end of the week, the vandeville schedules bringing both here. Smith out-pointed Willard in a similar bout in California a year ago last winter.

RIVALS FOR "BASE BURGLARIZING" CHAMPIONSHIP OF JOHNSON CIRCUIT

MILAN MAISEL

NEW YORK, May 3.—Two players who are sure to cause consternation among opposing backstops in the American league this season are Fritz Maisei, the fleet footed third sacker of the Yankees, and Clyde Milan, who holds down a position in the outer works of the Washington brigade. Both these "birds" are "some pumpkins" at base thieving. They count that day lost which does not net them at least one haseock to add to their total, and a bag of three or four is not an unusual performance for either. Until the advent of Fritz, Milan was wont to battle for the "burglary" honors with T. Raymond Cobb of Detroit, and Milan sprint to keep up with.

not infrequently he pestered the great Ty. Now, however, Cobb is passe in this particular line. He has decided that this season, leaving the field to the Washington and New York entries, Maisei led the league last year in this department with seventy-eight bases to his credit. This season he is out to make 100, and if he achieves his ambition he will have earned a place for himself in the baseball "hall of fame" and his name will go ringing down the ages along with those of Rustie, Anson, Mathewson, Cobb, et al. Incidentally he will set a pace that will make even the "deer footed" T. Raymond Cobb of Detroit, and Milan sprint to keep up with.

Put your ear close to the ground

every time you see a man drawing real joy out of a jimmy pipe, for it's better than a five-to-one shot he's smoking Prince Albert, the tobacco high spot.

You, like a whole lot of men, never will know what a barrel of fun can be dug from a pipe or a makin's cigarette until Prince Albert passes your piazza!

For it can't bite your tongue, and it can't parch your throat. That's why men the nation over know their business when they demand

the national joy smoke

You should know this brand is made by a patented process that removes bite and parch. And let it drift in that you can fire-up P. A. until the cows come home and it just won't make your tongue tingle!

So, you men with a sad pipe past, come around sometime and sort of get acquainted with Prince Albert. Let the light of jimmy-pipejoy unfold into your soul. You'll wonder why you didn't wake up earlier and hear the robins sing in the old cherry tree.

Get started on the tidy red tin, then you'll graduate to the crystal-glass pound humidor with the sponge-moistener top that keeps your P. A. fine like silk. A lot of men do that thing!

Buy P. A. in any neck of the woods. 5c toppy red bags; 10c tidy red tins; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and that classy pound crystal-glass humidor.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

This is Charles Blow, of Dundee, Ill., who tips the age scales at 94 years. Mr. Blow is today, and always has been, a man who smoked his pipe liberally—and enjoyed it mightily. Mr. Blow qualifies for the Prince Albert "old-time smokers' club" and has been elected to full-fledged membership. We would like to hear from other old-time smokers.

MANSFIELD SEES PAY FOR SERVICES RENDERED THE GERAGHTYS

BOSTON, May 6.—Frederick W. Mansfield, ex-state treasurer, has brought suit in the Suffolk superior court against Mrs. Julia French Geraghty and John E. Geraghty, whose marriage followed an elopement, for $500 for services as an attorney from Feb. 24, 1913, to Dec. 22, 1911. He wrote letters in various cases in which defendants figured, he alleges, and represented them in court, conferred with them at their home in Woburn and on the telephone and advised them in regard to legal matters.

Richard H. Evans sues D. Whiting & Sons, milk contractors, for $25,000 damages, alleging he suffered from typhoid fever from drinking alleged unfit milk. He bought the milk in lunch room Aug. 1, 1913. The milk was known as pasteurized milk.

Hansom B. Fuller of Brookline, president of the Boston Insurance company, sues Alden H. Spaulding of Newton for $10,000 for damages to his automobile, which was in collision with the defendant's Dec. 11, 1913, on Commonwealth ave., Newton.

WHAT DYSEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE
"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia at Leggett's pharmacy or from any druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if you are not right."

the employ of the defendant at Gardiner, Me., Dec. 11, 1914.
Yvonne Booker sues H. P. Hood & Sons, milk dealers, for $500 damages for injuries caused by swallowing a piece of glass in drinking milk.
Mary A. Bullard of Brookline sues the Boston Elevated Railway company for $50,000 for injuries caused by a collision between her automobile and a car in Commonwealth ave., near Sherborn street, Feb. 20, 1915. Her daughter, Jane W. Bullard, who is alleged, was also hurt, sues for $10,000.
Jacqueline M. Green of Weston is involved in litigation with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company over two trunks containing clothing and other things, including a teddy bear. Suit was entered yesterday. She seized the goods on a writ of replevin from the company.
Grace M. A. Sullivan filed a suit in the superior court yesterday against the New England Telephone and Telegraph company for $10,000 damages for an alleged shock in using a telephone, Feb. 25, 1915, at her home. Her mother is a subscriber. She alleged she suffered great pain from the electric shock.

SHAVES 84 IN ONE HOUR

MANCHESTER BARBER SETS NEW RECORD—NOT A DROP OF BLOOD DRAWN DURING EXHIBITION

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 6.—Jas. Guimont, a Manchester barber, has established a record in shaving 84 men in one hour. The feat was performed at the shop of Hormidas Pellerin, Monday night, and was witnessed by a large crowd.
The performance came about through the belief on the part of Mr. Guimont that he could surpass the record of a Boston barber who shaved 62 men in 60 minutes. Mr. Guimont went him 22 better, and the shaving was done so neatly that not a drop of blood was drawn on one of the men shaved.

BOLSTER IS REARRESTED

YOUNG EASTON FARMER WILL BE ARRAIGNED ON CHARGE OF MURDERING LAWRENCE MAN

HOULTON, Me., May 6.—At a special session of the Houlton municipal court, held at the county jail last night before Recorder Stetson, Harry Bolster, the young Easton farmer, charged with the murder of John Finney of Lawrence, Mass., at Easton last October, was formally discharged on motion of County Attorney Archibald, but was immediately rearrested by Deputy Sheriff Lawlis on a warrant issued by Trial Justice Fessenden of Port Fairfield, charging murder. The hearing will be held at Port Fairfield. This is done in order to save the county the expense of bringing witnesses to Houlton.

IS GUILTY OF PERJURY

FRANK D. SAFFORD, HOTEL CLERK CONVICTED AFTER JURY DELIBERATED SEVEN HOURS

NEW YORK, May 6.—A verdict of guilty was returned late last night against Frank D. Safford, the aged hotel clerk of the Hotel Kensington, in Plainfield, N. J., who was charged with perjury in connection with proceedings growing out of the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Rae Tanager against James M. Osborne, widely known criminal lawyer. The jury deliberated more than seven hours.

Considerable excitement followed the announcement of the verdict. After Judge Hough had left the bench, Assistant United States District Attorney Roger B. Wood, who conducted the prosecution and Benjamin Slade of counsel for the defense, engaged in a wordy passage. A disturbance followed which deputy marshals finally quelled, clearing the crowd from the court room.

Judge Hough said he would make an investigation into the occurrence, in which it was reported two of the jurors were involved.

The jury in convicting Safford recommended him to the mercy of the court and asked he be dealt with leniently. He will be brought up for sentence on Monday next. It was learned after court adjourned that trials of the six remaining persons under indictment in connection with the case revolving around Mr. Osborne will be begun forthwith. The first to be tried, it was stated, would be Miss Tanager herself.

MORE THAN 3300 HORSES FOR ARMIES OF ALLIES GOING OUT THIS WEEK

BOSTON, May 6.—More than 3200 horses for the armies of the allies will be shipped to England this week from Boston.

The Leyland line steamship Colanion which sailed yesterday afternoon for Avonmouth and London, carried 597 head. The horses came by rail from different points in the west. The Leyland line steamships Cambrian and London, which will leave tomorrow for London and Manchester respectively, and the Bohemian, sailing Saturday for Liverpool, will also carry horses. The Cambrian will take about 700, Ninian 500 and the Bohemian about 900.

It is understood that 20,000 more horses for the British army will be shipped from Boston by steamers of the Leyland line.
Bringing the largest and most valuable shipment of wool ever shipped to Boston, the British steamship Colusa, under charter to the White Star line, is expected to arrive in a few days from Australia. The vessel picked up her immense cargo at Newcastle, Melbourne, Port Pirie and Brisbane, sailing from the latter port April 1. She followed a course through the Panama canal, cutting off about 2000 miles from the old route. The distance via the canal is about 2000 miles. The cargo of the Colusa consists of 22,000 bales, valued approximately at $1,500,000. The entire cargo is consigned to Boston importers.
The former British bark Rakata, now at this port loading a cargo of spruce deals for England, has been changed to American registry and her name changed to Ruth Spark, after a daughter of a Boston merchant who is one of the stockholders in the vessel.
Light receipts of fish yesterday caused a sharp advance in prices. Dealer quotations were as follows: Steak cod, 5 1/2 cents per pound; market cod, 4 3/4 cents; haddock, 6 1/4 to 7 3/8 cents; steak, pollock, 5 1/2 cents; large hake, 4 1/4 cents; medium hake, 2 1/2 cents; steak, cusk, 2 1/4 cents.
Because of the heavy movement of wool and other freight from New York to Boston, the steamer Herman Winter of the Metropolitan line, made an extra trip last evening. The steamer arrived in the morning and was rushed back to the metropolis last evening.
The Norwegian steamer Falk arrived yesterday from Manzanillo, Cuba, with a cargo of sugar for the Reverse Sugar Refining Co. Ord Jonassen, 3-year-old son of the captain, made the trip with his father and brought with him his bicycle. During the trip the boy rode his wheel on deck and became so expert that even when the vessel was rolling in a heavy sea he could maintain his equilibrium. Capt. Jonassen's wife and young daughter also accompanied him.

IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

THE ART OF SMILING

It was always believed by her friends at home that Cecil was not a pretty girl. She herself realized this fact perhaps more keenly than any of them. It might have worried her more than anybody suspected, but Cecil went her way in rather gloomy reticence, and was painfully lacking in self confidence.
It was two years later in the city, that Cecil was considered a very attractive girl by a new coterie of friends. Her hair remained the same, she dressed her own quiet way, and she did not adopt the latest modes in powders as did so many of her friends. Cecil was innately a quiet girl, and the city had not robbed her of her charm, but Cecil had learned to smile.
The smile sprang directly from the heart and was reflected in her shining eyes, as well as in the graceful curves of her lips and the showing of her teeth. Cecil was happy, she had learned to smile, and she was considered attractive.
The art of smiling is one of the most attractive of all a woman's wiles. The cold reserve of aristocratic lips never won the warmth and wholeheartedness from the world, as did the unaffected sweet smile of an other-wise plain girl.

NATURALIZATION SCHOOL SUPPLEMENTARY LISTS PHOTOGRAPHING AUTO RACE DRIVERS WITH CAR GOING NINETY MILES AN HOUR

FORMER SENATOR FISHER WAS THE INSTRUCTOR LAST NIGHT--NEXT WEEK'S PROGRAM

Former Senator Edward Fisher instructed the naturalization class at the Green school last night. It was the fourth in a series of ten naturalization lectures and the meeting was well attended. The speaker, among other things, told of the duties of a senator and gave other information for the benefit of the would-be citizen. Mr. Fisher has volunteered to conduct a special meeting on May 25, at which questions and answers of a reviewing nature will be given.

The speaker for next Wednesday evening will be Melvin G. Rogers, who will speak on "Town Government." Men are asked to be present promptly at 7:30 o'clock in order that they may get the full benefit of the meeting and also that the meeting may not be delayed.

PAWTUCKET CHURCH SOCIABLE

There was a large attendance at the regular monthly social of the Pawtucket Congregational church last evening. At 7 o'clock supper was served under the general direction of Mrs. Stanley J. Garrett and was followed by a comedy sketch entitled "Her Deaf Nanny." The following took part: "Annie West," her niece, Miss Ethelred Williams; maid, Miss Esther Douglass; "Reginald Blair," Jefferson Mansfield; "Jack Gay," Alonzo Putnam, Jr.

THE SPELLBINDER

The classic expression of former Commissioner Brown to former Mayor O'Donnell, in public meeting: "You need a good punch in the snout," upon which horrified newspaper critics commented at length, is but more nursery prattle compared with the language that one hears at the meetings of this year's administration.

Talk about names thrown around the aldermanic chamber! From that of the Almighty, down the line: while the shorter and uglier ones have the preference.

When they present the scenes that characterized Tuesday's public meeting, what transcripts in those popular secret sessions must be left to the imagination.

Commissioner Putnam's Suggestion

Commissioner Putnam may not have meant to be sarcastic when he said: "Let's hear from the lawyers on the question," when the council was wrangling over the legality of a bid presented, but it could not seem as if "Put" could resist the temptation to hand one to his colleagues, inasmuch as with three lawyers on the board this year there has been more wrangling over minor legal points and more talk of court proceedings in connection with the conduct of the city's affairs than ever before.

Charlie Needs No Help

At Tuesday's meeting when things were waxing warm, Commissioner Morse exclaimed: "Every knock is a boost for me. I can't make good on my own volition, then I don't want any newspaper to help me. You'll all see this fall what I've done this year and last year, too."

Thus, the commissioner positively refuses to have "goodness" thrust upon him, but goodness knows, if he will make good any old way, whether of his own volition or in spite of himself, the public will rise up and call him blessed; and he's doing pretty well at that, though he shouldn't compel us to wait until fall to see what he did last year. Street work generally deteriorates with age, and there are some people unkind enough to claim that some of this so-called macadamizing done last year will be in need of another coat of top-dressing this fall.

Chance for Section 20

Section 20 of the city charter, up to this year, has been apparently a useless embodiment of the municipality's code of rules. It reads as follows:

"No measure passed by the municipal council or by the voters, as provided in this act, shall require the approval of any court or of the attorney general, or shall be required to be published in order to become effective, unless otherwise provided in this act."

It begins to look as if henceforth about every measure passed by the municipal council would require the sanction of the courts or of the attorney general, jumping from the protests and hearings over bids, contracts, etc., that are filling the papers on the occasion of each meeting of the municipal council, not to speak of the new cemetery trustees' law, which has yet to be defined. These unseemly wrangles over contracts are not to be considered at all as they are a who's right or wrong, irrespective of natural outcome of the high-handed manner in which the city's business has been conducted in regard

PLEASE OUR READERS--NEW UNIVERSITIES DICTIONARY IS PRAISED FOR COMPLETENESS

The demand for 'The New Universities Dictionary' being offered by this paper continues unabated despite the fact that great quantities have already been distributed. Letters from many readers express in highest terms the general satisfaction which this remarkable book has given.

The twenty-five supplementary dictionaries giving the definition of words properly used in connection with commerce and law, war, golf, aviation, baseball and other forms of sports are esteemed with particular favor by individuals whose interests centers on one or the other of these specialized activities.

Another feature eliciting special comment is the splendid way in which the volume is illustrated with color plates and duotones. Included in these illustrations is an excellent photo of a submarine boat, that uncanny type of craft which has played such an important part in the present war in Europe, undergoing a sea test. Types of some of the most formidable battle-ships in the English, German and United States navies are also shown and various kinds of airships which also have figured so conspicuously in the military operations of the European armies are strikingly pictured in action.

Enforcing Speed Rules

Supt. Welch and other officers. I am informed, spent Sunday afternoon riding along the Pawtucket and Princeton boulevards in search of violations of the speed rules on the thoroughfares, using the new police auto as their means of locomotion. As yet there have been no complaints and hence it is assumed that there were no violations of the law.

But how about one week ago Sunday in Andover street? The police it is said were down that way one week ago and discovered some well known citizens speeding along more rapidly than the law allows. As yet the public has heard nothing from that trip, though it is said the material for a few prosecutions was there. Of course the man who owns an automobile and has a certain amount of political influence is different from the boy who shoots craps for a penny. If he is flush for a nickle, but the law is contemplated by the law-makers draws no distinction among its violators. Then there is that great unwritten law of the present administration: "Equal rights for all; special privileges to none."

The Auto Lettering Ordinance

The general public would think more of the members of the municipal council if they would cut out the "four-flushings" relative to the lettering of the city autos, repeal the present ordinance and not have the machines lettered at all. This bunch about amending the ordinance because it provides no penalty, and because there isn't room on the hoods of the machines for six-inch letters sounds rather ridiculous coming from men supposed to have a sufficient amount of gray matter to command a salary of $2500 per year. The ordinance has been deliberately violated and evaded in several of the departments, and the excuse is because there is no penalty attached for such violations. It shouldn't be necessary to threaten the city's public servants with a fine to make them obey the ordinances. They are sworn to the faithful performance of all their duties when they take office and one of their duties is to obey the ordinances. As far as providing means of identification is concerned it is useless to letter the machines "L. F. D." "L. P. D." or any other set of letters which may stand for a variety

The Five Biggest Men

Mayor Murphy has named his "five biggest men in Lowell" as trustees of the public cemeteries and surely they are men of some weight in the community: Messrs. John L. Robertson, the well known furniture dealer; John A. Gagnon, the druggist, and former member of the board of health; Simon B. Harris, auctioneer and former police inspector; William H. Rigby, assistant superintendent of the Merrimack Mill Co., and a decidedly popular mill official; and George H. Taylor of C. I. Booth's, a former councilman and alderman. Now that they have been appointed they probably will soon be asking the famous question of another great man of days gone: "What are we here for?" as it will take the courts to decide just what powers they have as a result of the extraordinary intelligence evidenced in framing the bill, under which they have come into office.

The appointment of Mr. Harris on the board of trustees will cause those who attended the recent lot-owners' meeting to recall that gentleman's attitude and remarks on that occasion. At that meeting, I have been informed, somebody made a motion that a committee of three, consisting of Mr. Charles Weston, Rep. Lewis and the secretary of the Federation of Churches be appointed to wait on the mayor and confer with him relative to his appointments on the board. Mr. Harris opposed the motion, stating that the mayor could be depended upon to use good judgment in making his selections and that he should not be dictated to or interfered with, or worse to that effect. The motion wasn't put into effect. Another gentleman at this meeting expressed concern that Mr. Harris appoint any but lot owners on the board, but now his fears are at an end.

The members thus appointed should now show their appreciation by heading off those petitions calling upon the mayor to be a candidate for a seat on the board of trustees. It has been fit to oppose the cemetery bill before the governor, in all probability, it would not have become law.

Now we may hear a host of candidates for the position of superintendent of cemeteries although from the personnel of the board of trustees the present one don't look bad for Supt. Duckworth, who at present is holding down the office in satisfactory manner. Messrs. Harris and Duckworth were members of one of Former Mayor Brown's several police commissions 1903, while it is understood that there are others on the board who are favorably inclined toward Mr. Duck-

PLANS FOR LOWELL DAY

OPENING OF WHITE WAY WILL BE GALA DAY FOR CITY OF LOWELL

The executive committee of the Lowell board of trade and the superintendents of the Bay State Street Railway Co. held a conference in the quarters of the board of trade late yesterday afternoon for the purpose of reaching some agreement as to the number of special electric cars to be used on Lowell day in bringing the suburban residents to the city, and also as to the distribution of these cars. After talking the matter over for some time it was decided that 40 or 50 electric cars of the jumbo type would be sufficient to care for about 10,000 people, the number that is expected to help the residents of this city in celebrating the opening of the new "white way," possibly on May 25.

According to arrangements special electric cars will leave the suburban towns and surrounding cities, some in the forenoon and others in the afternoon and no fare will be collected en route. Each passenger will be given a credential with the names and addresses of the business men who are contributing toward the expenses of the day, and with these credentials, later in the day, the visitors will be able to secure free tickets to return to their homes, providing they have purchased amounts equalling $2 or more while in Lowell.

It is expected that the day will be a notable one in the history of Lowell. The board of trade is making arrangements for some kind of entertainment during the day, while in the evening a banquet for the members of the organization will be held at the Casino, and at 8 o'clock Mayor Murphy will throw a switch in the banquet hall and all the lights along the "white way" will be turned on. Then, according to arrange-

While standing in front of the grain mill on Anne street yesterday afternoon, a horse owned by P. H. Donlan became frightened and dashed through Kirk street to the corner of John and Palis street, where it was stopped by a pedestrian. No damage was done to the wagon or contents.

SAYS SHE WAS OFFERED $300 TO CHANGE STORY

Celia Coleman Created a Sensation on Redirect Examination at Carman Trial

MINEOLA, N. Y., May 6.—Celia Coleman, the negro maid who is the chief witness for the state in the trial of Mrs. Florence Conkling Carman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise D. Bailey, created a sensation on redirect examination today by testifying that a negro detective named George Hicks had endeavored to induce her to change her story of the murder and told her that if she would do so Mrs. Carman would pay her $300.

"Hicks came to Charleston, S. C., where I was spending the winter," said the witness, "and told me Mrs. Carman would give me $300 if I would change my story."

Mrs. Carman's attorney objected to the admission of the testimony, but was overruled upon his admission that Hicks was connected with the defense. Mrs. Carman evinced considerable agitation during her former maid's testimony. George Foorner, Celia's cousin, and a man named Flood were present when Hicks made the alleged offer, the witness further testified.

ROOSEVELT ON STAND

Colonel Prevented From Giving Testimony in Regard to "Conditions in Albany"

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 6.—By a ruling made in the supreme court here today Theodore Roosevelt was prevented from giving testimony in regard to the "conditions in Albany."

Justice Andrews decided against the defense after counsel for the former President presented lengthy arguments setting forth the contention of the defense.

Col. Roosevelt resumed the stand immediately after the court ruled for the state examination in William Barnes' suit against him for libel.

"I don't care to have anything further to say to Col. Roosevelt," remarked Mr. Ivins with a smile. So, contrary to expectation, the colonel was not cross examined upon his testimony of yesterday.

Opening of court today was preceded by a low-voiced conversation between leading counsel for the litigants and Justice Andrews. Mr. Ivins leaning over the judge's bench and showing Justice Andrews a copy of a New York evening paper and also of a Syracuse paper.

When the conference was over Justice Andrews reiterated his warning to the jury about reading newspapers. Then counsel began their argument on the admissibility of evidence concerning local affairs in Albany. The jury was excused at the request of Mr. Ivins.

Mr. Bowers then quoted the last question asked the colonel yesterday. He argued that the evidence should be admitted in mitigation of damages. He quoted laws, cases and decisions and argued that the evidence should be admitted in connection with the question of malice.

Mr. Bowers said:

"I expect Col. Roosevelt will testify that Mr. Barnes bargained with one McCabe. I expect the defendant will testify that Mr. Barnes found places in gambling houses for men to work."

"It is a question of whether or not Mr. Barnes is guilty of corruption and it matters little whether it was in the state or the county. Might it not be that Col. Roosevelt told the truth about Mr. Barnes?"

Mr. Bowers then took up the statement complained of and discussed it fully. In regard to Charles F. Murphy, Mr. Bowers said Col. Roosevelt charged that they were morally and politically alike.

When Mr. Bowers concluded, Justice Andrews said:

"This is purely a question regarding the mitigation of damages. I agree with you that the defendant has a right to give any evidence which made him believe that the charge when he made it was true. He can tell any facts and anything he read."

"The evidence given, however, must

Sudden Increase to the Family of A. E. Johnston of Stevens St.

A. E. Johnston, the well known cabinet maker, whose residence is at 2 Stevens street, is wearing a very pretty smile and passing around cigars, and of course there is a reason and a valid one, too, for he is now the father of nine children, the number having been increased by three since Tuesday, as his wife gave birth to triplets.

The new arrivals, three boys, are sound and healthy and have already given evidence of perfect lung power. They are the pride of the parents. Their respective weights at the time of birth were 6 1/2 pounds, 5 3/4 pounds and 4 1/2 pounds. The Johnston family is now composed of seven boys and two girls.

O'SULLIVAN SAYS:

While in New York this week our buyer made a purchase of boys' all wool suits, with two pairs of pants, much under price. They are fancy grays and browns and about 30 blue serge in the lot. All have two pants lined throughout and were made to sell at $7.50. The price put on these suits by the Merrimack Clothing Co. is $4.95.

FIERCE BATTLE IN WESTERN GALICIA

Germans Gain in Belgium—Gen. Von Hindenburg's Army Invades Baltic Provinces of Russia—Allies Claim Victory in Dardanelles—Germans Sink Three More Ships

The battle in western Galicia, launched a few days ago with an Austro-German attack from the Cracow region, has developed into one of the greatest encounters of the war. Petrograd dispatches admit that the situation is a serious one, although it is asserted that the advance has been checked at Vienna and Berlin, however, it is claimed the Russians have begun a general retreat, that their whole position in the Carpathians is precarious and that the entire eastern campaign may turn on the events of the next few days.

Vienna critics say a desperate battle continued all day yesterday and that the Austrians and Germans took one position after another from the Russians.

German Invasion of Russia.—The German invasion of the Baltic provinces of Russia, which is regarded highly in Petrograd, is said in Berlin to be an important movement, under the personal direction of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg. His aim is believed to be the capture of Libau and Riga which would enable him to harass Russian communications with Petrograd.

Gains By Germans.—In Belgium further gains have been made by the Germans. The official French statement concedes that the Germans won positions on the disputed hill number 60 near Ypres, and that the British were able to retake only part of them. Sharp fighting is in progress elsewhere along the western front, but apparently with no decided changes.

Allies Claim Victories.—Reports of consistent progress on the part of the allied forces at the Dardanelles were contradicted in an official statement today from the Turkish war office. It was said the troops which landed in Gallipoli peninsula were in a precarious position, being encircled by Turkish forces and unable to advance. The statement was made that only two points on the peninsula—Seddul Bahr and Avl Burnu—were held by the allies.

Despatches from French and British sources said further successes have been won by the allies. An attack by Turks on the encampment at Kithia resulted disastrously for them, according to these advices, the Turks having left 1500 dead behind them after their repulse. A British correspondent asserted that the tip of the peninsula and the entire western side were under the control of the allies.

Italy and Austria.—Rome, Vienna and Berlin advices indicated that a crisis had come in the negotiations between Italy and Austria. In Rome, where it had been felt of late that war was inevitable there has been a sudden revival of hope of a peaceful settlement owing to the fact that Austria is said to have realized the necessity of making substantial territorial concessions. Vienna regarded as significant a visit of the Italian ambassador to the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister although the outcome was not disclosed. Berlin newspapers said that Italy's "participation in the war must be regarded as not unlikely."

Russians Defeat Turks.—Claims are made in Petrograd that the victory of the Russian army of the Caucasus over the Turks announced yesterday was an important and decisive one. A force of 30,000 Turks which attacked the Russians in the Dikman-Khor region was said to have been repulsed with heavy losses and compelled to retire in disorder.

Neutral Ship Blown Up.—Still another neutral steamer has been sunk by a mine or torpedo has not been established. The Danish vessel Cathay from Denmark for China was blown up but her passengers and crew numbering 43 escaped.

THREE MORE VESSELS SUNK BY GERMAN SUBMARINES.—LONDON, May 6.—The schooner Earl of Latham was sunk by a German submarine off Kinsale, Ireland, today. The crew were permitted to take to the small boats and were rescued by a trawler. The submarine fired nine shells at the schooner before it sank.

LONDON, May 6.—Word reached here today that the steamer Cathay has been sunk in the North sea by a German submarine. Before the vessel went down her crew took to the small boats and all were landed at Ramsgate today.

The Cathay was a Danish steamer. She was built in 1905 and was of 2506 tons and was owned in Copenhagen.

LONDON, May 6.—The trawler Stratton of Grimsby was sunk in the North sea yesterday by the gunfire of a German submarine. The crew was taken on board the submarine.

after whenever the direction of the wind is favorable to the Germans. British observers of the war, sifting all the news from the eastern arena of hostilities admit this morning that the German allies have inflicted several considerable local defeats upon the Russians on the western Galician front, but they point to the fact that the entire front has not been crushed as was at first claimed, and that the stubborn fighting is proceeding.

In view of the complexities of the situation there is comparatively little editorial comment in the London papers on the Chinese-Japanese situation. Nevertheless, there are indications that the public is acutely interested in the progress of the negotiations between Tokio and Peking.

Artillery hoisted in London today. The shots were not aimed at any one or any hostile caliber but were in honor of the 40th anniversary of the accession of King George to the throne.

Ally to Use Gas.—The proposal that Great Britain adopt measures for retaliation for the use of gases by the Germans took concrete form today. Joseph King, representing the north district of Somerset in the house of commons, announced his intention of introducing a resolution on this subject on Tuesday.

JUDGE ENRIGHT'S FINDING

HE AWARDS PLAINTIFF $250 IN CASE AGAINST ESTATE OF LATE J. W. FLETCHER

Judge Enright has filed a finding of $250 and interest for the plaintiff in the case of H. F. Askenasy, a Boston jeweler, vs. Charles L. Knapp, executor of the will of J. W. Fletcher, which was tried in the local police court on the afternoon of April 21. Charles J. Wier appeared for the plaintiff and Judge P. A. Fisher for the defendant.

It will be recalled that J. W. Fletcher, the plaintiff, was a Lowell man who died suddenly in his apartments in Boston. After his death the plaintiff filed his estate a bill for a diamond ring which he alleged was sold to Mr. Fletcher a short time before his death. The defence contended that the ring was not found among the deceased's property and that he either did not purchase the ring or that it was taken from his apartments. The ring was said to be valued at $250.

JAPAN TO CHINA

Ultimatum Reached the Japanese Legation Today, it is Reported

PEKING, China, May 6.—The ultimatum of Japan to China, reached the Japanese legation today. It probably was presented to the Chinese government this afternoon.

SECRETARY BRYAN RETICENT.—WASHINGTON, May 6.—Official despatches from Tokio and Peking received today indicated that while an ultimatum to China by Japan was considered possible the step actually had not been taken when they were sent. Secretary Bryan today continued his policy of refusing to discuss the far eastern situation or to reveal to any extent the department's advice. He said, however, that there had been no suggestion of mediation and refused to predict what the course of the United States would be. In other official quarters it was intimated that a tender of good offices would effectively follow a serious crisis and there was no official information at hand on which to base such action.

HELD PRETTY MAY PARTY

A charming May party was held in Lincoln hall last evening in aid of St. Margaret's parish, conducted by a bustling committee of ladies of that section. The affair was largely attended by young people from all over the city and, like all St. Margaret's parish affairs, it was a delightful event in every sense. The conventional dance order was omitted and dancing was on the assembly plan during the evening, adding much to the social success of the affair. Doyle's orchestra, hidden behind a mass of potted plants and greenery, played the latest New York hits.

Teas were served at intermission and on resuming dancing a cotillion dance was held, a veritable downpour of vort-colored confetti coming out of the gallery and as the tape twined about the dancers, the effect was really fascinating.

The lion's share of the credit for the affair must go to Miss Mollie Scannell, the general manager, whose personal effort contributed in no small way to its success. Assisting her were the

NEWS FROM CITY HALL AND DEPARTMENT WORK

Police Officers Commended for Efficient Service—Street Department Busy

The great big "gee-lighted" that cracks out from the iron-clad jaws of the terrible Teddy, author, soldier, sailor, cow-puncher, and a thousand other things, was never one whit greater than was the smile of delight that enfolded Charlie Morse's splendidly moulded countenance today when he told of the street watering contract being picked up again by the American Car Sprinkler company. Charlie admits that it would have put him to a sore test to have done all the street watering with the old horse-drawn carts. The fear was upon him that he might have to purchase a few automobile sprinklers, and he doesn't relish big purchases, not that he is niggardly in the expenditure of money appropriated for the use of his department, but especially because of the disposition on the part of his colleagues on the board to butt in and take the whole business out of his hands like they tried to do in the cement and paving block contracts. And, anyway Charlie said he had enough to bother him without having to mend broken contracts. Sewer breaks and things like that are in his line, he says, but when it comes to contract breaks he admits he is not as clever a mender as Teddy is a witness. But all's well that ends well. The street car sprinklers are making the rounds as of yore and there isn't any reason why Charlie and his colleagues shouldn't feel downright happy. They are all pulling down good salaries for doing precious little.

Let's Great to Be a Hero.—Abe Martin says that the fellow who performs plain duty these days is regarded as a hero, and Abe may be right about it, but when a police officer shows real signs of life it's not to be wondered at that his superior officers should sit up and take notice. All of which is apropos to a communication from Chief Welch to Mayor Murphy, commending the work of the officers mentioned. It read in part as follows:

Lowell, Mass., May 3, 1915.

"On the night of April 20, shortly after 11 o'clock, Patrolman Jerome Cullen observed two men in the rear of store premises in Middlesex street, and when he attempted to arrest both of them they broke away and ran. He followed one of them and, after considerable of a chase, arrested him on Dorchester street at the point of his rear. When he started to run he dropped a jimmy, a well made one, indicating that he had some knowledge of the work he was engaged in. When he was taken to the station he gave the name of John Bellefano, and residence as New York. He was finger printed and a copy of the same sent to the bureau of identification. O'Connell was arrested immediately identified as Mark Bruno, a resident of Boston with a long criminal record, he having served time in the state prison for the crime of burglary. On the night of April 21, one Michael O'Connell was arrested while breaking into the jewelry store of Mr. Finnegan on Central street, opposite the American house, at which a attack was made by breaking the glass in the front door, and he was engaged in filling his pockets from the goods on display in the front window, when placed under arrest."

On the morning of April 24, at about 1 o'clock outcries of a man in distress were heard from the end of the Merrimack river at the rear of the Merrimack mills. Patrolmen Cossette and Lemay secured a boat and left from the Little Canada shore and when out in the middle of the river they were met by a man in a small boat, who was joined by Patrolman Thos. O'Sullivan again pushed out in the direction from which the sound came at considerable risk to themselves, and succeeded in saving one John J. Riley, who was marooned on a stone in the middle of the river, on either side of which was a very high current. His companion, one Farrell, had been lost in the river by their boat capsizing, when Riley fortunately grasped the side of the rock. The rescue of this man I consider a daring piece of work, and an act that reflects considerable credit on the officers participating in the same."

Once more it is my pleasure to report that Patrolman Dooley arrested one Thomas E. McCaffrey as being the culprit who made the daring break into the jewelry store of Henry Lavallee, 684 Merrimack street, after midnight, April 30. Officer Dooley found the suspect on Middlesex street endeavoring to dispose of the jewelry secured from the store the night before. Mr. Lavallee when brought to the station, readily identified the jewelry found in the possession of the defendant as being his property.

Respectfully submitted,
Redmond Welch,
Superintendent of Police.

In a reply Mayor Murphy expresses his appreciation of the work done by the officers as set forth in the communication of Supl. Welch and asking that his commendatory note should be read to the officers at roll-call.

Oiling the Streets

Commissioner Morse stated today that he expects to get through with street oiling in Belvidere this week and then he will move the oilers to Centralville. The scope being taken in at the present time extends from Andover street to Park street, to East Merrimack, to Nesmith. The oilers are now at work in Gorham street between Maple and Manchester streets and when they finish there they will start in between Cabot and Pawtucket streets in Merrimack street. The Merrimack street job will be quite a big one as the distance from Cabot street to Pawtucket street is a little more than a quarter of a mile and the street varies from 57 to 52 feet in width. Work on the paving in Westford street was received yesterday and a second car arrived today. The cement has been tested and is now ready for use.

For Better Sidewalks

A few days ago City Engineer Kearney sent out letters to abutters in Merrimack street, from Dutton street to Merrimack square, and in Central street, from Merrimack street to Middlesex street, advising them that if they cared to co-operate with the city in the installation of better sidewalks in front of their premises, the city would be willing to stand half the expense. In view of the fact that the sidewalks are being torn up more or less, in connection with the installation of the white way it was deemed advisable to make the changes at this time if any were intended and according to the letters received by Mr. Kearney the abutters are ready and willing to co-operate with the city in the proposed improvements.

MUST DIE IN CHAIR

Governor's Council Refuses to Commute Falzone's Sentence

BOSTON, May 6.—Rialto Falzone of Wakefield, who, with two others, lured Maurice A. Albertson, a Lawrence jewelry peddler, to a shack in Wakefield last year and murdered him, will die in the electric chair some day next week.

All hopes of Falzone escaping the death chair disappeared yesterday, when the governor's council after a hearing voted, with but one dissenting vote, to turn down Falzone's application for the commutation of the death sentence pronounced upon him to life imprisonment.

Councilman Buckley of Boston was the only member of the council to favor commutation. The parole board recommended commutation, setting forth the disparity in the sentences given the three men who were implicated in the crime.

John W. Connolly, counsel for the condemned man, appeared before the council to plead for executive clemency. He based his plea on the ground that neither of Falzone's two partners in crime had been made to pay the extreme penalty. Ignazio Morelli, he stated, had been let off with a life sentence, while Luigi Grassano, who he declared was the guiltiest of the three, was given a minimum sentence of five years.

Falzone will be told of the council's action today.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sorrowful complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, has patented a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Letter No. 4 From the Turner Centre Creamery

We have been selling our pasteurized milk at retail in Lowell about a month. The trade is steadily growing. Everyone likes the milk. There is some complaint because we cannot get to everybody before breakfast time. We find it hard to convince prospective customers that our milk will keep over night and be as sweet and fresh for breakfast as it is delivered with in 30 minutes. We wish to say to those who have ice that we can give the best satisfaction to deliver at a time when you are up to receive it and take care of it. The milk will take more damage in an hour on the doorstep than it will in a day in an ice chest. Our milk is pasteurized. It will keep sweet and fresh in your ice chest for at least 48 hours. It has no "off" smell nor "off" taste. It is rich Jersey milk and it is SAFE.

Mayor John A. Small vetoed the list of volunteer firemen, who have been serving since that time. No further action can be taken until the meeting of the board next week.

The regular firemen, who are paid men, struck for an increase in pay from $50 a year to $75. Volunteers then took their places at the old rate of pay, although it was claimed at the meeting last night that the regular firemen have helped the new members.

Mayor Small instructed the chief of the fire department to confer with the regular firemen and have them respond to a second alarm in the event of a fire.

NASHUA POLICE RECOVER $80 OF $100 STOLEN FROM TRUNK OF HARRY A. WENTWORTH

NASHUA, N. H., May 6.—Inspector Walter Dean last night recovered $80 of the $100 belonging to Harry A. Wentworth which was stolen from a trunk in a room over Wentworth's stable on Garden street, April 27. The police say a 12-year-old boy admits taking the money, which he hid in a hole in the ground on Elm street.

He spent part of the money for a bicycle, which directed suspicion to him.

MRS. CHURCHILL LOSES

WIFE OF NOVELIST WAS CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT OF STATE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

CONCORD, N. H., May 6.—Mrs. Winston Churchill, of Cornish, wife of the novelist, was presented yesterday as a candidate for president of the State Federation of Women's clubs by delegates favoring equal suffrage, but was defeated by Mrs. Annie B. Shepard of East Derry. She received 36 votes as against 96 for her opponent.

The entry of Mrs. Churchill into the contest came as somewhat of a surprise as all political issues had previously been barred.

MINISTER HEAD OF POLICE

MAYOR BLAKELY OF MALDEN REQUESTS REV. DR. MOSS TO TAKE OFFICE

MALDEN, May 6.—Rev. Dr. Charles H. Moss, pastor of the First Baptist church, a leader in the liquor and vice crusade here last summer, was asked yesterday by Mayor Blakely to take the office of police commissioner, but he has not yet decided to accept.

Twice the aldermen have failed to confirm Edward H. Tate as commissioner to succeed Frederick A. Rhoades. The mayor believes the board will confirm Dr. Moss.

Yesterday afternoon the mayor stated his determination to prevent illegal liquor selling, which he believes exists here to a great extent.

R. R. CLERKS MAY QUIT

EMPLOYEES OF N. Y., N. H. & H. BALLOTING TO DETERMINE ON STRIKE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 6.—The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad are balloting over the entire system to determine whether or not the men shall leave their work because of alleged conditions now existing.

The clerks' organization claims a violation of the agreement signed with the road two years ago that an adjustment had been made by the federal board of arbitration.

The discharge of a clerk in Hartford has, it is understood, brought the grievance to a head. The Brotherhood has had a committee at New Haven seeking to take the matter up with Gen. M. C. L. Barber. The result of the ballot will be known before the last of this week.

NUCKOLS FINED $100

Widely Known Driver of Trotting Horses Paid Fine and Was Re-instated Yesterday

NEW YORK, May 6.—Napoleon Nuckols of Cleveland, a widely known driver of trotting horses, was fined $100 by the board of review of the National association today. The fine was the outcome of an investigation of the trouble at a race meet in a Rockport, Ohio, last year, when Nuckols refused to permit the judges to substitute a driver for his horse Andral.

Upon payment of the fine assessed yesterday Nuckols was reinstated.

According to the man's story, which he repeated in court yesterday morning, he is a Portland, Me., newspaperman and was here on a wager that he would steal goods worth $1, get away with it, and then write a story on how easy the Boston police are.

HE SCORES PROHIBITION PLEAS FOR LOMBARD

PRES. SAMUEL GOMPERS SAYS IT WOULD BE A "CRIMINAL ERROR"

BOSTON, May 6.—Prohibition would be a criminal error, according to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who arrived in Boston last night from Amherst, Mass. President Gompers refused to discuss the attitude of the local labor organizations in regard to prohibition, but said that he believed the liquor traffic will be regulated in the future more than it ever has been.

At Amherst yesterday Mr. Gompers spoke to 300 mechanics and laborers in the morning and addressed 700 students and members of the faculty of Amherst Agricultural college in the afternoon.

Today he will go to Haverhill to speak at a mass meeting of the Central labor union, attending a banquet in the evening. President Gompers will return to Boston on Friday and confer with local labor leaders on local matters, leaving for New York on Saturday.

EFFORT MADE TO FREE THE FRAMINGHAM FORGER—CLAIM HE HAS INCURABLE DISEASE

BOSTON, May 6.—Evidence to show that the prisoner is suffering from an incurable disease and that he never personally benefited from forgeries which caused his imprisonment, was presented to the pardon committee of the governor's council before which opened the pardon case of John E. Lombard, the former Framingham town treasurer, yesterday.

Lombard was sentenced to serve a minimum of 10 years in state prison as the result of forgeries, which cost the town of Framingham between $200,000 and $300,000.

At yesterday's hearing a report of Dr. Joseph I. McLaughlin, physician at the state prison, was read. Dr. McLaughlin pronounced Lombard to be suffering from arterio-sclerosis, which is a hardening of the arteries.

William Walsh, deputy sheriff of Middlesex and former selectman of Framingham; Dr. Lewis M. Palmer, O. O. Davis and George T. Stevens, all of Framingham, spoke for Lombard.

"Babe" Christo, one of Lowell's prominent waterweights, is working on the night shift at the U. S. Cartridge Co. "Babe" has met and defeated some good men this season and says he is willing to meet any boy in the world who can make his weight. He is a brother of "Joe," who acquired fame a few years ago in marathon circles.

Carpenters' Union, Local 1610
The Carpenters' Union, local 1610 held a largely attended and interesting meeting in the union headquarters in the Runels building last evening and considerable business of importance was transacted. Nothing was said relative to the agreement with the contractors which expires May 6. Two new members were admitted and several applications were turned over to the investigating committee. A number of reports were read and accepted as progressive and a bunch of communications were turned over to the secretary for proper disposal. The business agents report showed the majority of members steadily employed and the secretary reported the union to be in excellent financial condition.

Nearly 40,000 women employed by the jewelry trade in the Birmingham district in England were thrown out of work due to the war.

SHE GAVE HERSELF UP

BROCKTON WOMAN UNDER ARREST ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO MURDER MAN

BROCKTON, May 6.—Mrs. L. A. Lombardi, 26, a chocolate dipper, living apart from her husband, is under arrest on the charge of assault with intent to murder Placido Pergamasco of about the same age.

Mrs. Lombardi makes a serious allegation against the man. She shot at him as she started to enter the A. E. Little & Co. factory this morning and then calmly walked to the police station, not far away, and gave herself up. Pergamasco was not severely wounded, receiving the revolver bullet in his hand as he tried to prevent the woman from shooting.

"Babe" Christo, one of Lowell's prominent waterweights, is working on the night shift at the U. S. Cartridge Co. FULTZ WINS DEBUTANTE
SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., May 6.—When Attorney David L. Fultz, head of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, played ball in this place 17 years ago, he in sport pushed a friend's baby carriage through the streets.

"I'm going to wait for you," remarked Fultz, as he cuddled the pretty little girl occupant under the chin.

Mr. Fultz's engagement to that same child, one of the prettiest debutantes of the season, was announced this week.

Mr. Fultz attended a reception here on New Year's given by Mr. and Mrs. William Lauder. He was introduced to Miss Ida M. Verlin and it was love at first sight.

He did not know it at the time, but the girl he loved was the babe he had cuddled in her infancy.

The marriage will take place in June.

BANQUET AT WAVERLY ANNUAL MAY PARTY

Members of the local division of the A. O. H. gathered last evening, to the number of about 120, at the Waverly hotel at a complimentary banquet to their visiting national president, Joseph McLaughlin. James O'Sullivan presided as toastmaster, and speeches were made by President McLaughlin, Mayor Dennis J. Murphy, State President John F. Donnelly and Capt. Dinnon of Boston. The addresses were on Irish and American subjects and were characterized by earnestness and loyalty to the flag.

Preceding the banquet a great mass meeting was held in Hibernian hall, attended by hundreds of Hibernians from all local divisions. President McLaughlin made a stirring address, speaking for almost one hour, and made an excellent impression on his audience. The meeting and banquet were under the auspices of the Central council, A. O. H.

HOOF DISEASE STOPPED

UNITED STATES QUARANTINE MAY SOON BE LIFTED BUT CARE IS NECESSARY

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Though believing the foot and mouth disease epidemic practically wiped out in the United States, the agriculture department is not relaxing vigilance. Like typhoid fever, its victims sometimes spread infection after they themselves are cured and it will be some time yet before the quarantine will be lifted entirely.

Defending the slaughter of more than 140,000 animals during the war on the disease, the department cites the case of Germany where the disease has been allowed to gain such a hold at times that the slaughter of exposed animals could not be resisted to. In 1911, for example, it was estimated that there were 3,663,369 head of cattle, 1,602,927 sheep, 2,553,271 pigs and 53,474 goats suffering from the disease in Germany. The pestilence a perpetual drain on the farmers. There are more than three times as many of these animals in the United States as in Germany and the consequences of allowing the disease to get such a foothold are obvious.

BIG SHIPMENT OF GOLD

FRANCE WILL SEND $10,000,000 HERE AS PAYMENT FOR GOODS—FEAR SUBMARINE ATTACK

NEW YORK, May 6.—Ships sailing from France to this country during the next two weeks are likely to afford a very inviting target to German submarines, as the Bank of France is preparing to ship $10,000,000 in gold to this country during that period for the payment of supplies purchased here. These shipments are in addition to the $2,000,000 in gold received from that source last Tuesday.

All told $13,300,000 has been withdrawn from the Bank of France within the last two weeks and while no official announcement has been made it is understood in banking circles that all the money will be sent to New York.

The greatest secrecy, however, is being maintained as to the date of the shipment and the names of the vessels selected as carriers, because of the danger of inviting submarine attack.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY

WEYMOUTH, May 6.—Joseph E. L. Miller of Weymouth was held in $1500 for the grand jury by Judge Cook in the Quincy district court yesterday on the charge of manslaughter, and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, causing the death of Chief of Police Patrick Butler of Weymouth on the night of April 15. The case was continued to Saturday, as Miller had but one bonesman present.

MOTORCYCLE HONEYMOON

A motorcycle unexpectedly carried Mr. and Mrs. Willett Seaman of Minneapolis, N. Y., on their honeymoon trip. Seaman and Miss Helen Downs rode to the home of Justice of Peace Dodge, where they were married. Then they discovered that they had just missed the train which was to convey them to New York. "Never mind," said the bride. "You start the motor and I'll hop on behind." So within a few minutes they were chugging away in the direction of New York.

FORMER U. S. SENATOR ARRESTED IN AUSTRIA

VIENNA, May 6.—Former United States Senator Lafayette Young of Des Moines, Ia., accompanied by a former deputy American consul at Bern, Switzerland, was arrested at Innsbruck, Austria, yesterday on a suspicion of espionage directed against Mr. Young's companion.

Mr. Young was promptly released with apologies after a few hours' detention in his hotel, but his companion was held in custody in the hotel until today before he was able to satisfy the suspicions of the authorities who apparently had been warned to look for a man of the same name.

Mr. Young arrived in Vienna this morning. Speaking of the incident, he said he saw no reason for complaint. He left later in the day for Berlin.

CAR SPRINKLERS

The Company Reaches an Agreement With the St. Ry. Union

Back to the sheds with the horse-drawn watering carts. The car sprinklers are in operation again and just for that 14 men are off the water wagon today. The American Car Sprinkler company had smashed its street watering contract with the city, but the break is mended. It was Commissioner Morse who announced that the company had put the Gatch to hold on the contract and it seemed to Mr. Morse as if it was even more serious than the break in the Tanner street sewer. The company had given up "all of a sudden" and Mr. Morse proceeded to get his old watering carts in line. Because of disuse the fires were loose on most of the cars and they had to be soaked well in order to tighten them. But when they were all ready for business Charlie Morse was pleased not only because they revived memories of by-gone days, but especially because he was able to provide seats on the water wagon for 14 men.

The resumption of operations by the car sprinkler company was due to a conference by Frank R. Perry, general manager for the company, and representatives of local 286, Street Railway Employees union. The conference was held last night and the agreement arrived at it is understood, was to the effect that union conductors employed on the sprinklers shall receive $16.50 a week. The company originally offered to pay $15.12 and the union asked $17.60.

ENGLAND TO PUNISH FOES

RECORD OF GERMANY'S OFFENSES KEPT, SAVES PREMIER ASQUITH IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

LONDON, May 6.—When the proper time comes due reparation will be exacted on those—whatever their position or their antecedents—if it can be shown that they have violated all the rules and usages of civilized warfare," said Premier Asquith in the house of commons last evening during the course of a debate on the treatment of British prisoners by Germany. He added that a careful record of events was being kept and of evidence which could be obtained in order that, when the proper hour came, proper punishment might be meted out.

The premier referred to the question of the neutral internment of prisoners which had been considered, Switzerland, he said, was the only country which could do so, and there were insuperable difficulties in the way of carrying out the proposals. "The duty of this country," concluded the premier, "is to preserve a clean record."

The question had been brought up by Lord Robert Cecil, who said he had received letters from officers who had been treated in a most inhuman manner by Germany because of the special treatment accorded German submarine officers by Great Britain. The British officers declared that they were locked up separately in cells, 12 by six feet, and were not allowed to smoke.

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, hoped that the country would no longer pay any attention to any convention which would prevent the war being brought to an end. It was worth considering, he said, whether, at the risk of losing all British property in Germany, they should concentrate every German article throughout the British empire.

IN POLICE COURT

Interesting Milk Case —Woman Requests Sentence to Jail

James E. Moody, manager of the Turner Centre Creamery, was found not guilty of having in his possession an unmarked vessel containing skimmed milk, by Judge Knight in the local court today. Melvin Masters conducted the case for the prosecution and William A. Hogan appeared for the defendant.

The prosecution alleged that a driver employed by Mr. Moody had a can of skimmed milk on the wagon which was not stamped according to law. The collector of milk samples, John J. Coughlin, took four samples from the defendant's milk can and after bottling them up, turned all over to Mr. Masters, milk inspector. At the time the driver informed Mr. Coughlin that one of the cans which he tested contained buttermilk.

Mr. Masters testified that he analyzed the four samples and found three all right and one to be skimmed milk. Under cross-examination, however, he said that skimmed milk and buttermilk analyzed exactly the same and that there was no law compelling milk dealers to label receptacles filled with buttermilk. His Honor did not believe that the prosecution had shown that the milk in question was skimmed and not buttermilk and ordered the defendant discharged.

Five of seven offenders before the court for drunkenness this forenoon were visitors to the city, one coming from Maline, two from New Hampshire and one from Biberica. The latter was a middle-aged woman who was recently released as a first offender. When questioned by the court, she said that she had been drinking cider in the suburban town and came to Lowell yesterday to get some beer for a change. Judge Knight decided to put the woman on probation and she started for Probation Officer Slattery's office but returned shortly and asked to be sent to jail, in order to overcome her craving for liquor. At her own request, his Honor imposed a 20 days' sentence to the Lowell jail. Peter Jaggart came to Lowell from Goff's Falls, N. H., and after being found guilty of drunkenness was given five minutes to leave the city with a five months' suspended sentence to jail hanging over his head. William F. Stanley of Hudson, N. H., was sent to jail for 15 days and James Bennett of Brockton and Clarence P. Bragdon of Maine were given suspended sentences on condition that they stay away from Lowell. Phyllis Ducharme was complained of by her wife for non-support. The latter testified that she had received only about $3.50 from her husband during the past year and she had struggled continually to support her family. A four months' sentence to the house of correction was ordered and Mrs. Ducharme will receive three dollars weekly from the county.

HELD ANNUAL BANQUET

The first banquet of the newly organized Association of Lowell Theatrical Employees was held last evening in the large dining hall of the Page Co.'s restaurant and a most delightful session was enjoyed by some 50 members and invited guests. The banquet was served shortly after the closing hour of the city's theatres.

At the conclusion of a sumptuous repast James J. Mahoney, treasurer of Keith's theatre, and the toastmaster of the evening, arose and in a short but very witty speech introduced John J. Lyons as the principal speaker of the occasion.

Mr. Lyons, manager of the Academy of Music, gave an appropriate talk on the benefits to be derived from such an organization and told several amusing incidents of the theatrical profession. His talk was heartily enjoyed by everyone present.

Edgar T. Smith, assistant treasurer of Keith's theatre, was another factor in the evening's enjoyment. Mr. Smith gave several well timed recitations which were enthusiastically received. A long program of entertainment then followed. The program was as follows: Solo, William E. Mahoney; recitation, Edgar T. Smith; piano duet, Messrs. Ball and Kehoe; recitation, Chris J. Allen; selection, Theatrical Employees' orchestra, John Kehoe, director; solo, John F. Daly; recitation, Harry O'Dowd; cornet solo, Alex. Godbout; song, Miss Joseph Perry; finale, entire gathering.

The evening's festivities were unanimously voted a complete success and the organization received the well wishes of everybody. Judging by the enthusiasm displayed last evening it will prove to be permanent. The officers elected are as follows: Thomas P. Scanton, president; Joseph Perry, secretary; James J. Mahoney, treasurer.

EXTRA PAIR OF RIBS

EVERETT DOCTOR REMOVED THEM FROM YOUNG LADY OF THAT TOWN

BOSTON, May 6.—Dr. Gyrde W. Dickinson of Boston and Everett performed, with apparent success, a remarkable operation when he removed a 13th pair of ribs which for years had caused Miss Alecia Allen of 24 Henry street, Everett, excruciating pain.

The operation was performed at the Whidden Memorial hospital, Everett, and was witnessed by several eminent surgeons and physicians, who assisted Dr. Dickinson.

The ribs (an extra pair), which were regularly formed and placed between the seventh and eighth vertebrae, so forced down upon certain joints and veins that Miss Allen suffered a constant pain in her shoulder. It was so severe that she had to give up her school life some 11 years ago and also her intended vocation as a teacher. She had to learn to use her left hand instead of her right, and in many other ways suffered from the malformation.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Remember that, with all the good shows at the B. F. Keith theatre, in the past, there has never been such a rush for seats as characterizes the present week. Without question the biggest week's business in the history of the theatre, will be the result, and it is due to the fact that probably the most attractive combination of acts ever offered locally is on the tapis. "The Fashion Show," a style musical-comedy, featuring Hugo Jansen, Maida Barker, Blanche Latell and Earl Carr, and four mighty classy models, is the leading feature of this show. Beginning this afternoon Jansen will design six entirely new gowns, and will show them on his models. Also, the versatile entertainer gets a half dozen encores at each performance, and the Five Violin Beauties, with Miss Ethel Sharrow holding a leading position, proves to be one of the very best of musical entertainments. "The Fixer," a clever little comedy, is played by Marion Buell & Co., and Marcus & Clements, grand old singers, are among the best in their line. Other points of interest are: Hilton & Roberts, entertainers, the Musical Chief, the Hearst-Sells, and the St. John-St. Vincent de Paul football games. Seats are going fast. Get one. Phone 25.

THE OWL THEATRE

Wilton Lackaye, the great Broadway star is seen to advantage in "The Pit," the feature photo-play being shown at the Owl theatre today for the last two times. The production is one of great dramatic strength, and it contains all the elements to make it a popular play. Five other comedies and dramas are also shown. Besides this big feature, William Farrow will soon be starred in another big production at this theatre.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

A beautiful and thrilling photoplay of Jack London's "Odyssey of the North" is the feature of the Academy of Music performance for today, Friday and Saturday. The leading part in this six-reel production is played by the celebrated Hobart Bosworth and the role he plays is one in which he appears at his best. The story is a powerful one and there is not a dull moment throughout the entire six parts. The picture is one of the famous Paramount triumphs and has been widely commended. The program at the Academy during the last three days of this week is one of the highest merit. In addition to the Paramount offering, patrons will see two other good dramas and a comedy.

POST 355, G. A. R. ARRANGES FOR MEMORIAL DAY—BUSY MEETING HELD

At the post meeting last evening, general orders from department and national headquarters, relating to the recent department convention and to Memorial Day were read. Comrades Augustus V. Hovey, of 155 W. 1st, Dickey, of 120, and George E. Worthen, of 42, were appointed by the department commander on his staff. George E. Bryant was elected and installed as officer of the guard. To succeed R. S. Clough, who resigned at the last meeting to become adjutant of the post, Commander Caverly, called the post up and at "parade rest" taps were sounded by the Bugler Bryant and lights were extinguished in memory of our late Com. W. E. Baton, who was buried with post honors in Belle View cemetery, Lawrence, April 13, 1915. C. M. Arnold, expressed the thanks of the family and relatives, for the irrefragable G. A. R. services at the grave. The sick call revealed the fact that although many of the veterans were sick during the last week, there is a slight improvement in most of them. Reports from the post Memorial committee were received. Rev. George C. Pierce, Corps in Co. I, 2nd Mass. Inf., is to be the orator at the joint memorial services in the First Congregational church Sunday p. m. May 30. The program for this service is ready for the printing committee and the commander's general orders for Memorial week are also ready.

Past Commander Arthur Hamblet and Comrade Frank Coburn, spoke under the good of the order.

THE JITNEY BUS

The craze for the popular jitney bus is growing. Starting out west, it has come closer and closer and now it seems we shall soon see it operating on our own streets. Time alone will demonstrate whether the jitney is a passing fad or whether it will become a permanent institution, but meanwhile there are aspects of the question that merit close attention.

The weight of testimony from those cities where the new transportation system has been introduced indicates that it is opposed strongly by the street car companies and favored strongly by the general public. There are side issues that cannot be ignored, however, if the people of the community would realize what the ultimate effect of the jitney may be on general transportation and general conditions.

In Providence, the patronage of the jitneys has resulted in great loss of revenue to the car companies, for the jitney runs over the short routes and leaves the long haul to the electric. It has long been the contention of the street railways that the short distance patron makes the long distance run possible as a paying proposition, and the introduction of the new factor has so seriously affected the margin of profit that the street car companies have petitioned the city officials for an abatement of the franchise tax. This would be a serious blow to the taxpayers and might easily result in an increased tax rate.

Furthermore, in Providence the railroad officials say that they will be forced to rearrange their rates according to a zone system. This may make it fifteen cents to some outlying districts that could have been formerly reached with a nickel fare, and the effect on the citizens in the suburbs will be serious. Should this come to pass, it will have the effect of tending to congestion within the five cent limit, to the general disadvantage of the community. When some years ago, the city of Glasgow, Scotland, arranged its street car routes in a zone system, the plan was hailed generally as scientific and efficient, but it resulted in unspeakable slum conditions within the region of low transportation.

The question of jitney regulation is also a serious one. As yet the system is too new to permit of full adjustment to municipal conditions, and consequently there is considerable confusion. It is only fair that the public should be protected sufficiently and that at the same time the city should receive a revenue for the privilege of using the highways. Were the jitney craze to prove permanent, it would have a serious effect on the revenue of street car companies, and the public would eventually lose part if not all of the taxes now paid by the street railroads for the franchise privilege. This revenue should be made up from jitney returns, but the exact regulations cannot be framed offhand. In their espousal of the unique system that is making such a stir in all directions, the public should not lose sight of the fact that the jitney bus has aspects which invite long and serious reflection, if the city is to gain in more than rapid transportation within restricted zones. The introduction of a system that would monopolize the short rides and leave the long to the railways would strike at the suburbs, would retard the city's growth outward because under present conditions few could afford to pay double or treble the present rate of fare.

GOVERNOR ON EDUCATION

Those who heard Governor Walsh's eloquent and earnest plea for educational extension at the banquet of the teachers' organization must have been impressed with the soundness of his views and the sincerity of his attitude. It was no mere academic platitude uttered for political effect but an exposition of a situation that is apparent to all who come in touch with the masses of the people. Furthermore, the scheme of educational extension embraced in his bill is not an untried theory but an educational project that has been tried successfully in the great farming state of Wisconsin where man, woman, boy and girl have an equal opportunity to secure elementary and university education under state auspices.

Governor Walsh brought the needs of Massachusetts home to his audience by telling of his recent visit to a great private correspondence school in Scranton, Pa., where almost 100,000 citizens of this state are enrolled for courses that to many are costly. When there he looked up the students from Clinton, many of whom he knew, and the struggles of some, as related by him, must indeed have shown that the state could bring the light of education to many homes that are now hedged around by the prohibitive wall of poverty. After his poignant recital of concrete instances, his audience must have hoped in all sincerity that he will be successful in putting through a bill that does credit to his heart as well as his judgment.

The views of Governor Walsh in this connection are too broadly humanitarian to be classed as partisan, and it is to be hoped that party politics will be sunk in the treatment of the bill by the legislature. He has received the endorsement of many of the leading educators of the state, and the bill has the approval of the committee on education, but there is a disposition in some quarters to withhold approval for political reasons. Could he come before the Massachusetts public on the whole as he came before the Lowell body Tuesday evening, there is no doubt that he would receive popular commendation and approval for a bill that, if passed, would mark a new era in Massachusetts legislation.

JAPAN AND CHINA

While the great powers of Europe are playing their deadly war game, events in the far east are rapidly approaching a crisis. Shortly after the commencement of the war, Japan took possession of the German provinces of the Chinese coast, assuring the powers that while its aims were unselfish and that Chinese interests would not suffer. Later, Japan sent a diplomatic note to the great neighboring republic in which were many stipulations which China could not well accept without recognizing Japanese sovereignty over China. China accordingly refused to acknowledge Japan's right to assume direction of the new republic, and now Japan is arming for a possible defense while Japan prepares an ultimatum. So far, no nation has directly protested against this against Japan's war.

but now the world is watching the eastern situation anxiously.

If war should break out between Japan and China, without the protests or active interference of outside powers, the immediate effect is not hard to anticipate. Japan is prepared for a conflict while China is practically helpless. To the outside observer, the moral right is on the side of China, but in this day moral rights do not offer a strong defence to warships and great guns. Still, it is hardly possible that the world would permit Japan to take advantage of the general situation to grasp the great opportunities in the struggling republic which has so recently emerged from the centuries of darkness and misrule. Great powers are selfish. In many cases recognizing no right except the right of might, but China shall not be friendless if the designs of its progressive neighbor should imperil its aspirations for national liberty and democracy.

BUSINESS COURTESY

Former Senator Root declared recently at a banquet in New York that if this country is to make a substantial increase in its volume of business with South America, it will have to be very courteous in its business dealings. This doctrine may sound peculiar to a people that have regarded courtesy as belonging to social life as differentiated from business life, but in Latin America and many other countries, courtesy and politeness are carried into business. All merchants who deal directly with the public know full well the value of courtesy, for the discourteous clerk may drive away an old customer by rudeness or indifference. It is now the practice of some of the greatest business leaders in the country to foster cordial relations with the public, realizing that in courtesy is the germ of good business. If the manners of South America are different, they are generally better than ours, and it is advisable that all who aim at trade extension there take advantage of the advice offered by the shrewd Mr. Root.

SOAKING THE CITY

Soaking the city is a very popular game. It is generally very interesting. It is often amusing, but it is always expensive in the long run. Robbing the city is all of this, besides being, of late, a fine art.

But, do not forget, Mr. Citizen, that when you rob or soak the city you rob and soak all of its people and when you permit the robbing and soaking of the city you permit the robbing and soaking of all of its people. Furthermore, do not forget for a moment that you are one of the people and that the people ultimately pay the bill. This popular, very interesting and rather amusing game is a very expensive one for all concerned, including yourself. Think it over!

"Yes," said the amateur tenor, "I once received a high compliment from a very great musician. I was singing on board a New York liner, but without accompaniment. I was surprised when I heard you were singing, but when you sat down I was delighted."

ALL TAKEN IN

An amateur photographer was desirous of taking a village church noted for its beauty, and as it was near the village school he did his best to get there before the children came from class. Alas! just as he had got it nicely focused on the camera, wanting to get taken in the photograph. Suddenly a bright idea struck him. He proceeded to group the children behind the camera, and then took a good photograph of the church.

Bad Teeth Rival the Enemy's Bullets in Disabling Soldiers in the European War

An editorial in one of the New York Newspapers states on good authority the following:

"In the trenches in Europe, more soldiers have been disabled through ill arising from bad teeth than by any other cause save the bullets of the enemy."

ARE YOU AT WAR WITH YOUR OWN GOOD HEALTH?

You are if you are neglecting your mouth and teeth. You are laying your system open, unprotected against the attack of most any known ailment. Do you think there's one soldier among the thousands suffering from bad teeth in the vast armies of the European countries who would not be only too happy to have your opportunity to have his mouth and teeth placed in condition which would mean for him increased health and strength with which to continue the struggle for his beloved country? Indeed there is not and yet many right here in Lowell postpone their trip to a dentist, the trip that means the greatest dividends in health and happiness. Why they do this is difficult to explain.

There's positively no good reason for fighting against your own best interests. You are doing this though, if you are permitting your teeth to decay. If you are among the vast army of people who are neglecting their mouths, may we presume to ask

WHY ARE YOU DOING SO?

Is it fear of pain? Then fear no longer for we guarantee NOT TO HURT YOU, IF WE DO, DON'T PAY.

Is it the cost? If so, hesitate no longer because you will find our prices meet with your requirements and our terms will make the payment of your bill with us very easy.

What else is there that could stand in your way? If there is anything else come in and talk it over with us.

TOO MUCH PIE

As accidents are likely to happen in the best regulated families, so it is not surprising that one happens once in a while at the best regulated breakfast. As the result of one mishap Saturday morning a well known Lawrence man got an all too generous helping of that luscious cream pie that was served. He, with the members of his family, was seated at one of the tables enjoying a meal, when along came one of the waiters, who, with a held dish above his head to get through the crowd. He did a real Japanese balancing act with that tray until he came directly back of our friend aforementioned. Then he lost control, and down came tray, cream pie and all. The pie, cream side down, slid all the way down the side and back of the breakfaster, leaving its trail of delicious cream behind, and emptying a goodly part of it into his pocket. Reports as to his success in getting rid of the surplus of helping are not forthcoming, but it is safe to say that the coat will not be worn again at a public function until it has been given a course of elimination treatment.—Lawrence Telegram.

MAY NOT BEAT GERMANS

WILLIAM WATSON, THE POET, SOUNDS WARNING TO BRITONS—DENOUNCES THEIR APATHY

LONDON, May 6.—William Watson, the poet, has contributed a preface to the Evening News in which he denounces the apathy of the British government and people in the following terms:

"It is high time that the masses of the people of this country had it driven home and hammered into their somewhat slow minds, for no gentler mode of introducing it will suffice, that it is very doubtful indeed, whether we are going to beat the Germans at all." Criticizing the "jailing assurances" that all will ultimately be well, Mr. Watson praises the spirit of the Germans, and declares that "our allies and we ourselves are in imminent and grievous peril." Continuing, Mr. Watson makes the statement that Germany is "apparently formidable by the spirit that makes her an unprecedented menace and terror to us and to the world," and he declares that "we are acting, so far as our land forces are concerned, if not as a subordinate, at any rate a secondary part in this gigantic drama of the nations, and it will be the fault of our own apathy, sluggishness, and fatal optimism if the drama darkens at the last into a tragedy both for us and for the truest interests of mankind."

BOY FELL OVERBOARD

BOSTON, May 6.—While playing with companions in an Albany street wharf at the foot of Union Park street, yesterday afternoon, little Lawrence Sullivan fell overboard. His cries quickly attracted the attention of Frank Grinnell, driver of a bakery wagon for a North End firm. Grinnell jumped from his wagon and rushing to the wharf, plunged into the water of the South Bay, rescuing the boy.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 6.—Federal rather than state legislation to govern the working hours of women and children and other measures affecting manufacturers were advocated in a resolution adopted at yesterday's session of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers. The resolutions declare that federal legislation is necessary in order that manufacturers in different states may be placed on an equally competitive basis.

There is no doubt in my mind that he is mentally unbalanced. Mr. Burns has this letter, or I should be glad to turn it over for publication." Explains Why Germany is in the War—Three Main Causes

Mr. Carl D. Burtt, head of the German and college preparatory department of the high school, addressed the members of the Brotherhood of the First Trinitarian church last evening on a subject concerning the European war and analyzed the fundamental reasons why Germany is in the war. Mr. Burtt's well prepared address was very instructive. He struck the real reasons for the war more closely than any speaker who has yet attempted to explain them in this city.

The three main reasons presented were: First, the need of room for expansion for a people multiplying so rapidly in such a confined area, a need which the government does not want to meet by emigration after it has trained and educated the people to so high a degree of efficiency; second, the familiarity of the people with the army and navy as an integral part of the national life, developed to so high a degree of efficiency and with such thorough use of every available man throughout his period of active service as to give them a feeling that they are invincible; third, the turning of the Protestant part of Germany from religion because of the control of the church by the state, such a revolt always leading to the dedication of force and to a war of aggression and high handed robbery.

Power of Socialism
A fourth reason was found in the desire to suppress the growing power of socialism by overcoming internal divisions through the appeal to defend the whole country from a foreign foe. This socialistic trend has been foisted particularly by the very thoroughness with which the people have been trained so that when they come to earn a living there is not the chance in their restricted area for all to get a reasonable return for the excessive effort by which they have been obliged to fit themselves.

It was his opinion and desire also that the present restrictive struggle continue till the dread disease of militarism be thoroughly removed, however great the cost of the surgery. This can only come by the exhaustion of both sides—a condition that must be yet a long way off, in view of Germany's far-sighted preparation. Such a conclusion was hardly expected when the address was opened by the remark that it was meant to fill the general American lack of information from the German point of view. Considerable surprise was expressed by Mr. Burtt over recent news in the Berliner Tageblatt that the landrum, the last reserve from 37 to 15 years of age, have been called out. This must mean that the youth of Germany have been shot down to a larger extent than we had realized.

The election of officers resulted as follows: William H. Harvey was elected president; Corla E. Rauditt, second vice president; C. T. Upton, secretary; Thomas Ferguson, treasurer.

A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Labrie of Tucker street. Is confined to her home with illness.

ST. MICHAEL'S MISSION

STRONG SERMON BY REV. FR. HEALEY ON DUTIES OF CHILDREN TO PARENTS

Again the mission for men at St. Michael's church attracted a vast congregation last night. Rev. Fr. Healey, O. P. was the preacher and he delivered a powerful sermon on the fourth commandment: Honor thy father and mother.

In opening the reverend preacher told of the creation of man by God and of the formulation of laws made by the Creator for man's guidance. To this end, he said, God instituted the commandments, so that man would love and honor his Maker, and in one of these commandments, he commanded all men to honor their parents.

Second to man's duty to God, said Fr. Healey, comes his duty to his parents. You will find man glorifying himself in his duty to his society, to his community, to his friends, and to his church, but before all this comes his duty to his father and mother. Honoring our parents, said Fr. Healey, means not praise and flattery, but deeds, and the first way to honor them is to live up to our religion. No man, said Fr. Healey, ever brought honor to his father and mother unless they lived up to their religion. Man might be successful in his worldly life, might give his parents some of the comforts of life, but he said, they do not crave for this. They want him to live up to his religion and by living up to his religion he will have to live up to the teachings of the church and avoid sin in all its forms.

When a man lives up to the teachings of religion, said Fr. Healey, people will say that he must have had wonderful parents, and when a young man attends mass regularly whether his clothes are shabby or not, he is honoring his father and mother.

The reverend preacher also said that one of the finest examples of a young man who honors his father and mother, is the one who attends the regular meetings of the Holy Name society, lives up to its teachings, keeps the commandments and refrains from taking the name of Jesus in vain.

Ambition said Fr. Healey, is the second attribute man must have if he wants to honor his father and mother, and the young man to have ambition must aspire to be even better and greater than his father. Because a young man is left the breadwinner of the family at an early age he should not lose ambition, and he can aspire to be even greater than his father who probably didn't have the opportunities that are open to young men of today. If he wants education, said Fr. Healey, and finds that he can't get it in the day time because he has to work to support the family, he can get it in the evening at night school. If he does this, said Fr. Healey, he won't be one of the young men who hang out in cheap pool-rooms, or one of those who spend their time on the street corners insulting young girls. That kind of young men are disgracing their parents, and you will always hear people say that they had a rough bringing up. If a young man wants to bring honor to his father and mother he must live up to his religion and have ambition.

When the Braves won the world's championship, said the reverend preacher, seven Catholics on the team honored their parents by going to confession and communion. They were not afraid of what the world had to say about them, and they knew that by going to the sacraments they would have the grace of God and earn His blessing.

Fr. Healey also said that if a young man wants to honor his father and mother, he will have to keep away from the sin of impurity. Imagine the mother of the boy who is a slave to impurity, said the reverend preacher on judgment day, when all his sins are revealed before her. She won't be honored, he said, but will feel the pangs of suffering and shame for that boy who was once her one ray of happiness in life.

The third qualification that a young man must have if he would honor his parents is "love." A young man has got to love his parents and be willing to die for them if necessary. In the ordinary home of today, you will find an old gray-haired and wrinkled mother, her hair has not turned white from age, but from the sufferings and disgrace heaped upon her by her boy. You'll find her sitting by the fire at a late hour waiting for that boy to return home. In a short while she'll take up some knitting to while away the hours waiting for that son to return home from his sinful haunts. Presently she drops the knitting and gazes into the fire and then starts to cry. That mother is thinking of that wretched son of hers when he was a little babe in the crib, and of the days she nursed him and stood by him until he grew up to be a man. This kind of a man will reap no uncertain reward when his time comes. He will pay the penalty that God has provided for such sinners.

Every mother yearns for her son's love. She longs for his boyhood kisses, and for his arms around her neck in loving embrace, and for a smile of kindness from his eyes at least once in a while.

"Go home to that mother of yours tonight, and get down on your knees and tell her you love her."

Fr. Healey also said that every young man should try to give his parents a comfortable home, and that it should be every young man's boast that he had the happiest and most comfortable home in the world. If the young man would save all the money he spends on drink, gambling and women, said Fr. Healey, he would be able to make this proud boast, and give his parents a good home and make them happy in their declining years.

Benediction of the blessed sacrament followed, and the male sanctuary choir under the direction of Choirmaster James Murphy rendered appropriate hymns. The services ended with congregational singing.

WHAT DYSEPTICS SHOULD EAT

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisulphate of magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisulphate of magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which causes the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisulphate of magnesia at Liggett's pharmacy or from any druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisulphate of magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

BOLSTER IS REARRESTED

YOUNG EASTON FARMER WILL BE ARRAIGNED ON CHARGE OF MURDERING LAWRENCE MAN

HOULTON, Me., May 6.—At a special session of the Houlton municipal court, held at the county jail last night before Recorder Stetson, Harry Bolster, the young Easton farmer, charged with the murder of John Timoney of Lawrence, Mass., at Easton last October, was formally discharged on motion of County Attorney Archibald, but was immediately rearrested by Deputy Sheriff Lawlis on a warrant issued by Trial Justice Fessenden of Port Fairfield, charging murder. The hearing will be held at Port Fairfield. This is done in order to save the county the expense of bringing witnesses to Houlton.

IS GUILTY OF PERJURY

FRANK D. SAFFORD, HOTEL CLERK CONVICTED AFTER JURY DELIBERATED SEVEN HOURS

NEW YORK, May 6.—A verdict of guilty was returned late last night against Frank D. Safford, the aged hotel clerk of the Hotel Kensington, in Plainfield, N. J., who was charged with perjury in connection with proceedings growing out of the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Rae Tanner against James M. Osborne, widely known criminal lawyer. The jury deliberated more than seven hours.

Considerable excitement followed the announcement of the verdict. After Judge Hough had left the bench, Assistant United States District Attorney Roger D. Wood, who conducted the prosecution and Benjamin Side of counsel for the defense, engaged in a wordy passage. A disturbance followed which deputy marshals finally quelled, clearing the crowd from the court room.

Judge Hough said he would make an investigation into the occurrence, in which it was reported two of the jurors were involved.

The jury in convicting Safford recommended him to the mercy of the court and asked he be dealt with leniently. He will be brought up for sentence on Monday next. It was learned after court adjourned that trials of the six remaining persons under indictment in connection with the case revolving around Mr. Osborne will be begun forthwith. The first to be tried, it was stated, would be Miss Tanner herself.

MANCHESTER BARBER SETS NEW RECORD—NOT A DROP OF BLOOD DRAWN DURING EXHIBITION

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 6.—Joe Guimont, a Manchester barber, has established a record in shaving 84 men in one hour. The feat was performed at the shop of Hormidas Pellerin, Monday night, and was witnessed by a large crowd.

The performance came about through the belief on the part of Mr. Guimont that he could surpass the record of a Boston barber who shaved 62 men in 60 minutes. Mr. Guimont went him 22 better, and the shaving was done so neatly that not a drop of blood was drawn on one of the men shaved.

NEWS FROM WATER FRONT

MORE THAN 3300 HORSES FOR ARMIES OF ALLIES GOING OUT THIS WEEK

BOSTON, May 6.—More than 3300 horses for the armies of the allies will be shipped to England this week from Boston.

The Leyland line steamship Colonia which sailed yesterday afternoon for Avonmouth and London, carried 397 head. The horses came by rail from different points in the west. The Leyland line steamships Cambridge and Ninian which will leave tomorrow for London and Manchester respectively, and the Bohemian, sailing Saturday for Liverpool, will also carry horses. The Cambridge will take about 700, Ninian 500 and the Bohemian about 300.

It is understood that 20,000 more horses for the British army will be shipped from Boston by steamers of the Leyland line. The largest and most valuable shipment of wool ever shipped to Boston, the British steamship Colusa, under charter to the White Star line, is expected to arrive in a few days from Australian ports. The vessel picked up her immense cargo at Newcastle, Melbourne, Port Pirie and Brisbane, sailing from the latter port April 1. She followed a course through the Panama canal, cutting off about 3000 miles from the old route. The distance via the canal is about 2000 miles. The cargo of the Colusa consists of 22,000 bales, valued approximately at $1,500,000. The entire cargo is consigned to Boston importers.

The former British bark Rakak, now at this port loading a cargo of spruce deals for England, has been chartered to American registry and her name changed to Ruth Spark, after a daughter of a Boston merchant who is one of the stockholders in the vessel.

Light receipts of fish yesterday caused a sharp advance in prices. Dealers' quotations were as follows: Steak cod, 3-1-2 cents per pound; market cod, 3-1-4 cents; haddock, 3-1-4 to 7-6-3 cents; steak pollock, 5-1-2 cents; large hake, 4-1-4 cents; medium hake, 2-1-2 cents; steak, cusk, 3-1-4 cents.

Because of the heavy movement of wool and other freight from New York to Boston, the steamer Hermon Winter of the Metropolitan line, made an extra trip last evening. The steamer arrived in the morning and was rushed back to the metropolis last evening.

The Norwegian steamer Falk arrived yesterday from Manzanillo, Cuba, with a cargo of sugar for the Revere Sugar Refining Co. Old Jonassen, 3-year-old son of the captain, made the trip with his father and brought with him his bicycle. During the trip the boy rode his wheel on deck and became so expert that even when the vessel was rolling in heavy sea he could maintain his equilibrium. Capt. Jonassen's wife and young daughter also accompanied him.

THE ART OF SMILING

It was always believed by her friends that Ceil was not a pretty girl. She herself realized this fact perhaps more keenly than any of them. It might have worried her more than anybody suspected, but Ceil went her way in rather gloomy reticence, and was painfully lacking in self confidence.

It was two years later in the city, that Ceil was considered a very attractive girl by a new coterie of friends. Her hair remained the same, she dressed her own quiet way, and she did not adopt the latest modes in powders as did so many of her friends. Ceil was innately a quiet girl, and the city had not robbed her of her charm, but Ceil had learned to smile. The smile sprang directly from the heart and was reflected in her shining eyes, as well as in the graceful curves of her lips and fine showing of her teeth. Ceil was happy, she had learned to smile, and she was considered attractive.

The art of smiling is one of the most attractive of all a woman's wiles. The cold reserve of aristocratic lips never won the warmth and wholeheartedness from the world, as did the unaffected sweet smile of an otherwise plain girl.

town and South Groveland, has retired after 45 years of service in the priesthood, and will probably make his home permanently with his sister in Newburyport. It was announced yesterday, Father Hally's advancing years caused him to ask for the retirement from Cardinal O'Connell.

Fr. Hally will be succeeded by the Rev. P. J. Durcan of the Sacred Heart church, Cambridge, who has been named as administrator.

Mayor Curley's Bread Bill Passed —House Also Approves the Religion Measure

BOSTON, May 6.—The pure bread bill based on the petition of Mayor Curley, was yesterday passed to be engrossed by the house of representatives after the house had rejected a substitute bill which provided that bread might contain "any other substance used to promote the art of baking." The substitute was offered by Mr. Graves.

The Religion Measure
In the morning, after a somewhat bitter debate, the house passed to be engrossed the bill making it unlawful for a school committee to ask a candidate for a teaching position what his religious beliefs are, and providing further that no appointment in the public school shall be affected by religious opinions or affiliations.

The bill passed to be engrossed was the Lomasney bill, which was drawn up to conform with the opinion of the attorney general that the original bill was constitutional.

Bureau of Engineering
The adverse report of the ways and means committee of the bill to establish a bureau of steam engineering and boiler inspection was under discussion when the house adjourned for the day. Among the committee reports filed was that of the ways and means committee of "ought not to pass" on a resolve directing the Boston Transit commission to investigate the advisability and cost of extending and reconstructing the Dorchester tunnel to Codman square.

Firemen's Licenses
It did not take the state senate long to go through its calendar yesterday. The bill licensing engineers and firemen in charge of steam boilers was passed to be engrossed, 17 to 5, after Senator Doyle had failed to obtain reference to the next general court. Reconsideration of the vote whereby the senate had refused to order to a third reading the bill which would increase the pensions of male teachers in Boston from $600 to $1000 was refused.

The bill to increase from $3500 to $4500 the salaries of the members of the board of arbitration and conciliation was referred to the next general court. The bill regulating the use of cellars and basements in Boston for living and sleeping rooms was ordered to a third reading after some technical amendments had been adopted.

The senate took 12 matters from the table yesterday; only five now remain there. The adverse committee reports on the petitions for new city charters in Cambridge, Taunton, New Bedford and Lowell were accepted without debate or division. A similar report in regard to Melrose was postponed to today.

The bill to require corporations to furnish the commissioner of taxation with a list of their bondholders and the adverse committee report on the petition of E. F. Fuller for an amendment to the constitution striking out the requirement that assessments, rates and taxes must be proportional was postponed to Friday.

THE BROWN AND GREEN FAIRIES

Once upon a time a little brown fairy had tucked away in the earth some fairy seeds all wrapped up in brown cover and then, she had smoothed and tucked the earth all over them, covered the earth with brown leaves and left them for the little green fairy to touch with her wand some months later, while the brown fairy went a long way off to do her work in another land.

At last it was time for the little green fairy to come and she started one day to do her share of the work. Soon tiny green shoots peeked out and in a few days the garden was filled with tiny buds of all colors. Then the fairy touched others and, in a little while, the garden was filled with all kinds of the most beautiful flowers you have ever seen. The two fairies had been so careful and had done their work so well that this garden was the most beautiful of all.

One day a lady came out and went from flower to flower, picking the best and freshest and laid them in a cool moist basket and then they were carried out of the garden and soon were given to a great many children, some of whom had never seen anything like them before in all of their lives. The flowers whispered nice stories into the children's ears and so the children were smiling and happy.

As the flowers faded a little the fairies came, rolled them into a soft small ball and soon the flowers felt themselves floating off to become something else. The fairies never forgot the children and each year came again to make the earth bright and their little friends happy.

So you see the little fairies have to work very hard to make us all happy, but it is not work to them, for they love to make everyone bright and gay and they want every little girl and boy to help all they can.

NATURALIZATION SCHOOL SUPPLEMENTARY LISTS

FORMER SENATOR FISHER WAS THE INSTRUCTOR LAST NIGHT—NEXT WEEK'S PROGRAM

Former Senator Edward Fisher instructed the naturalization class at the Green school last night. It was the fourth in a series of ten naturalization lectures and the meeting was well attended. The speaker, among other things, told of the duties of a senator and gave other information for the benefit of the would-be citizen. Mr. Fisher has volunteered to conduct a special meeting on May 25, at which questions and answers of a reviewing nature will be given.

The speaker for next Wednesday evening will be Melvin G. Rogers, who will speak on "Town Government." Men are asked to be present promptly at 7:30 o'clock in order that they may get the full benefit of the meeting and also that the meeting may not be delayed.

PAWTUCKET CHURCH SOCIABLE

There was a large attendance at the regular monthly social of the Pawtucket Congregational church last evening. At 7 o'clock supper was served under the general direction of Mrs. Stanley J. Garnett, and was followed by a comedy sketch entitled "Her Dear Earl." The following took part: "Aunt Nabby," Miss Mildred Fay; "Helen West," her niece, Miss Ethelred Willmott; maid, Miss Esther Douglass; "Reginald Blair," Jefferson Mansfield; "Jack Gay," Alonzo Putnam, Jr.

THE SPELLBINDER

The classic expression of former Commissioner Brown to former Mayor O'Donnell, in public meeting: "You need a good punch in the snout," upon which horrified newspaper critics commented at length, to the detriment of the entire administration, is but mere nursery prattle compared with the language that one hears at the meetings of this year's administration.

Talk about names thrown around the aldermanic chamber! From that of the Almighty, down the line, while the shorter and uglier ones have the preference.

When they present the scenes that characterized Tuesday's public meeting, what transpires in those popular secret sessions must be left to the imagination.

Commissioner Putnam's Suggestion

Commissioner Putnam may not have meant to be sarcastic when he said, "Let's hear from the lawyers on the question," when the council was wrangling over the legality of a bid presented, but it would seem as if "Put" couldn't resist the temptation to hand one to his colleagues, inasmuch as with three lawyers on the board this year there has been more wrangling over minor legal points and more calls of court proceedings in connection with the conduct of the city's affairs than ever before.

Charlie Needs No Help

At Tuesday's meeting when things were waxing warm Commissioner Morse exclaimed: "Every knock is a boost for me. If I can't make good on my own motion, then I don't want any newspaper to help me. You'll all see this fall what I've done this year and last year, too!"

Thus, the Commissioner positively refuses to have "goodness" thrust upon him, but, goodness knows, if he will make good any old way, whether of his own volition or in spite of himself, the public will rise up and call him blessed; and he's doing pretty well at that, though he shouldn't compete with wait until fall, to see what he did last year. Street work generally deteriorates with age and there are some people of that so-called macadamizing done last year will be in need of another coat of top-dressing this fall.

Chance for Section 20

Section 20 of the city charter, up to this year, has been apparently a useless embodiment of the municipality's code of rules. It reads as follows:

"No measure passed by the municipal council or by the voters, as provided in this act, shall require the approval of any court or of the attorney general, or shall be required to be published in order to become effective, unless otherwise provided in this act."

It begins to look as if henceforth about every measure passed by the municipal council would require the sanction of the courts or the attorney general, judging from the protests and hearings over bids, contracts, etc., that are filling the papers on the occasion of each meeting of the municipal council, not to speak of the new cemetery trustees' law, which has yet to be decided. These uneasily wrangled over contracts are not to be wondered at, as they are a natural outcome of the high-handed manner in which the city's business has been conducted in regard streets of the city of Lowell only on permission of the superintendent of parks, and shall not be less than 25 feet apart; and as much farther apart as may be directed by the superintendent, for the different varieties of trees.

PHOTOGRAPHING AUTO RACE DRIVERS WITH CAR GOING NINETY MILES AN HOUR

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 6.—In the lower picture is shown C. Latta, a mechanic, making speed face pictures of Eddie Rickenbacker and his mechanic, Bud Lounsbury, while traveling on the Indianapolis motor speedway at the rate of ninety miles an hour. Latta is strapped on to Rickenbacker's car at his waist and feet, leaving his hands free to manipulate the camera, which he is holding before him, regulation newspaper style. The result of the stunt was more than gratifying, the first genuine pictures of a man's face at ninety miles per hour being the outcome, as shown in the illustration at the top.

5. No person shall put up or affix in any manner any placard, notice or bill, either written or printed, upon any tree in any street or public place without the consent of this board.

6. No person shall hitch any horse or other animal to any tree or tree guard in any street or public place.

7. Any person violating the foregoing rules and regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding $20.00, for each offense.

Enforcing Speed Rules

Supt. Welch and other officers. I am informed, spent Sunday afternoon riding along the Pawtucket and Princeton boulevards in search of violations of the speed rules on these thoroughfares, using the new police auto as their means of locomotion. As yet there have been no complaints and hence it is assumed that there were no violations of the law.

But how about one week ago Sunday in Andover street? The police it is said were down that way one week ago and discovered some well known citizens speeding along more rapidly than the law allows. As yet the public has heard nothing from that trip, though it is said the material for a few prosecutions was there. Of course the man who owns an automobile and has a certain amount of political influence is different from the boy who shoots craps for a penny, if he is flush, for a nickel, but the law as contemplated by the law-makers draws no distinction among its violators. Then there is that great unwritten law of the present administration: "Equal rights for all; special privileges to none."

The Auto Lettering Ordinance

The general public would think more of the members of the municipal council if they would cut out the "four-flushing" relative to the lettering of the city autos, reveal the present ordinance and not have the machines lettered at all. This bunch about amending the ordinance because it provides no penalty, and because there isn't room on the hoods of the machines for six-inch letters sounds rather ridiculous coming from men supposed to have a sufficient amount of gray matter to command a salary of $2500 per year. The ordinance has been deliberately violated and evaded in several of the departments, and the excuse is because there is no penalty attached for such violations. It shouldn't be necessary to threaten the city's public servants with a fine to make them obey the ordinance. They are sworn to the faithful performance of all their duties when they take office and one of their duties is to obey the ordinances. As far as providing means of identification is concerned it is useless to letter the machines "L. F. D." "L. P. D." or any other set of letters which may stand for a variety

The Five Biggest Men

Mayor Murphy has named his "five biggest men in Lowell" as trustees of the public cemeteries and surely they are men of some weight in the community. Messrs. John L. Robertson, the well known furniture dealer; John A. Osgood, the druggist, and former member of the board of health; Simon E. Harris, auctioneer and former police inspector; William H. Bigby, assistant superintendent of the Merrimack Mfg. Co. and a decidedly popular mill official; and George H. Taylor of C. I. Hood's, a former councilman and alderman. Now that they have been appointed they probably will soon be asking the famous question of another great man of days gone: "What are we here for?" as it will take the courts to decide just what powers they have as a result of the extraordinary intelligence evidenced in framing the bill, under which they have come into office.

The appointment of Mr. Harris on the board of trustees will cause those who attended the recent lot-owners' meeting to recall that gentleman's attitude and remarks on that occasion. At that meeting, I have been informed, somebody made a motion that a committee of three consisting of Mr. Charles Wotton, Rep. Lewis and the secretary of the Federation of Churches be appointed to wait on the mayor and confer with him relative to his appointments on the board. Mr. Harris opposed the motion, stating that the mayor could be depended upon to use good judgment in making his selections and that he should not be dictated to or interfered with, or words to that effect. The motion wasn't put to effect. Another gentleman at this meeting expressed concern lest His Honor appoint any but lot owners on the board, but now his fears are at an end.

The members thus appointed should now show their appreciation by heading one of these petitions calling upon the mayor to be a candidate for a second term, because if His Honor had seen fit to oppose the cemetery bill before the governor, in all probability, it would not have become law.

Now we may hear a host of candidates for the position of superintendent of cemeteries although from the personnel of the board of trustees, the prospects don't look good for Supt. Duckworth, who at present is holding down the office in satisfactory manner. Messrs. Harris and Duckworth were members of one of Former Mayor Brown's several police commissions 1893, while it is understood that there are others on the board who are favorably inclined toward Mr. Duck-

PLANS FOR LOWELL DAY

OPENING OF WHITE WAY WILL BE GALA DAY FOR CITY OF LOWELL

The executive committee of the Lowell board of trade and the superintendents of the Bay State Street Railway Co. held a conference in the quarters of the board of trade late yesterday afternoon for the purpose of reaching some agreement as to the number of special electric cars to be used on Lowell day in bringing the suburban residents to the city, and also as to the distribution of these cars. After talking the matter over for some time it was decided that 40 or 50 electric cars of the jumbo type would be sufficient to care for about 10,000 people, the number that is expected to help the residents of this city in celebrating the opening of the new "white way," possibly on May 26.

According to arrangements special electric cars will leave the suburban towns and surrounding cities, some in the forenoon and others in the afternoon and no fare will be collected en route. Each passenger will be given a credential with the names and addresses of the business men who are contributing toward the expenses of the day, and with these credentials, later in the day, the visitors will be able to secure free tickets to return to their homes, providing they have purchased amounts equalling $2 or more while in Lowell.

It is expected that the day will be a notable one in the history of Lowell. The board of trade is making arrangements for some kind of entertainment during the day, while in the evening a banquet for the members of the organization will be held at the Kusno, and at 8 o'clock Mayor Murphy will throw a switch in the banquet hall and all the lights along the "white way" will be turned on. Then, according to arrange-

MUST DIE IN CHAIR

Governor's Council Refuses to Commute Falzone's Sentence

BOSTON, May 6.—Biagio Falzone of Wakefield, who, with two others, lured Maurice A. Allerton, a Lawrence jewelry peddler, to a shack in Wakefield last year and murdered him, will die in the electric chair some day next week.

All hope of Falzone escaping the death chair disappeared yesterday, when the governor's council after a hearing with but one dissenting vote, to turn down Falzone's application for the commutation of the death sentence pronounced upon him to life imprisonment.

Councillor Buckley of Boston was the only member of the council to favor commutation. The parole board recommended commutation, setting forth the disparity in the sentences given the three men who were implicated in the crime.

John W. Connolly, counsel for the condemned man, appeared before the council to plead for executive clemency. He based his plea on the ground that neither of Falzone's two partners in crime had been made to pay the extreme penalty. Ignazio Morillo, he stated, had been let off with a life sentence, while Luigi Grassano, who he declared was the guiltiest of the three, was given a minimum sentence of five years.

Falzone will be told of the council's action today.

BATH, ME., WITHOUT FIRE PROTECTION—LIST OF VOLUNTEERS VETOED BY MAYOR

BATH, Me., May 6.—Bath was left last night without any organized protection from fire for a period of at least seven days.

The situation was brought about when the aldermen refused to accept the list of regular firemen, who struck for more pay last July, and when

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels, yet always effective.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box.

The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O.

Mayor John A. Small vetoed the list of volunteer firemen, who have been serving since that time. No further action can be taken until the meeting of the board next week.

The regular firemen, who are called men, struck for an increase in pay from $50 a year to $75. Volunteers then took their places at the old rate of pay, although it was claimed at the meeting last night that the regular call men have helped the new members.

Mayor Small instructed the chief of the fire department to confer with the regular firemen and have them respond to a second alarm in the event of a fire.

NASHUA POLICE RECOVER $50 OF $100 STOLEN FROM TRUNK OF HARRY A. WENTWORTH

NASHUA, N. H., May 6.—Inspector Walter Dean last night recovered $50 of the $100 belonging to Harry A. Wentworth which was stolen from a trunk in a room over Wentworth's stable on Garden street, April 27. The police say a 12-year-old boy admits taking the money, which he hid in a hole in the ground on Elm street.

He spent part of the money for a bicycle, which directed suspicion to him.

MRS. CHURCHILL LOSES

WIFE OF NOVELIST WAS CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT OF STATE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

CONCORD, N. H., May 6.—Mrs. Winston Churchill, of Concord, wife of the novelist, was presented yesterday as a candidate for president of the State Federation of Women's clubs by delegates favoring equal suffrage, but was defeated by Mrs. Annie B. Shepard, of East Denbury. She received 36 votes as against 53 for her opponent.

The entry of Mrs. Churchill into the contest came as somewhat of a surprise as all political issues had previously been barred.

Other officers elected today included: First vice president, Mrs. Harriet B. Perkins, Somersworth; second vice president, Mrs. Mary P. Remick, Concord; recording secretary, Mrs. Maud A. Packard, Peterboro; treasurer, Mrs. Helen S. Burrows, Manchester.

MINISTER HEAD OF POLICE

MAYOR BLAKELY OF MALDEN REQUESTS REV. DR. MOSS TO TAKE OFFICE

MALDEN, May 6.—Rev. Dr. Charles H. Moss, pastor of the First Baptist church, a leader in the liquor and vice crusade here last summer, was asked yesterday by Mayor Blakely to take the office of police commissioner, but he has not yet decided to accept.

Twice the aldermen have failed to confirm Edward H. Tate as commissioner to succeed Frederick A. Rhoades. The mayor believes the board will confirm Dr. Moss.

Yesterday afternoon the mayor stated his determination to prevent illegal liquor selling, which he believes exists here to a great extent.

R. R. CLERKS MAY QUIT

EMPLOYEES OF N. Y., N. H. & H. BALLOTING TO DETERMINE ON STRIKE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 6.—The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad are balloting over the entire system to determine whether or not the men shall leave their work because of alleged conditions now existing.

The clerks' organization claims a violation of the agreement, signed with the road two years ago that an adjustment had been made by the federal board of arbitration.

The discharge of a clerk in Hartford has, it is understood, brought the grievance to a head. The Brotherhood has had a committee at New Haven seeking to take the matter up with Gen. M. C. L. Barber. The result of the ballot will not be known before the last of this week.

HE SCORES PROHIBITION

PRES. SAMUEL GOMPERS SAYS IT WOULD BE A "CRIMINAL ERROR"

BOSTON, May 6.—Prohibition would be a criminal error, according to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who arrived in Boston last night from Amherst, Mass.

President Gompers refused to discuss the attitude of the local labor organizations in regard to prohibition, but said that he believed the liquor traffic will be regulated in the future more than it ever has been.

At Amherst yesterday Mr. Gompers spoke to 300 mechanics and laborers in the morning and addressed 700 students and members of the faculty of Amherst Agricultural college in the afternoon.

Today he will go to Haverhill to speak at a mass meeting of the Central labor union, attending a banquet in the evening. President Gompers will return to Boston on Friday and confer with local labor leaders on local matters, leaving for New York on Saturday.

PLEAS FOR LOMBARD

EFFORT MADE TO FREE THE FRAMINGHAM FORGER—CLAIM HE HAS INCURABLE DISEASE

BOSTON, May 6.—Evidence to show that the prisoner is suffering from an incurable disease and that he never personally benefited from forgeries which caused his imprisonment, was presented to the pardon committee of the governor's council before which opened the pardon case of John B. Lombard, the former Framingham town treasurer, yesterday.

Lombard was sentenced to serve a minimum of 10 years in state prison as the result of forgeries, which cost the town of Framingham between $200,000 and $300,000.

At yesterday's hearing a report of Dr. Joseph I. McLaughlin, physician at the state prison, was read. Dr. McLaughlin pronounced Lombard to be suffering from arterio-sclerosis, which is a hardening of the arteries.

William Walsh, deputy sheriff of Middlesex county, testified that Lombard was a former selectman of Framingham; Dr. Lewis M. Palmer, O. O. Davis and George T. Stevens, all of Framingham, spoke for Lombard.

FORMER U. S. SENATOR ARRESTED IN AUSTRIA

VIENNA, May 6.—Former United States Senator Lafayette Young of Des Moines, Ia., accompanied by a former deputy American consul at Bern, Switzerland, was arrested at Innsbruck, Austria, yesterday on a suspicion of espionage directed against Mr. Young's companion.

Mr. Young was promptly released with apologies after a few hours' detention in his hotel, but his companion was held in custody in the hotel until today before he was able to satisfy the suspicions of the authorities who apparently had been warned to look for a man of the same name.

Mr. Young arrived in Vienna this morning. Speaking of the incident, he said he saw no reason for complaint. He left later in the day for Berlin.

CAR SPRINKLERS

The Company Reaches an Agreement With the St. Ry. Union

Back to the sheds with the horse-drawn watering carts. The car sprinklers are in operation again and just for that 14 men are off the water wagon today. The American Car Sprinkler company had smashed its street watering contract with the city, but the break is mended. It was Commissioner Morse who announced that the company had not the right to hold on to the contract and it seemed to Mr. Morse as if it was even more serious than the break in the Tanner street sewer. The company had given up "all of a sudden" and Mr. Morse proceeded to get his old watering carts in line. Because of the three were loose on most of the carts and they had to be soaked well in order to tighten them. But when they were all ready for business Charlie Morse was pleased, not only because they revived memories of by-gone days, but especially because he was able to provide seats on the water wagon for 14 men.

The resumption of operations by the car sprinkler company was due to a conference with Frank F. Perry, general manager for the company, and representatives of local 280, Street Railway Employees union. The conference was held last night and the agreement arrived at, it is understood, was to the effect that union conductors employed on the sprinklers shall receive $14.00 a week. The company originally offered to pay $15.12 and the union asked $17.50.

OFFERS $100,000 FOR BABY

Child's Parents Spurn Offer of Schwab's Brother-in-Law—Girl of Two and a Half Years Captivated Mock

WILMINGTON, Pa., May 6.—"$100,000 for your baby" was the offer that came to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gray of Roanoke, Va., from John Mock of West Philadelphia, brother-in-law of Charles Schwab, of Bethlehem Steel fame. The offer was refused in less than five minutes, according to members of the Gray family yesterday. The child for which Mr. Mock was willing to exchange a fortune is Vivian, now 2½ years old, and a half-year-old. Mr. Mock visited Roanoke, Va., last week. The first day he was there he met little Vivian and her mother as they were walking along the street. The baby captivated the stranger, and during the remainder of his stay in the village he spent many hours in the Gray home, and escorted the little girl about the street.

As the time for his departure drew near, Mock suggested that Vivian be allowed to go with him and become a member of his family, but the parents laughed at this suggestion, not taking it seriously. On the day that he was to leave Mr. Mock paid a final visit to the Gray home, and presented the parents with offering to give them $100,000 if they would permit him to take the girl and adopt her.

"Not for ten times that sum," said Mrs. Gray, "not for 20 times a hundred thousand," said the father.

MRS. HISLER SENTENCED

PLEADED GUILTY TO CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER—SHE RETRACTED PLEA ON MURDER CHARGE

WISCASSETT, Me., May 6.—Mrs. Eugene A. Hisler pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter after retracting her plea on the murder charge for the killing of her husband, Fred T. Hisler at Somerville on Feb. 7 and was sentenced to serve not less than five nor more than ten years in state prison today.

The decision to accept a sentence for manslaughter was reported after a conference between counsel for the prisoner and for the state at the opening of today's session of the school.

The case had been on trial since Tuesday. The state introduced a number of witnesses, including two selectmen of Somerville, who testified that Mrs. Hisler confessed to them, nine days after her husband's death, that she had killed him with a blow on the head with a stick of stove wood. Mrs. Hisler was nearly 30 years older than her husband, who was about 35. Jealousy was ascribed as the motive for killing him.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

SHARPSHOOTERS IN COURT AT SALEM FOR CAUSING DEATH OF LYNN BOY

SALEM, May 6.—Robert W. Griffin, a former cavalry lieutenant in the United States army, and his Indian wife, were put on trial in the Superior court here yesterday on a charge of manslaughter, in having caused the death of Michael P. Garvin, aged 16, in a Lynn theatre, May 19, 1914, where the defendants were appearing in a sharpshooting act. It is alleged that Mrs. Griffin, in trying to shoot a potato from the head of the Garvin boy, missed her aim and fatally wounded him. Griffin, who previously pleaded guilty, was allowed to change his plea to not guilty, his wife also pleading not guilty.

Mrs. Griffin, speaking in her defence, said she was the daughter of a champagne chef and was accustomed to sharpshooting from girlhood. She had given exhibitions all over the world and did not know there was any law against them here. The boy had volunteered for the act, she said, and the wound was entirely accidental.

The defendants had no counsel, but presented their own case in a clear, straightforward way. Dist. Atty. M. A. Sullivan made his argument to the jury and after the afternoon, Judge Quinn charged the jury this morning.

GOMPER'S STATEMENT

SAYS CONVICTION OF LABOR LEADER JOHN R. LAWSON IS A TRAVESTY ON JUSTICE

BOSTON, May 6.—"The conviction of John R. Lawson is a travesty on justice. If there is any elementary justice in our country, he will never have to serve a day in prison, much less a life term sentence."

This was the view which Samuel Gomper, president of the A. F. of L., expressed to a reporter last night of the sentence imposed upon Lawson Monday, when the Chicago labor leader was found guilty of murder in the first degree in connection with the death of Pauline, Oct. 2, 1913, of John S. Nimmo, a deputy sheriff.

ENGLAND TO PUNISH FOES

RECORD OF GERMANY'S OFFENSES REPT. SAYS PREMIER ASQUITH IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

LONDON, May 6.—"When the proper time comes due reparation will be exacted on those—whatever their position or their antecedents—if it can be shown that they have violated all the rules and usages of civilized warfare," said Premier Asquith in the house of commons last evening during the course of a debate on the treatment of British prisoners by Germany. He added that a careful record of events was being kept and of evidence which could be obtained in order that, when the proper hour came, proper punishment might be meted out.

The premier referred to the question of the neutral internment of prisoners which had been considered. Switzerland, he said, was the only country where he had been and there were insuperable difficulties in the way of carrying out the proposals. "The duty of this country," concluded the premier, "is to preserve a clear record."

The question had been brought up by Lord Robert Cecil, who said he had received letters from officers who had been subjected to special treatment by Germany because of the special treatment accorded German soldiers officers by Great Britain. The British officers declared that they were packed up separately in crates, they were not allowed to smoke. Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, hoped that the country would no longer pay any attention to any convention which would prevent the war being brought to an end. It was worth considering, he said, whether, at the risk of losing all British property in Germany, they should confiscate every German article throughout the British empire.

IN POLICE COURT

Interesting Milk Case—Woman Requests Sentence to Jail

James F. Moody, manager of the Turner Centre Creamery, was found not guilty of having in his possession an unmarked vessel containing skimmed milk, by Judge Enright in the local court today. Melvin Masters conducted the case for the prosecution and William A. Hogan appeared for the defendant.

The prosecution alleged that a driver employed by Mr. Moody had a can of skimmed milk on his back which was not stamped according to law. The collector of milk samples, John J. Coughlin, took four samples from the defendant's milk cart and after bottling them up, turned all over to Mr. Masters, milk inspector. At the time the driver informed Mr. Coughlin that one of the cans which he tested contained buttermilk.

Mr. Masters testified that he analyzed the four samples and found three all right and one to be skimmed milk. Under cross-examination, however, he said that skimmed milk and buttermilk analyzed exactly the same and that there was no law compelling milk dealers to label receptacles filled with buttermilk. His Honor did not believe that the prosecution had shown that the milk in question was skimmed and not buttermilk and ordered the defendant discharged.

Five of seven offenders before the court for drunkenness this forenoon were visitors to the city, one coming from Maine, two from New Hampshire and one from Billerica. The latter was a middle-aged woman who was recently released as a first offender. When questioned by the court, she said that she had been drinking cider in the suburban town and came to Lowell yesterday to get some beer for a change. Judge Enright decided to put the woman on probation and she started for Probation Officer Slattery's office but returned shortly and asked to be sent to jail, in order to overcome her craving for liquor. At her own request, His Honor imposed a 20 days' sentence to the Lowell jail. Peter Haggart came to Lowell from Goff's Falls, N. H., and after being found guilty of drunkenness was given five minutes to leave the city with a five months' suspended sentence to jail hanging over his head. William F. Stanley of Hudson, N. H., was sent to jail for 15 days and James Bennett of Brockton and Clarence F. Bragdon of Maine were given suspended sentences on condition that they stay away from Lowell.

Phyllis Ducharme was complained of by her wife for non-support. The latter testified that she had received only about $3.50 from her husband during the past year and she had struggled continually to support her family. A four months' sentence to the house of correction was ordered and Mrs. Ducharme will receive three dollars weekly from the county.

WHEREVER you travel—in Europe as well as in America—you find men carrying HOWARD Watches.

There is something about a HOWARD Watch that appeals to a man who appreciates distinguished quality—just as the possession of a HOWARD undoubtedly does suggest that kind of a man; a man who respects HOWARD history; and withal, the practical man of orderly mind who expects to have things done on time.

A HOWARD Watch is always worth what you pay for it—$40 to $100—and the EDWARD HOWARD model is $60.

We carry a full line of these Watches. Let us show the HOWARD to you.

EXTRA PAIR OF RIBS

EVERETT DOCTOR REMOVED THEM FROM YOUNG LADY OF THAT TOWN

BOSTON, May 6.—Dr. Gyrdle W. Dickinson of Boston and Everett performed, with apparent success, a remarkable operation when he removed a 13th pair of ribs which for years had caused Miss Alicia Allen of 24 Henry street, Everett, excruciating pain.

The operation was performed at the Whidden Memorial hospital, Everett, and was witnessed by several eminent surgeons and physicians, who assisted Dr. Dickinson.

The ribs (an extra pair), which were regularly formed and placed between the seventh and eighth vertebrae, so forced down upon certain joints and veins that Miss Allen suffered a constant pain in her shoulder. It was so severe that she had to give up her school life some 14 years ago and also her intended vocation as a teacher. She had to learn to use her left hand instead of her right, and in many other ways suffered from the malformation.

The event's festivities were unanimously voted a complete success and the organization received the well wishes of everybody. Judging by the enthusiasm displayed last evening it will prove to be permanent. The officers elected are as follows: Thomas P. Scanlon, president; Joseph Perry, secretary; James J. Mahoney, treasurer.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KELTH'S THEATRE

Remember that, with all the good shows at the B. F. Kelth theatre, in the past, there has never been such a rush for seats as characterizes the present week. Without question the biggest week's business in the history of the theatre, will be the result, and it is due to the fact that probably the most attractive combination of acts ever offered locally is on the tapis. "The Fashion Show," a style musical-comedy, featuring Hugo Jensen, Matha Butler, Blanche Latell and Earl Carr, and four mighty classy models, is the leading feature of this show. Beginning this afternoon Jensen will design six entirely new gowns, and will show them on his models. Milo, the versatile entertainer, gets a half dozen encores at each performance, and the Five Violin Beauties, with Miss Ethel Sharrow holding a leading position, proves to be one of the very best of musical entertainments. "The Fixer," a clever little comedy, is played by Marion Bush & Co. and Maxine A. Clements, grand opera singers, are among the best in their line. Other points of interest are: Milton & Roberts, entertainers; the Musical Chorus, the Hearst-Selig and the St. John-St. Vincent de Paul football games. Seats are going fast. Get one. Phone 25.

THE OWL THEATRE

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

A beautiful and thrilling photoplay of Jack London's "Odyssey of the North" is the feature of the Academy of Music performance for today, Friday and Saturday. The leading part in this six-reel production is played by the celebrated Hobart Bosworth and the role he plays is one in which he appears at his best. The story is a powerful one and there is not a dull moment throughout the entire six parts. The picture is one of the famous Paramount triumphs and has been widely commended. The program at the Academy during the last three days of this week is one of the highest merit. In addition to the Paramount offering, patrons will see two other good dramas and a comedy.

FOR MEMORIAL DAY

POST ISS. G. A. R. ARRANGES FOR
HELD

At the post meeting, last evening, general orders from department and national headquarters, relating to the recent department convention and to Memorial Day, were read. Comrades Augustus V. Hovey, of 153, W. L. Dickey, of 120, and George E. Worthen, of 42, were appointed by the department commander on his staff. George E. Bryant was elected and installed as officer of the guard, to succeed R. S. Clough, who resigned at the last meeting to become adjutant of the post. Commander Caverly, called the post up and at "parade rest" taps were sounded by the Bugler Bryant and lights were extinguished in memory of our late Com. W. E. Baton, who was buried with post honors in Belle View cemetery, Lawrence, April 25, 1915. Q. M. Arnold, expressed the thanks of the family and relatives, for the impressive G. A. R. services at the grave.

The sick call revealed the fact that although many of the veterans were sick during the last week, there is a slight improvement in most of them. Reports from the post Memorial committee were received. Rev. George C. Pierce, Corps in Co. I, 2nd Mass. Inf., is to be the orator at the joint Memorial services in the First Congregational church Sunday p. m., May 30. The program for this service is ready for the printing committee and the commander's general orders for Memorial week are also ready. Past Commander Arthur Hamblet and Comrade Frank Coburn, spoke under the good of the order.

CITY MARSHAL REMOVED

SALEM, May 6.—After summarily removing from office yesterday morning City Marshal Cornelius F. Harrington because that officer would not waive the exclusive power given him by the new city charter in the matter of appointments, Mayor O'Keefe of Salem last evening caused the entire membership of the police department to be lined up before him at police headquarters and informed them that many of them had been remiss in their duty and that he is about to call a "police expert" from Jersey City to reorganize their department. Harrington was chairman of O'Keefe's campaign committee.

THE JITNEY BUS

The craze for the popular jitney bus is growing. Starting out west, it has come closer and closer and now it seems we shall soon see it operating on our own streets. Time alone will demonstrate whether the jitney is a passing fad or whether it will become a permanent institution, but meanwhile there are aspects of the question that merit close attention.

The weight of testimony from those cities where the new transportation system has been introduced indicates that it is opposed strongly by the street car companies and favored strongly by the general public. There are side issues that cannot be ignored, however, if the people of the community would realize what the ultimate effect of the jitney may be on general transportation and general conditions.

In Providence, the patronage of the jitneys has resulted in great loss of revenue to the car companies, for the jitney runs over the short routes and leaves the long haul to the electric. It has long been the contention of the street railways that the short distance patron makes the long distance run possible as a paying proposition, and the introduction of the new factor has so seriously affected the margin of profit that the street car companies have petitioned the city officials for an abatement of the franchise tax. This would be a serious blow to the taxpayers and might easily result in an increased tax rate.

Furthermore, in Providence the railroad officials say that they will be forced to rearrange their rates according to a zone system. This may make it fifteen cents to some outlying districts that could have been formerly reached with a nickel fare, and the effect on the citizens in the suburbs will be serious. Should this come to pass, it will have the effect of tending to congestion within the five cent limit, to the general disadvantage of the community. When some years ago, the city of Glasgow, Scotland, arranged its street car routes in a zone system, the plan was hailed generally as scientific and efficient, but it resulted in unspeakable slum conditions within the region of low transportation.

The question of jitney regulation is also a serious one. As yet the system is too new to permit of full adjustment to municipal conditions, and consequently there is considerable confusion. It is only fair that the public should be protected sufficiently and that at the same time the city should receive a revenue for the privilege of using the highways. Were the jitney craze to prove permanent, it would have a serious effect on the revenue of street car companies, and the public would eventually lose part if not all of the taxes now paid by the street railroads for the franchise privilege. This revenue should be made up from jitney returns, but the exact regulations cannot be framed offhand. In their espousal of the unique system that is making such a stir in all directions, the public should not lose sight of the fact that the jitney bus has aspects which invite long and serious reflection, if the city is to gain in more than rapid transportation within restricted zones. The introduction of a system that would monopolize the short rides and leave the long to the railways would strike at the suburbs, would retard the city's growth outward because under present conditions few could afford to pay double or treble the present rate of carfare.

GOVERNOR ON EDUCATION

Those who heard Governor Walsh's eloquent and earnest plea for educational extension at the banquet of the teachers' organization must have been impressed with the soundness of his views and the sincerity of his attitude. It was no mere academic platitude uttered for political effect but an exposition of a situation that is apparent to all who come in touch with the masses of the people. Furthermore, the scheme of educational extension embraced in his bill is not an untried theory but an educational project that has been tried successfully in the great farming state of Wisconsin where man, woman, boy and girl have an equal opportunity to secure elementary and university education under state auspices.

Governor Walsh brought the needs of Massachusetts home to his audience by telling of his recent visit to a great private correspondence school in Scranton, Pa. where almost 100,000 citizens of this state are enrolled for courses that to many are costly. When there he looked up the students from Clinton, many of whom he knew, and the struggles of some, as related by him, must indeed have shown that the state could bring the light of education to many homes that are now hedged around by the prohibitive wall of poverty. After his poignant recital of concrete instances, his audience must have hoped in all sincerity that he will be successful in putting through a bill that does credit to his heart as well as his judgment.

The views of Governor Walsh in this connection are too broadly humanitarian to be classed as partisan, and it is to be hoped that party politics will be sunk in the treatment of the bill by the legislature. He has received the endorsement of many of the leading educators of the state, and the bill has the approval of the committee on education, but there is a disposition in some quarters to withhold approval for political reasons. Could he come before the Massachusetts public on the whole as he came before the Lowell body Tuesday evening, there is no doubt that he would receive popular commendation and approval for a bill that, if passed, would mark a new era in Massachusetts legislation.

JAPAN AND CHINA

While the great powers of Europe are playing their deadly war game, events in the far east are rapidly approaching a crisis. Shortly after the commencement of the war, Japan took possession of the German provinces of the Chinese coast, assuring the powers of the world that its aims were unselfish and that Chinese interests would not suffer. Later, Japan sent a diplomatic note to the great neighboring republic in which were many stipulations which China could not well accept without recognizing Japanese sovereignty over China. China accordingly refused to acknowledge Japan's right to assume direction of the new republic, and now Pekin is arming for a possible defense while Japan prepares an ultimatum. So far, no nation has directly protested, as threats against Japan were implied rather than mentioned directly, but now the world is watching the eastern situation anxiously.

If war should break out between Japan and China, without the protests or active interference of outside powers, the immediate effect is not hard to anticipate. Japan is prepared for a conflict while China is practically helpless. To the outside observer, the moral right is on the side of China, but in this day moral rights do not offer a strong defense to warships and great guns. Still, it is hardly possible that the world would permit Japan to take advantage of the general situation to grasp the great opportunities in the struggling republic which has so recently emerged from the centuries of darkness and misrule. Great powers are selfish, in many cases recognizing no right except the right of might, but China shall not be friendless if the designs of its progressive neighbor should imperil its aspirations for national liberty and democracy.

BUSINESS, COURTESY

Former Senator Root declared recently at a banquet in New York that if this country is to make a substantial increase in its volume of business with South America, it will have to be very courteous in its business dealings. This doctrine may sound peculiar to a people that have regarded courtesy as belonging to social life as differentiated from business life, but in Latin America and many other countries, courtesy and politeness are carried into business. All merchants who deal directly with the public know full well the value of courtesy, for the discourteous clerk may drive away an old customer by rudeness or indifference. It is now the practice of some of the greatest business leaders in the country to foster cordial relations with the public, realizing that in courtesy is the germ of good business. If the manners of South America are different, they are generally better than ours, and it is advisable that all who aim at trade extension take advantage of the advice offered by the shrewd Mr. Root.

SOAKING THE CITY

Soaking the city is a very popular game. It is generally very interesting, it is often amusing, but it is always expensive in the long run. Robbing the city is all of this, besides being, of late, a fine art.

But, do not forget, Mr. Citizen, that No One to Try and Wear Out Your Gold It Will Wear You Out Instead.

Thousands keep on suffering from colds and coughs through neglect and delay. Why make yourself an easy prey to serious ailments and epidemics as the result of a neglected cold? Coughs and colds sap your strength and vitality, and if you do not get them in the early stages, Dr. King's New Discovery is what you need—the first dose helps. Your head clears up, you breathe freely and you feel so much better. Buy a bottle today and start taking at once.

SEEN AND HEARD

A hard and well beaten path. The way of the transgressor.

A COMPLIMENT

"Yes," said the amateur tenor, "I once received a high compliment from a very great musician. I was singing on board a New York liner, but without accompaniment, for accompanists can never keep time with me, you know. What did the musician say?" "He said—and these were his very words—'When I saw you begin to sing without accompaniment, I was surprised; when I heard you I was amazed; but when you sat down I was delighted.'"

ALL TAKEN IN

An amateur photographer was desirous of taking a village church noted for its beauty, and as it was near the village school he did his best to get there before the children came from class. Alas! just as he got it nicely focussed and cropped the children, who crowded round the camera wanting to get taken in the photograph. Suddenly a bright idea struck him. He proceeded to group the children behind the camera, took a good photograph of the church. "Are we all taken in?" eagerly asked the children, as he began packing up. "Yes, you are all taken in," said he, as he walked away smiling.

TWO EARLY

M'Tavish and a blither Scott, M'Pherson, entered the room and took their seats near the door. Sitting up in the corner was a nice young Italian lassie, and M'Tavish was always nudging his friend. "Hoots, man," said M'Pherson, "I ken her fine." "Hoo are ye no gaun up aside her then?" asked M'Tavish. "Och," said M'Pherson, "she hasna peyed her fare yet."

THE DANDELION HUNTER

and storing them away in tin cans and aprons. One woman, who must have been at it for some time, or had unusual luck, for she had fully a bushel in her apron and on the ground nearby. Some people cannot eat dandelions, but others consider them the king of spring greens, cooking them even ahead of the more expensive asparagus. They can be dried up into a dainty dish, indeed, when properly cooked and properly served, but sometimes when they are cooked with the said that is taken up with them, as was the case with some that were served me yesterday, they may not be appreciated though simply grate.

BEHIND THE TIMES

A great many cities throughout the country have witnessed the advent of the jitney, and Lowell, in this respect, is just the least little bit behind the times. They have appeared in Lawrence and are running between that city and Methuen, of course the fare is five cents. In a genuine jitney no other rate of fare is charged. The term "jitney" is derived from the appellation given to the little cabs years ago by the negro plantation workers in the south. The darkeys knew no other name for the cabs than that of "jitneys." The term "jitney" came from the word by which the southern negroes have long designated the five cent cabs. The jitney busses are said to have come from the north country. They are also causing some trouble in cities where they are numerous. The average daily revenue

A Strength, Flesh and Body Builder for Spring

Run Down, Underweight People Put on Ten to Twenty Pounds of Healthy Flesh

Most people show a tendency to lose weight in winter. The fat making material in the foods they eat, which at other seasons keep flesh and weight at normal is partially diverted in cold weather and instead is used to furnish heat for the body. Then most of us acquire a cold or the grippe, which tear down flesh, lower vitality, cause a considerable loss in weight and leave us in a rundown condition in the spring. Any material loss of weight should be regarded with alarm and prompt measures taken to regain the lost flesh. Sargol is found in a preparation known as Sargol which can be found at druggists everywhere and which seldom fails to give the user a weight increase of from ten to twenty pounds within a few weeks. Sargol does not of itself make flesh. It is a small tablet which readily dissolves in the stomach and mixing with the fats, sugars and starches of the food you eat, prepares these flesh making materials into a form where the blood can easily absorb and distribute them throughout the body. It is really amazing how quickly and easily lost flesh and weight return when Sargol is used with your meals. With returning normal weight comes too a corresponding return of health, spirits, ambition and vitality and you soon feel your old self again. Leans, meat Sargol and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase for money back. Caution: While Sargol is also widely used for overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, its action in increasing weight is so practically certain that its use is recommended to those who are not willing to put on ten or more pounds of flesh.

Bad Teeth Rival the Enemy's Bullets in Disabling Soldiers in the European War

An editorial in one of the New York Newspapers states on good authority the following:

"In the trenches in Europe, more soldiers have been disabled through ill arising from bad teeth than by any other cause save the bullets of the enemy."

ARE YOU AT WAR WITH YOUR OWN GOOD HEALTH?

You are if you are neglecting your mouth and teeth. You are laying your system open, unprotected against the attack of most any known ailment. Do you think there's one soldier among the thousands suffering from bad teeth in the vast armies of the European countries who would not be only too happy to have your opportunity to have his mouth and teeth placed in condition which would mean for him increased health and strength with which to continue the struggle for his beloved country? Indeed there is not and yet many right here in Lowell postpone their trip to a dentist, the trip that means the greatest dividends in health and happiness. Why delay do this is difficult to explain.

There's positively no good reason for fighting against your own best interests. You are doing this though, if you are permitting your teeth to decay. If you are among the vast army of people who are neglecting their mouths, may we presume to ask

WHY ARE YOU DOING SO?

Is it fear of pain? Then fear no longer for we guarantee

NOT TO HURT YOU. IF WE DO, DON'T PAY.

Is it the cost? If so, hesitate no longer because you will find our prices meet with your requirements and our terms will make the payment of your bill with us very easy.

What else is there that could stand in your way? If there is anything else come in and talk it over with us.

"NAP-A-MINIT" IS AN IRON-CLAD GUARANTEE OF NO PAIN.

TOO MUCH PIE

As accidents are likely to happen in the best regulated families, so it is not surprising that one happens once in a while at the best conducted May breakfast. As the result of one mishap Saturday morning a well known Lawrence man got an all too generous helping to that breakfast, cream pie that was served. He, with the members of his family, was seated at one of the tables enjoying a meal, when along came one of the waiters, with a tray held high above his head to get through the crowd. He did a real Japanese balancing act with that tray until he came directly to his success. Then he lost control, and down came tray, cream pie and all. The pie, cream side down, slid all the way down the side and back of the breakfaster, leaving its trail of delicious cream behind, and emptying a goodly part of it into his mouth. Reported to his success in getting rid of the superfluous helping are not forthcoming, but it is safe to say that the coat will not be worn again at public functions until it has been given a course in elimination treatment.—Lawrence Telegram.

MAY NOT BEAT GERMANS

WILLIAM WATSON, THE POET, SOUNDS WARNING TO BRITONS—DENOUNCES THEIR APATHY

LONDON, May 6.—William Watson, the poet, has contributed a prose article to the Evening News in which he denounces the apathy of the British Government and people in the following terms: "It is high time that the masses of the people of this country had it driven and hammered into their somewhat slow minds, for no gentler mode of instructing it will suffice, that it is very doubtful indeed, whether we are going to beat the Germans at all." Criticizing the "lulling assurances" that all will ultimately be well, Mr. Watson praises the spirit of the Germans and declares that "our allies and we ourselves are in imminent and grievous peril." Continuing, Mr. Watson makes the statement that Germany is "supremely formidable" by the spirit that makes her an unprecedented menace and terror to us and to the world, and he declares that "we are acting, so far as our land forces are concerned, if not a subordinate, at any rate a secondary part in this gigantic drama of the nations, and it will be the fault of our own apathy, sluggishness, and fatal optimism if the drama darkens at the last into a tragedy both for us and for the truest interests of mankind."

BOY FELL OVERBOARD

BOSTON, May 6.—While playing with companions on an abutment street wharf at the foot of Union Park street, yesterday afternoon, little Lawrence Sullivan fell overboard. His cries quickly attracted the attention of Frank Grinnell, driver of a bakery wagon for a North End firm. Grinnell jumped from his wagon and rushing to the wharf, plunged into the water of the South Bay, rescuing the boy.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION

To Govern Working Hours of Women and Children Enacted by Hosiery Men

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 6.—Federal rather than state legislation to govern the working hours of women and children and other measures affecting manufacturers were advocated in a resolution adopted at yesterday's session of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers. The resolution does not state that federal legislation is necessary in order that manufacturers in different states may be placed on an equally competitive basis.

Weeks before he went away, my wife and I received a letter from him in which he said that his wife was to have a child, and told of his great happiness over it. There is no doubt in my mind that he is mentally unbalanced. Mr. Burns has turned it over for publication. He said to turn it over for publication. Alas, his son's wife's people, since "It is an outrage," he insisted, "to young Coe disappeared. They love him as much as we do," he announced. "My wife and I spent last Saturday in Boston with our daughter-in-law and her mother. Both of them said that they were eager to hear from Henry." When asked whether the marriage life of young Coe and his wife had been happy, Dr. Coe became indignant. "That his disappearance had been caused by some hallucination. The father denied the story that his son had once suffered injuries to his head in a fall from his horse. "Nothing of the kind ever occurred," he said emphatically.

Explains Why Germany is in the War—Three Main Causes

Mr. Carl D. Burtt, head of the German and college preparatory department of the high school, addressed the members of the Brotherhood of the First Trinitarian church last evening on a subject concerning the European war and analyzed the fundamental reasons why Germany is in the war. Mr. Burtt's well prepared address was very instructive. He struck the real reasons for the war more closely than any speaker who has yet attempted to explain them in this city.

The three main reasons presented were: First, the need of room for expansion for a people multiplying so rapidly in such a confined area, a need which the government does not want to meet by emigration after it has trained and educated the people to so high a degree of efficiency; second, the familiarity of the people with the army and navy as an integral part of the national life, developed to so high a degree of efficiency and with such thorough use of every available man throughout his period of active serviceableness as to give them a feeling that they are invincible; third, the turning of the Protestant part of Germany from religion because of the control of the church by the state, such a revolt always leading to the dedication of force and to a war of aggression and high handed robbery.

A fourth reason was found in the desire to suppress the growing power of socialism by overcoming internal divisions through the appeal to defend the whole country from a foreign foe. This socialistic trend has been fomented particularly by the very thoroughness with which the people have been trained so that when they come to earn a living there is not the chance in their restricted area for all to get a reasonable return for the excessive effort by which they have been obliged to fit themselves.

It was his opinion and desire also that the present regrettable struggle continue till the dread disease of militarism be thoroughly removed, however great the cost of the surgery. This can only come by the exhaustion of both sides—a condition that must be yet a long way off, in view of Germany's far-sighted preparation. Such a conclusion was hardly expected when the address was opened by the remark that it was meant to fill the general American lack of information from the German point of view. Considerable surprise was expressed by Mr. Burtt over recent news in the Berliner Tageblatt that the Landstrum, the last reserve from 37 to 45 years of age, have been called out. This must mean that the youth of Germany have been shot down to a larger extent than we had realized.

The election of officers resulted as follows: William H. Harvey was elected president; Orrin B. Bartlett, second vice president; C. T. Upton, secretary; Thomas Ferguson, treasurer.

ST. MICHAEL'S MISSION

STRONG SERMON BY REV. FR. HEALEY ON DUTIES OF CHILDREN TO PARENTS

Again the mission for men at St. Michael's church attracted a vast congregation last night. Rev. Fr. Healey, O. P., was the preacher and he delivered a powerful sermon on the fourth commandment: Honor thy father and mother.

In opening the reverend preacher told of the creation of man by God and of the formulation of laws made by the Creator for man's guidance. To this end, he said, God instituted the commandments, so that man would love and honor his Maker, and in one of these commandments, he commanded all men to honor their parents.

Second to man's duty to God, said Fr. Healey, comes his duty to his parents. You will find man glorifying himself on his duty to his society, to his community, to his friends, and to his church, but before all this comes his duty to his father and mother. Honoring our parents, said Fr. Healey, means not praise and flattery, but deeds, and the first way to honor them is to live up to our religion. No man, said Fr. Healey, ever brought honor to his father and mother unless they lived up to their religion. Man might be successful in his worldly life, might give his parents some of the comforts of life, but he said, they do not crave for this. They want him to live up to his religion and by living up to his religion he will have to live up to the teachings of the church and avoid sin in all its forms.

When a man lives up to the teachings of religion, said Fr. Healey, people will say that he must have had wonderful parents, and when a young man attends mass regularly whether his clothes are shabby or not, he is honoring his father and mother.

The reverend preacher also said that one of the finest examples of a young man who honors his father and mother, is the one who attends the regular meetings of the Holy Name society, lives up to its teachings, keeps the commandments and refrains from taking the name of Jesus in vain.

Ambition said Fr. Healey, is the special attribute man must have if he wants to honor his father and mother, and the young man to have ambition must aspire to be even better, and greater than his father. Because a young man is left the breadwinner of the family at an early age he should not lose ambition, and he can aspire to be even greater than his father, who probably didn't have the opportunities that are open to the young men of today. If he wants education, said Fr. Healey, and finds that he can't get it in the day time because he has to work to support the family, he can get it in the evening at night school. If he does this, said Fr. Healey, he won't be one of those young men who hang out in cheap pool-rooms, or one of those who spend their time on the street corners insulting young girls. That kind of young men are disgracing their parents, and you will always hear people say that they had a rough bringing up. If a young man wants to bring honor to his father and mother he must live up to his religion and have ambition.

When the Braves won the world's championship, said the reverend preacher, seven Catholics on the team honored their parents by going to confession and communion. They were not afraid of what the world had to say about them, and they knew that by going to the sacraments they would have the grace of God and earn His blessing.

Fr. Healey also said that if a young man wants to honor his father and mother, he will have to keep away from the sin of impurity. Imagine the mother of the boy who is a slave to impurity, said the reverend preacher on judgment day, when all his sins are revealed before her. She won't be honored, he said, but will feel the pangs of suffering and shame for that boy who was once her one ray of happiness in life.

The third qualification that a young man must have if he would honor his parents, in "love." A young man has got to love his parents and be willing to die for them if necessary. In the ordinary home of today, you will find an old gray-haired and wrinkled mother. Her hair has not turned white from age, but from the sufferings and disfigurement heaped upon her by her boy. You'll find her sitting by the fire at a late hour waiting for that boy to return home. In a short while she'll take up some knitting to white away the hours waiting for that son to return home from his sinful haunts. Presently she drops the knitting and gives into the fire and then starts to cry. That mother is thinking of that wretched son of hers when he was a little babe in the crib, and of the days she nursed him and stood by him until he grew up to be a man. This kind of a man will reap no uncertain reward when his time comes. He will pay the penalty that God has provided for such sinners.

Every mother yearns for her son's love. She longs for his boyhood kiss and for his arms around her neck in loving embrace, and for a smile of kindness from his eyes at least once in a while.

"Go home to that mother of yours tonight, and get down on your knees and tell her you love her."

Fr. Healey also said that every young man should try to give his parents a comfortable home, and that it should be every young man's boast that he had the happiest and most comfortable home in the world. If the young man would save all the money he spends on drink, gambling and women, said Fr. Healey, he would be able to make his proud boast, and give his parents a good home and make them happy in their declining years.

Benediction of the blessed sacrament followed, and the male sanctuary choir under the direction of Choirmaster James Murphy rendered appropriate hymns. The services ended with congregational singing.

FITCHBURG TRIMS LOCALS

Pitcher Moses Proved Easy Picking for Noonan's Team and

(Special to The Sun)

FITCHBURG, May 6.—Moses was selected to lead the Lowell team to victory over the Fitchburg Boosters Wednesday afternoon, but the latter were all tagged out in their batting clothes, and while they didn't drive the southerner to the dugout they did hit him hard enough to win by a 9 to 2 score. Moses was found in the first, sixth and eighth innings while Reiger, aided by superb fielding on the part of his teammates held the Lowell outfit in check all the time.

The day was anything but favorable for baseball, but still over 500 fans, including a number of fair rooters, were in the stands. They were well repaid, if their sympathies were with Fitchburg, as the Lowell manager evidently believed in allowing the recruit to take his medicine. He got it all right as Manager McMahon sent the Fitchburg boosters to exert themselves to the utmost. They responded with a will in the eighth and clinched a game that was theirs from the beginning.

Reiger was tall, muscular and looked like a professional fighter. He got a warm reception right at the start and seemed to be in the best of his form. He was the Lowell manager evidently believed in allowing the recruit to take his medicine. He got it all right as Manager McMahon sent the Fitchburg boosters to exert themselves to the utmost. They responded with a will in the eighth and clinched a game that was theirs from the beginning.

Lowell filled the bases in the sixth, but one man was caught at the plate by a nice throw from Smith and the game was over. In the seventh inning, the Fitchburg team had a hot one at Sherwood which bounced off his hands. Sweeney walked and then McMahon singled. Campbell was caught at third by a nice throw from Smith. The next two were easy outs.

Fitchburg's runs, or at least the majority of them were earned. In the first inning, Lied singled to right and went to second on a passed ball. Then Campbell walked. Duggan gave the Sox a fly but Smith singled to deep left scoring Lied and putting Campbell on second. The latter stole third and trotted home when Clay put it off against the fence in right for Sweeney to make a circus catch off. Sherwood doubled to right but Smith walked the side on a fly to the same field.

With one down in the second inning Reiger singled through short. Lied took a free ticket and then Campbell tried to center putting Reiger on third from where he scored when Greenbush threw to second to catch Lied stealing second. It was a pretty throw but no one took the ball which continued to center. Campbell died and Duggan was thrown out by Moses.

Moses seemed to become effective at this period and Fitchburg went out in order in the fourth, fifth and sixth. He was working above his normal speed, however, as in the sixth Smith was passed, Clay made a great attempt at a home run but it was under the star board in the park and got the fly. Sherwood also went out the same way. Then Sullivan, drove a spring banger to the centerfield fence, scoring Smith and came across himself when Gaston beat out a slow one to Moses Reiger, died to Barrows. There wasn't anything doing in the seventh but the eighth was pitiful from a Lowell viewpoint.

Six hits, a base on balls and a sacrifice batted four runs. Every man on the team went to bat. Nearly all of them got hits. Clay opened with a two-bagger to center field fence. Sherwood hit him out third by a neat sacrifice. Then came the deluge. Sullivan, Gaston, Reiger, Campbell singled in order, scoring four runs. Duggan walked only to be caught when Smith hit to first while McCleskey completed a double play by throwing to Meyers.

Umpire in Pool Room

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6.—A baseball umpire who carries an automatic shotgun is a novelty in the North. Ross Hastings, official umpire for the North Side Pool Hall team, made his debut yesterday with his armament on the grounds just south of the court house.

The novel spectacle of a man standing in the center of a diamond pointing a shotgun at a runner whom he was attempting to tag and send back to second base because of a ground rule providing that a runner take only one base on a passed ball, attracted Prosecutor Jacobus as he looked out of his office window. Inquiry developed that Hastings consented to be "official" umpire only on the condition that he be allowed to carry something with which to defend himself.

RECORD WON'T GO

15 Mile Title by Recent Ruling

Failure to comply with the new rules regarding track measurement will deprive Hannes Kolehmainen of the American record for 15 miles which he made without the shadow of a doubt at the games of the Monmouth A. C. at Celtic park on Sunday. By a small margin the Amateur Athletic union recently verified the new rule of track measurement, which states that all tracks shall be measured 12 inches from the curb instead of 18 inches. Thus unless the competitors ran over the regular number of laps the course was bound to be short. The officials of the Irish American A. C. did not think it worth a challenge just before the race to call for the 1913-14 or W. Costello, 12 Stanley street, city. Are you one?

The Lowell Y. M. C. A. Jrs. defeated the Lawrence Y. M. C. A. Jrs. recently in a game in a series of three. The score was 10 to 4 and the features were the batting of Fehner, Siegle and Ginsburg and the pitching of Hank Coffey. The Lowell team traveled to Haverhill for a game with a team of that city.

The Graves would like to challenge any 12 or 14 year old team in the city with the exception of the "White Eagles" at Shedd Park at 2 o'clock. Send all challenges to 16 Griffin street or through this paper.

The Griffiths defeated the Andrews by the score of 11 to 1. The Griffiths would like to play any 12 or 14 year old team any Saturday morning or any afternoon after school in Faulkner's street or through this paper.

There Glenmores will play the Buckhorns this Saturday on the Fair Grounds. The Glenmores are requested to report: Keeler, Cooper, McCleugh, Horgan, Harrington, Harris, Wilbur and Willett. Communicate with Wm. Connelley, Chambers street, or through this paper.

The manager of the Stanley A. C. would like to meet the manager of the Lowell Y. M. C. A. Jrs. on Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the Sun office to arrange a game for Saturday afternoon. Other teams that want a challenge just before a race call for Tel. 1913-14 or W. Costello, 12 Stanley street, city. Are you one?

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, nerve and building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisulphate of magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisulphate of magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisulphate of magnesia at Leggett's pharmacy or from any druggist, take some of the bisulphate of magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

HOULTON, Me., May 6.—At a special session of the Houlton municipal court, held at the county jail last night before Recorder Stetson, Harry Bolster, the young Easton farmer, charged with the murder of John Timoney of Lawrence, Mass., at Easton last October, was formally discharged on motion of County Attorney Archibald, but was immediately rearrested by Deputy Sheriff Lawlis on a warrant issued by Trial Justice Fessenden of Port Fairfield, charging murder. The hearing will be held at Port Fairfield. This is done in order to save the county the expense of bringing witnesses to Houlton.

FRANK D. SAFFORD, HOTEL CLERK
CONVICTED AFTER JURY DELIB-
ERATED SEVEN HOURS

NEW YORK, May 6.—A verdict of guilty was returned late last night against Frank D. Safford, the aged hotel clerk of the Hotel Kensington, in Plainfield, N. J., who was charged with perjury in connection with proceedings growing out of the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Rae Fanger against James M. Osborne, a widely known criminal lawyer. The jury deliberated more than seven hours.

Considerable excitement followed the announcement of the verdict. After Judge Hough had left the bench, Assistant United States District Attorney Roger B. Wood, who conducted the prosecution and Benjamin Slade of counsel for the defense, engaged in a wordy passage. A disturbance followed which deputy marshals finally quelled, clearing the crowd from the court room.

Judge Hough said he would make an investigation into the occurrence, in which it was reported two of the jurors were involved. The jury in convicting Safford recommended him to the mercy of the court and asked he be dealt with leniently. He will be brought up for sentence on Monday next. It was learned after court adjourned that trials of the six remaining persons under indictment in connection with the case revolving around Mr. Osborne will be begun forthwith. The first to be tried, it was stated, would be Miss Tanzer herself.

MANCHESTER BARBER SETS NEW
DRAWN DURING EXHIBITION

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 6.—Joseph Dugout, a Manchester barber, has established a record in shaving 84 men in one hour. The feat was performed at the shop of Hornistad, Pellerin, Monday night, and was witnessed by a large crowd.

The performance came about through the belief on the part of Mr. Guimont that he could surpass the record of a Boston barber who shaved 82 men in 60 minutes. Mr. Guimont went him 22 better, and the shaving was done so neatly that not a drop of blood was drawn on one of the men shaved.

NEWS FROM WATERFRONT

ARMIES OF ALLIES GOING OUT
THIS WEEK

BOSTON, May 6.—More than 3300 horses for the armies of the allies will be shipped to England this week from Boston.

The Leyland line steamship Colombia which sailed yesterday afternoon for Avonmouth and London, carried 597 head. The horses came by rail from different points in the west. The Leyland line steamships Cambrian and Ninian, which will leave tomorrow for London and Manchester respectively, and the Bohemian, sailing Saturday for Liverpool, will also carry horses. The Cambrian will take about 700, Ninian 500 and the Bohemian about 500.

It is understood that 20,000 more horses for the British army will be shipped from Boston by steamers of the Leyland line.

Bringing the largest and most valuable shipment of wool ever shipped to Boston, the British steamship Colusa, under charter to the White Star line, is expected to arrive in a few days from Australian ports. The vessel picked up her immense cargo at Newcastle, Melbourne, Port Pirie and Brisbane, sailing from the latter port April 1. She followed a course through the Panama canal, cutting off about 3000 miles from the old route. The distance via the canal is about 5000 miles. The cargo of the Colusa consists of 22,000 bales, valued approximately at $1,500,000. The entire cargo is consigned to Boston importers.

The former British bark Rakia, now at this port loading a cargo of spruce deals for England, has been changed to American registry and her name changed to Ruth Spark, after a daughter of a Boston merchant who is one of the stockholders in the vessel.

Light receipts of fish yesterday caused a sharp advance in prices. Bulk quotations were as follows: Steam cod, 21-2 cents per pound; market cod, 13-4 cents; haddock, 6-1-4 to 7-3-4 cents; steak pollock, 5-1-2 cents; large hake, 4-1-4 cents; medium hake, 2-1-4 cents; steak cusk, 2-1-4 cents.

Because of the heavy movement of wood and other freight from New York to Boston, the steamer Herman Winter, of the Metropolitan line, made an extra trip last evening. The steamer arrived in the morning and was rushed back to the metropolis last evening.

The Norwegian steamer Falk arrived yesterday from Manchester, Cuba, with a cargo of sugar for the Boston Sugar Refining Co. Olef Jonassen, 3-year-old son of the captain, made the trip with his father and brought with him his bicycle. During the trip the boy rode his wheel on deck and because so expert that even when the vessel was rolling in a heavy sea he could maintain his equilibrium. Capt. Jonassen's wife and young daughter also accompanied him.

THE ART OF SMILING

It was always believed by her friends at home that Cecil was not a pretty girl. She herself realized this fact perhaps more keenly than any of them. It might have worried her more than anybody suspected, but Cecil went her way in rather gloomy reticence, and was painfully lacking in self confidence.

It was two years later in the city that Cecil was considered a very attractive girl by a new coterie of friends. Her hair remained the same, she dressed her own quiet way, and she did not adopt the latest modes in powders as did so many of her friends. Cecil was innately a quiet girl and the city had not robbed her of her charm, but Cecil had learned to smile.

The smile sprang directly from the heart and was reflected in her shining eyes, as well as in the graceful curves of her lips and fine showing of her teeth. Cecil was happy, she had learned to smile, and she was considered attractive.

The art of smiling is one of the most attractive of all a woman's wiles. The cold reserve of aristocratic lips never won the warmth and wholeheartedness from the world, as did the unaffected sweet smile of an otherwise plain girl.

Fr. Hally will be succeeded by the Rev. P. J. Duran of the Sacred Heart church, Cambridge, who has been named as administrator.

MILAN MAISEL

NEW YORK, May 6.—Two players who are sure to cause consternation among opposing backstops in the American league this season are Fritz Maisel, the fleet footed third sacker of the Yankees, and Clyde Milan, who holds down a position in the outer works of the Washington brigade. Both these "birds" are "some pumpkins" at base thieving.

Only success in the face of tremendous odds can bring about an arrest before still another outrage of the same sort has been committed.

These conclusions have been reached after endeavor under the spur of much more than this crime alone. This spur

They count that day lost which does not meet them at least one basket to add to their total, and a bag of three or four is not an unusual performance for either. Until the advent of Fritz, Milan was wont to battle for the "burglary" honors with T. Raymond Cobb of Detroit, and not infrequently he bested the great Ty. Now, however, Cobb is puffed in this particular line. He has decided that he will keep out of the competition this season, leaving the field to the Washington and New York entries. Maisel led the league last year in this department with seventy-eight bases to his credit. This season he is out to make 100, and if he achieves his ambition he will have earned a place for himself in the baseball "hall of fame" and his name will go ringing down the ages along with those of Rustie, Anson, Mathewson, Cobb, et al. Incidentally he will set a pace that will make even the "deer footed" Milan sprint to keep up with.

properly, and that the digestion will be impaired unless dental care is given. The following prescription is fine for children's teeth, if compounded by a careful druggist:

Precipitated chalk, one ounce; powdered resorcin, powdered myrrh and powdered castile soap, each fifteen grains with a few drops of wintergreen added to flavor it. If a sweet taste is desired, a half grain of sucharin may be added to one ounce of powder.

Genuine castile soap and tepid water makes a good tooth wash. The following is also recommended for the same purpose: Boracic acid, one dram; tincture eucalyptus, five drams; absolute alcohol, four ounces; oil of peppermint, fifteen drops. Great care should be taken in brushing the teeth not to irritate the gums and make them bleed, as this will cause them to retract.

Without question there are children who are "pictures of health" and at the same time lazy enough to exasperate their parents and teachers. When it has been made sure that the picture of health is not a deceptive appearance, it is time to look for their causes, and not till then. Judging from the appearance of the schools, there are lazy children who have good health.

But the usual attitude toward indifference to work is hardly effective in making children get over it. To scold and to drive may help in getting a particular task finished, but is not very helpful in establishing habits of industry.

By nature the child adapts himself very readily to the establishment of such habits. In the first place there are the instincts of activity, the native curiosity and the imitableness. And in the next place is the ease with which repeated acts become organized into habits. Could anything be easier than to make a child get into the habit of doing something all of his waking time?

The making of little garments for the expected baby is lovely and fascinating work. Every stitch brings you closer to the little newcomer. It is a good plan to lay out all your work in a systematic way. Make all the nightgowns at one time, fold them carefully and put them away; then all the nightgowns, and so on through the list. Keep pick-up work on hand to help while away the last long months.

Do not use the machine if you can avoid it; either have someone do the stitching for you, or be content to sew everything by hand. Put small flat buttons on everything and have no pins on your baby except for the napkin and stockings. Let simplicity rule the entire layette.

Design the dresses yourself, not with rows and rows of insertion, but with cunning rows of small hand-run tucks, tiny feather-stitching, daintily embroidered bow-knots or tiny sprays of flowers. Finish the necks with a soft binding and edge of tiny lace. Nain-sooks and the various soft, fine materials are suitable for dresses.

Nowadays enlightened people realize that a child with broken down or painful teeth cannot masticate his food

"I suppose I shall come to it sometime," sighed Marie, "but I am sure I should be blushing every moment I had it on," and she rushed away to wonder at the astonishing freaks of fashion.

"Where did auntie get that beautiful blouse?" questioned Marjorie enthusiastically, as she lovingly discerned the folds of a black net creation which Marie was shaking out preparatory to laying away.

"In Paris, of course," answered Marie. "Wherever else do you think you could get one like that?"

"It is a pretty novelty across the water," continued Marie. "To replace the linen blouse, which is worn less and less this blouse is of black net without lining, crossed in surplice fashion and with short sleeves. As you see all the daintiness of lingerie and ribbon underneath is revealed by this transparent corsage, which is of an indiscretion full of attraction, as well as the fineness of the net, which allows of its being worn with the most elaborate afternoon suits."

"Why," said Marjorie in a shocked voice, "how do they dare to wear them?"

MURDERS IN NEW YORK

Twenty Since January 1 — Six Mysteries — Men, Women and Children Victims

NEW YORK, May 6.—Forty-eight hours of intensive work convinced the police last night of these two things: that the murder of four-year-old Leonore Anna Cohn on March 11

The degenerates who killed him also killed Leonore Anna Cohn on March 11.

Only success in the face of tremendous odds can bring about an arrest before still another outrage of the same sort has been committed.

These conclusions have been reached after endeavor under the spur of much more than this crime alone. This spur

They count that day lost which does not meet them at least one basket to add to their total, and a bag of three or four is not an unusual performance for either. Until the advent of Fritz, Milan was wont to battle for the "burglary" honors with T. Raymond Cobb of Detroit, and not infrequently he bested the great Ty. Now, however, Cobb is puffed in this particular line. He has decided that he will keep out of the competition this season, leaving the field to the Washington and New York entries. Maisel led the league last year in this department with seventy-eight bases to his credit. This season he is out to make 100, and if he achieves his ambition he will have earned a place for himself in the baseball "hall of fame" and his name will go ringing down the ages along with those of Rustie, Anson, Mathewson, Cobb, et al. Incidentally he will set a pace that will make even the "deer footed" Milan sprint to keep up with.

properly, and that the digestion will be impaired unless dental care is given. The following prescription is fine for children's teeth, if compounded by a careful druggist:

Precipitated chalk, one ounce; powdered resorcin, powdered myrrh and powdered castile soap, each fifteen grains with a few drops of wintergreen added to flavor it. If a sweet taste is desired, a half grain of sucharin may be added to one ounce of powder.

Genuine castile soap and tepid water makes a good tooth wash. The following is also recommended for the same purpose: Boracic acid, one dram; tincture eucalyptus, five drams; absolute alcohol, four ounces; oil of peppermint, fifteen drops. Great care should be taken in brushing the teeth not to irritate the gums and make them bleed, as this will cause them to retract.

Without question there are children who are "pictures of health" and at the same time lazy enough to exasperate their parents and teachers. When it has been made sure that the picture of health is not a deceptive appearance, it is time to look for their causes, and not till then. Judging from the appearance of the schools, there are lazy children who have good health.

But the usual attitude toward indifference to work is hardly effective in making children get over it. To scold and to drive may help in getting a particular task finished, but is not very helpful in establishing habits of industry.

By nature the child adapts himself very readily to the establishment of such habits. In the first place there are the instincts of activity, the native curiosity and the imitableness. And in the next place is the ease with which repeated acts become organized into habits. Could anything be easier than to make a child get into the habit of doing something all of his waking time?

The making of little garments for the expected baby is lovely and fascinating work. Every stitch brings you closer to the little newcomer. It is a good plan to lay out all your work in a systematic way. Make all the nightgowns at one time, fold them carefully and put them away; then all the nightgowns, and so on through the list. Keep pick-up work on hand to help while away the last long months.

Do not use the machine if you can avoid it; either have someone do the stitching for you, or be content to sew everything by hand. Put small flat buttons on everything and have no pins on your baby except for the napkin and stockings. Let simplicity rule the entire layette.

Design the dresses yourself, not with rows and rows of insertion, but with cunning rows of small hand-run tucks, tiny feather-stitching, daintily embroidered bow-knots or tiny sprays of flowers. Finish the necks with a soft binding and edge of tiny lace. Nain-sooks and the various soft, fine materials are suitable for dresses.

Nowadays enlightened people realize that a child with broken down or painful teeth cannot masticate his food wishing to dispense conservative husband, the transparent effects are becoming more and more daring. Here is an example, and Marie picked up a robe band of brocade, the same draped very much toward the back. The lower part of the robe was in princess effect, extending up in a bid to the hair.

"It is here that the slattery of the gown is felt," continued Marie. "The shoulders and the sleeves are of black tulle, trimmed with black and unlined. Here the black effect is left out underneath, and the white goes about in this unusual detail. Luckily, her short coat is worn, since no robe is seen unaccompanied by its

"I suppose I shall come to it sometime," sighed Marie, "but I am sure I should be blushing every moment I had it on," and she rushed away to wonder at the astonishing freaks of fashion.

"Where did auntie get that beautiful blouse?" questioned Marjorie enthusiastically, as she lovingly discerned the folds of a black net creation which Marie was shaking out preparatory to laying away.

"In Paris, of course," answered Marie. "Wherever else do you think you could get one like that?"

"It is a pretty novelty across the water," continued Marie. "To replace the linen blouse, which is worn less and less this blouse is of black net without lining, crossed in surplice fashion and with short sleeves. As you see all the daintiness of lingerie and ribbon underneath is revealed by this transparent corsage, which is of an indiscretion full of attraction, as well as the fineness of the net, which allows of its being worn with the most elaborate afternoon suits."

"Why," said Marjorie in a shocked voice, "how do they dare to wear them?"

"Well," rejoined Marie, "without

con first on the list of this year's mysteries. In the police phrase for want of a name, Dunham had "no right to be killed," for neither reward nor profit was served. A collector for a Brooklyn installment house, he was on his rounds of South Brooklyn on Dec. 19, when a hammer was used to kill him. A gravesend swamp yielded up his dismembered body Jan. 1, and a sewer his head and limbs on March 11. It is surprising only that the theft of the $15 or $20 he had taken in was the motive behind the crime.

March 14 saw a second man slain in the course of his day's work. Charles Miller, known in his wrestling days as "Big" Miller, was on duty as a clerk in the Hotel Atlan, 159 West 34th street. Two men came up to his desk and with drawn revolvers demanded access to the cash register drawer. He fought back till mortally wounded by two of the seven bullets fired at him.

About the "best police block" of the west side Miller's murderers made their way to freedom. His own alarm on a police whistle summoned aid, and while the officers carry this case as still "unmuzzled" it is one that will be solved some time, the police say. The hope being "catch-up" man who died the shoot is known, and demands for his arrest have covered the country.

Death Sealed Lips of Doyle Three weeks later came an echo of the Baif case, though with little mystery surrounding it. On the morning of April 3 Luke Doyle died in Hudson street hospital. Held as a material witness in the Baif murder, Doyle was released from the Tombs to be shot down on March 11. To the day of his death he held his tongue, but the police declare that he could, if he would, have made the case an open book. His own fate, the authorities add, was the certain if indirect result of his knowledge of Baif's.

Early on the morning of April 5 Otto Zinn was roused by the noise of safe robbers at work in his restaurant at No. 56 Third avenue. With Stefan Kventj and Roman Held, his porters, Zinn made his way to the cellar, toward which the robbers had started with the safe. None of the men came back alive, and the third of the mysteries awaited the police.

When the police were summoned they found the three hacked to death with a hatchet. The search of the next few days established a basis for a theory that a "red-haired giant" had done the triple murder, but for all the work done then and since there is no promise that an arrest will ever come except through the guilty man's own initiative.

April 10 brought to the Bronx a mystery perfect in every element. The body of a woman was found beneath a pile of stones at Nobla avenue and One Hundred and Seventy-Seventh street. Active and widely extended inquiry has brought to light neither the identity of the woman, the place of her killing nor the motive for it.

On April 23 came murder in the home—the fourth of the six referred to. Just a week before, Mrs. Julia Heller, of No. 217 Algonquin road, Brooklyn, gave work to Joseph J. Hanel, who called himself a steward on the International Vandalia. He was, in reality, fresh from a term for house-breaking in Moyamensing prison, Philadelphia, and pretended to be a "victim" of the war only that living on charity might be made easier for him.

Discovered as the police now believe, drizzling beer, as he had promised he would not, Hanel used the bottle as a weapon, and with a blow killed his benefactress. He stripped from her body the small amount of jewelry she wore, and although but an hour elapsed before the alarm was given, that hour was sufficient for Hanel to make his escape to Philadelphia, pawn the jewelry and go into hiding. Not for a moment does headquarters doubt that time will see justice served in this case, but it is still "open," though the number of detectives that worked on it at the beginning was 600, and within 24 hours circulars by the tens of thousands carried the news to other cities that Hanel was charged with the murder.

The fifth and sixth of the cases extraordinary bear a resemblance that is in itself one of the difficulties that beset the police. These are the "Ripper" murders of five-year-old Leonore Anna Cohn, slain in a hallway at No. 325 Third avenue, on March 10, and of four-year-old Charles Murray, slain in a hallway at No. 270 First avenue, Monday night.

Cunning that goes with the most baffling of all the types of degeneracy has made these two crimes seem sure of a place among the historic out-castes of the city. No crimes have ever been made the object of more highly specialized investigation by the New York department. Seven weeks after the first of them had been committed, ten detectives are still at work on it. As for the second, methods new to police practice are being tried to the utmost.

Chief among these was the automatic transfer to plain clothes duty of 20 policemen regularly on duty in the neighborhood of the Murray home. They joined the six men of the homicide squad of that detective district, while 30 other men were assigned in addition. The inspectors of the detective division have been in "personal command," and it has still been necessary for them to warn the mothers of the city that their children are at the mercy of a monster.

THREATENS ANOTHER MURDER NEW YORK, May 6.—The letter-writing murderer who killed 5-year-old Eleanor Cohn and 4-year-old Charles Murray has written to the Murray boy's mother, telling her that he will commit another murder when the present excitement over her child's death subsides.

The letter was received today. Mrs. Murray read one paragraph and collapsed. The missive was taken to police headquarters to be examined for fingerprints.

JUDGE ENRIGHT'S FINDING HE AWARDS PLAINTIFF $250 IN CASE AGAINST ESTATE OF LATE J. W. FLETCHER

Judge Enright has filed a finding of $250 and interest for the plaintiff in the case of H. F. Askenasy, a Boston jeweler, vs. Charles L. Knapp, executor of the will of J. W. Fletcher, which was tried in the local police court on the afternoon of April 21. Charles J. Wier appeared for the plaintiff and Judge P. A. Fisher for the defendant.

It will be recalled that J. W. Fletcher, the palmist, was a Lowell man who died suddenly in his apartments in Boston. After his death the plaintiff sent to his estate a bill for a diamond ring which he alleged was sold to Mr. Fletcher a short time before his death. The defense contended that the ring was not found among the deceased's property and that he either did not purchase the ring or that it was taken from his apartments. The ring was said to be valued at $250.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

One should remember that most "supervision" is meddling, and that one does the child a real injury in correcting a mistake which, with a little more time and experience, he would have been able to correct for himself.

It is well to keep in mind also that little children, some of them at least, have a peculiarity shared by many of us adults, and that is a nervousness under even silent inspection. Even though we may refrain from actually interfering in the child's fumbling efforts to conquer his own lack of muscular precision, we may wear on him nervously if we give too close attention to his efforts.

The right thing is to show him, if necessary, what he is to try to do, and then if it arouses his interest so that he sets to work upon it, we will do well to busy ourselves somewhat ostentatiously with something else in the room.

This spring brought out many smartly dressed children who paced up the avenue beside their elders on the way home from church, evidently conscious of dainty new flairs, as older women would not dare to appear conscious of the same.

And all the little girls were beruffled coats. Sometimes there were but two ruffles, but oftener there were three, or four, or even six gay, fluttering ruffles below the sash or belt. These ruffled coats did not fall to the knee, but way between knee and waist line, the frock of white lawn and embroidery showing beneath.

An enchanting little coat was of Edgewood blue mohair and worsted mixture with buttons of white pearl and six narrow ruffles of Wedgewood blue plushy willow hemmed, overlapping each other below a wide belt of blue suede. The little girl's hat was trimmed with blue cornflowers and her blue eyes matched the tones of her new costume.

For the little mother-to-be, there are a number of requisites of none of which should be forgotten. Plenty of night gowns, of extra amplitude, are, of course, the first necessity. Then come the pretty bed clothes, made with reference to the poetic attractiveness of motherhood.

In one instance all were of washable crepe, made with dainty and original touches. The nursing night gowns, by the way, were of unique designs, having a buttoned-over place at the front for convenience in nursing. The bed-doir caps matched or pleasantly contrasted with the bed sacques, and one could readily imagine how prettily these will frame the sweet mother face.

Then, for the time when the home duties will be resumed, there is a quota of house dresses made on the order of kimono aprons, but having the buttoned front like the night gowns, so that baby's comfort shall be easily compassed.

LOWELL 8-FITCHBURG 5

SAYS SHE WAS OFFERED $300 TO CHANGE STORY

MINNOLA, N. Y., May 6.—Celia Coleman, the negro maid who is the chief witness for the state in the trial of Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise D. Bailey, created a sensation on indirect examination today by testifying that a negro detective named George Hicks had endeavored to induce her to change her story of the murder and told her that if she would do so Mrs. Carman would pay her $300.

"Hicks came to Charleston, S. C. where I was spending the winter," said the witness, "and told me Mrs. Carman would give me $200 if I would change my story."

Mrs. Carman's attorney objected to the admission of the testimony, but was overruled upon his admission that Hicks was connected with the defense. Mrs. Carman evinced considerable agita-

For the first time this season something resembling baseball weather prevailed when the Fitchburg club made its initial trip to Spaulding park today. It is far warmer at the local baseball yard than at either of the Worcester Games.

Dan Noonan, last year's Lawrence magazine and this season the "main squeeze" in Fitchburg baseball circles, accompanied the visitors. Dan is the same old happy-go-lucky fellow who is usually looking for a diamond ring to give to the girl of his dreams. He is a difficult thing to put into a small city club, but Noonan has a good team assembled and should go along all right.

Manager McCune is another factor in the enterprise of the Fitchburg team this year. McCune is the former Worcester player and has been in this circuit for nearly a dozen seasons. He is well liked by fans and players alike and is also a thorough student of the game. Mac makes an ideal manager for Noonan, and the pair should be supported.

Barrows and his men were rampant today over their defeat of yesterday. After the slaughtering that the Worcester pitchers received at the hands of the local batters the day before, the latter expected to knock the cover off every ball yesterday. Only one earned run, however, graced their efforts and this was the work of the Fitchburg pitcher, Greenhalge.

The "timbers" used in yesterday's contest were given to caretaker Dan Finerty and a new bunch of bats. That don't carry base knockers inside of them are superfluous property for any ball club.

Manager McCune appeared to be just as confident of taking today's game as were the locals. "We'll make it two in nine," he said, as he grinned across the Lowell leader. The grin brought no response for yesterday's rebuff still sat heavy on "Coke's" sensibilities.

The "timbers" of the Lowell team were on hand today and announced the batteries at 3 o'clock.

NEWS FROM CITY HALL AND DEPARTMENT WORK

The great big "deed-lighted" that cracks out from the iron jaws of the terrible Teddy, author, soldier, sailor, cow-puncher, and a thousand other things, was never one whit bigger than was the smile of delight that enlivened Charlie Morse's splendidly moulded countenance today when he told of the street watering contract being picked up again by the American Car Springing Company. Charlie admits that it would have put him to a sore test to have done all the street watering with the old horse-drawn carts. The fear was upon him that he might have to purchase a few automobile sprinklers and he doesn't relish big purchases, not that he is bigly in the expenditure of money, but especially because of his disposition on the part of his colleagues on the board to butt in and take the whole business out of his hands, like they tried to do in this case.

ITALY RUSHES WAR PLANS

MILITARY PREPARATIONS BEING COMPLETED WITH GREAT ENERGY

ON THE ITALIAN FRONTIER, Wednesday, May 6, via Paris, May 6.—At the same time that the negotiations between Italy and Austria are being continued, Italy's military preparations are being completed with as much energy as though the country expected to participate in war tomorrow.

All the carabinieri and the customs guards, who in Italy are attached to the army, have been called to the colors and all military leaves of absence have been cancelled.

The frontier of Italy on the Austrian side has been strongly fortified. All the passes are protected with entrenchments and wire entanglements. Concrete has been used in a number of places in the erection of barricades for the protection of the soldiers.

Special measures have been adopted for the defense of Venice and the art treasures in that city. The naval authorities are of the opinion that long range guns of large calibre are sufficient to prevent any hostile fleet from bombarding the city but attack from aeroplanes is feared. To afford protection against the onslaughts of aviators anti-airship guns have been set up at several points around the city.

TO DISLODGE RUSSIANS N. G. NORCROSS ELECTED

GERMANS DEVELOPING SERIOUS MOVEMENT IN BALTIC PROVINCES OF RUSSIA

PETROGRAD, May 6.—With intermittent activity, consisting chiefly of intense artillery fire along the whole front from the Baltic provinces to the Austrian crownland of Bukovina, the Germans are developing a most serious movement in large force from the region of the Austrian fortress of Cracow in the direction of the river Dunajec. The Germans succeeded in forcing the river but, according to Russian advices they were effectively checked on the east bank by artillery fire.

In number of troops and pieces of artillery and generally through the vigorous character of the movement this offensive eclipses all the other scattering maneuvers the Germans have been employing in an attempt to dislodge the Russians from the Carpathian mountains.

On May 2 German forces in a hurried advance until they approached to within 200 paces of the Russian trenches near Gorlice. There, though badly crippled by Russian artillery, they held their positions until nightfall.

In the region of Opotow and Lopow, no fewer than 20 German divisions are in the upper Vistula and the Carpathians, fierce fighting is being waged. After long artillery engagements the outcome of these battles usually is decided by bayonet encounters.

A furious engagement near Gorlice still continues unabated while to the eastward along the Carpathian front and near Lubowka, Kozlowka and Galovelski the heights changed hands three times before the Russians obtained permanent possession of them on May 3.

HACKS ARE SCARCE

It is a long time since there has been such a demand for carriages for funerals as that which has overwhelmed the undertakers and stablekeepers this week. The demand had been much greater than the supply of hacks and in one case, it is said, the funeral was postponed a day on account of the scarcity of conveyances.

FIERCE BATTLE IN WESTERN GALICIA

The battle in western Galicia, launched a few days ago with an Austro-German attack from the Craoow region, has developed into one of the greatest encounters of the war. Petrograd despatches admit that the situation is a serious one, although it is asserted there that the advance has been checked. At Vienna and Berlin, however, it is claimed the Russians have begun a general retreat that their whole position in the Carpathians is precarious and that the entire eastern campaign may turn on the events of the next few days.

Vienna advices say a desperate battle continued all day yesterday and that the Austrians and Germans took a new position after another from the Russians.

German Invasion of Russia

The German Invasion of the Baltic provinces of Russia, which is regarded lightly in Petrograd, is said in Berlin to be an important movement under the personal direction of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg. His aim is believed to be the capture of Libau and Riga which would enable him to harass Russian communications with Petrograd.

Gains by Germans

In Beilgum further gains have been made by the Germans. The official French statement concedes that German forces won positions on the disputed hill number 60 near Ypres, and that the British were able to retake only part of them. Sharp fighting is in progress elsewhere along the western front, but apparently with no decided changes.

THREE PERSONS INJURED

HEAVY PROPERTY DAMAGE BY WINDSTORM AT ARDMORE, OKLA. ROMA

ARDMORE, OKLA., May 6.—Three persons were injured and much property damaged here, today, by a heavy wind storm. It was reported that Wilcox, Okla., near here, was hit by a storm which blew down 40 buildings but that no one was seriously injured there. Winds of almost tornado proportions were reported over a wide section of southern Oklahoma.

SINKING OF RELIEF SHIP

BRITISH STEAMER HARPALYCE REPORTED TORPEDOED WITHIN 23 MILES OF DUTCH COAST

LONDON, May 6.—The British steamer Harpalyce, under charter to the American-Belgian relief committee, which was sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea the early part of April, was torpedoed within 23 miles of the Dutch coast, according to a report made to the British admiralty after an investigation which was confined chiefly to an examination of the members of the crew of the steamer for the reason that no part of the ship remained afloat.

The report asserts that the Harpalyce at the time she was attacked flew the flag of the relief commission and that she had also large sheets bearing the name of the commission stretched along her sides. The report points out particularly that it was proved the vessel was not within the war zone when she was sent to the bottom.

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

The Painters' union will meet tonight in the Painters' hall in the Rumels building.

There will be an open meeting of the machinists tonight at Cotton Spinners' hall, Middle street.

James Cooney, formerly employed at the Lowell Rendering Co., has accepted a position at the Saco-Lowell foundry.

Organizer Thomas McMahon of the United Textile Workers went to Maynard Tuesday night where he addressed a large meeting of mill operatives.

Now that the good weather is here the department store clerks will be given their Thursday afternoons off, and it certainly can't be said that they don't deserve the half holiday.

Charles E. Anderson of the Trades & Labor council left today for Providence, R. I. where he will attend the New England Conference of Moulders. He will remain over the week end.

Chester Hartigan, the well known athlete, is now working on the night shift at the U. S. Carriage Co. Chester is getting in form for a number of track events to be held during the summer season.

Frank Merritt, a prominent member of the Electrical Workers' union, and a son of "Billy" Merritt the old Lowell catcher and former big leaguer, will be seen doing mound duty for one of the fastest amateur teams in the city this year.

The Moynihan brothers, James and

John, who are members of the Bricklayers' union are attracting considerable attention in their high powered bullock roster. The car has been recently overhauled and Jim says it can make 50 without half trying.

Union officials state that the Snow Co. of Brockton, which has some difficulty over prices with its help and decided to move to other quarters will not come to this city. Thus are now arranged according to a prominent labor official, whereby the company will stay in Brockton and the shoe manufacturing that has been done at the Field-Lambert plant in West Adams street will be discontinued.

"Babe" Christo, one of Lowell's prominent waterweights, is working on the night shift at the U. S. Carriage Co. "Babe" has met and defeated some good men this season and says he is willing to meet any boy in the world who can make his weight. He is a brother of "Joe," who acquired fame a few years ago in marathon circles.

Carpenters' Union, Local 1610

The Carpenters' union, local 1610 held a largely attended and interesting meeting in the union headquarters in the Rumels building last evening and considerable business of importance was transacted. Nothing was said relative to the agreement with the contractors which expires May 6. Two new members were admitted and several applications were turned over to the investigating committee.

A number of reports were read and accepted as progressive and a bunch of communications were turned over to the secretary for proper disposal. The business agent's report showed the majority of members steadily employed and the secretary reported the union to be in excellent financial condition.

Nearly 40,000 women employed by the jewelry trade in the Birmingham district in England were thrown out of work due to the war.

BROCKTON WOMAN UNDER ARREST ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO MURDER MAN

BROCKTON, May 6.—Mrs. L. A. Lombardi, 26, a chocolate dipper, living apart from her husband, is under arrest on the charge of assault with intent to murder Placido Bergamasco of about the same age.

Mrs. Lombardi makes a serious allegation against the man. She shot at him as she started to enter the A. E. Little & Co. factory this morning and then calmly walked to the police station, not far away, and gave herself up. Bergamasco was not severely wounded, receiving the revolver bullet in his hand as he tried to prevent the woman from shooting.

FULTZ WINS DEBUTANTE

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., May 6.

When Attorney David L. Fultz, head of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, played ball in this place 17 years ago, he in sport pushed a friend's baby carriage through the streets.

"I'm going to wait for you," remarked Fultz, as he cuddled the pretty little girl occupant under the chin.

Mr. Fultz's engagement to that same child, one of the prettiest debutantes of the season, was announced this week.

Mr. Fultz attended a reception here on New Year's given by Mr. and Mrs. William Lauder. He was introduced to Miss Ida M. Verlin and it was love at first sight.

He did not know it at the time, but the girl he loved was the babe he had cuddled in her infancy.

The marriage will take place in June.

BANQUET AT WAVERLY ANNUAL MAY PARTY

Members of the local division of the A. O. H. gathered last evening to the number of about 120, at the Waverly hotel at a complimentary banquet to their visiting national president, Joseph McLaughlin. James O'Sullivan presided as toastmaster, and speeches were made by President McLaughlin, Mayor Dennis J. Murphy, State President John F. Donnelly and Capt. Dinon of Boston. The addresses were on Irish and American subjects and were characterized by earnestness and loyalty to the flag.

Preceding the banquet a great mass meeting was held in Hibernian hall, attended by hundreds of Hibernians from all local divisions. President McLaughlin made a stirring address, speaking for almost an hour, and made an excellent impression on his audience. The meeting and banquet were under the auspices of the Central council, A. O. H.

HOOF DISEASE STOPPED

UNITED STATES QUARANTINE MAY SOON BE LIFTED BUT CARE IS NECESSARY

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Though believing the foot and mouth disease epidemic practically wiped out in the United States, the agriculture department is not relaxing vigilance. Like typhoid fever, its victims sometimes spread infection after they themselves are cured and it will be some time yet before the quarantine will be lifted entirely.

Defending the slaughter of more than 140,000 animals during the war on the disease, the department cites the case of Germany where the disease has been allowed to gain such a hold at times that the slaughter of exposed animals could not be resorted to. In 1911, for example, it was estimated that there were 3,366,353 head of cattle, 1,602,527 sheep, 2,557,271 horses and 5,674 goats suffering from the disease in Germany, making the pestilence a perpetual drain on the farmers. There are more than three times as many of these animals in the United States as in Germany and the consequences of allowing the disease to get such a foothold are obvious.

BIG SHIPMENT OF GOLD

FRANCE WILL SEND $10,000,000 HERE AS PAYMENT FOR GOODS—FEAR SUBMARINE ATTACK

NEW YORK, May 6.—Ships sailing from France to this country during the next two weeks are likely to afford a very inviting target to German submarines, as the Bank of France is preparing to ship $10,000,000 in gold to this country during that period for the payment of supplies purchased here. These shipments are in addition to the $2,000,000 in gold received from that source last Tuesday.

All told $12,300,000 has been withdrawn from the Bank of France within the last two weeks and while no official announcement has been made it is understood in banking circles that all the money will be sent to New York.

The greatest secrecy, however, is being maintained as to the date of the shipment and the names of the vessels selected as carriers, because of the danger of inviting submarine attack.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY

WEYMOUTH, May 6.—Joseph E. L. Miller of Weymouth was held in $1500 for the grand jury by Judge Cook in the Quincy district court yesterday on the charge of manslaughter, and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, causing the death of Chief of Police Farrington of Weymouth on the night of April 16. The case was continued to Saturday, as Miller had but one bondsman present.

MOTORCYCLE HONEYMOON

A motorcycle unexpectedly carried Mr. and Mrs. Willett Seaman of Mineola, N. Y., on their honeymoon trip. Seaman and Miss Helen Downs rode to the home of Justice of Peace Dodge, where they were married. Then they discovered that they had just missed the train which was to convey them to New York. "Never mind," said the bride, "you start the motor and I'll hop on behind." So within a few minutes they were chugging away in the direction of New York.

FORMER U. S. SENATOR ARRESTED IN AUSTRIA

VIENNA, May 6.—Former United States Senator Lafayette Young, of Des Moines, Ia., accompanied by a former deputy American consul at Bern, Switzerland, was arrested at Innsbruck, Austria, yesterday on a suspicion of espionage directed against Mr. Young's companion.

Mr. Young was promptly released with apologies after a few hours' detention in his hotel, but his companion was held in custody in the hotel until today before he was able to satisfy the suspicions of the authorities who apparently had been warned to look for a man of the same name.

Mr. Young arrived in Vienna this morning. Speaking of the incident, he said he saw no reason for complaint. He left later in the day for Berlin.

CAR SPRINKLERS

The Company Reaches an Agreement With the St. Ry. Union

Back to the sheds with the horse-drawn watering carts. The car sprinklers are in operation again and just for that 14 men are off the water wagon today. The American Car Sprinkler company had smashed its street watering contract with the city, but the break is mended.

Mr. Morse, who announced that the company had put the Dutch toe-hold on the contract and it seemed to Mr. Morse as if it was even more serious than the break in the Tanner street sewer. The company had given up "all of a sudden" and Mr. Morse proposed to get his old watering carts in line. Because of the cars and they had to be soaked well in order to lighten them. But when they were all ready for business Charlie Morse was pleased, not only because they revived memories of by-gone days, but especially because he was able to provide seats on the water wagon for 14 men.

The resumption of operations by the car sprinkler company was due to a conference by Frank R. Perry, general manager for the company, and representatives of local 250, Street Railway Employees union. The conference was held last night and the agreement reached, it is understood, was to the effect that union conductors employed on the sprinklers shall receive $16.50 a week. The company originally offered to pay $15.12 and the union asked $17.08.

ENGLAND TO PUNISH FOES

RECORD OF GERMANY'S OFFENSES KEPT, SAYS PREMIER ASQUITH IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

LONDON, May 6.—When the proper time comes due reparation will be exacted on those—whatever their position or their antecedents—if it can be shown that they have violated all the rules and usages of civilized warfare," said Premier Asquith in the house of commons last evening during the course of a debate on the treatment of prisoners of war by Germany. He added that a careful record of events was being kept and of evidence which could be obtained in order that, when the proper hour came, proper punishment might be meted out.

The premier referred to the question of the neutral internment of prisoners which had been considered in Switzerland, he said, was the only country where it could be done, and there were insuperable difficulties in the way of carrying out the proposals.

The duty of this country, continued the premier, "is to preserve a clean record."

The question had been brought up by Lord Robert Cecil, who said he had received letters from officers who had been subjected to special punishment by Germany because of the special protection afforded them by such nations as Great Britain.

The British officers declared that they were being kept separately in cells, 12 by six feet in size, and were not allowed to smoke.

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, hoped that the country would no longer pay any attention to any convention which would prevent the war being brought to an end. It was worth considering, he said, whether at the risk of losing all British property in Germany, they should consider the question of internment of the British empire.

IN POLICE COURT

Interesting Milk Case —Woman Requests Sentence to Jail

James E. Moody, manager of the Turner Centre Creamery, was found not guilty of having in his possession an unmarked vessel containing skimmed milk, by Judge Enright in the local court today. Melvin Masters conducted the case for the prosecution and William A. Hogan appeared for the defendant.

The prosecution alleged that a driver employed by Mr. Moody had a can of skimmed milk on the wagon which was not stamped according to law. The collector of milk samples, John J. Coughlin, took four samples from the defendant's milk cart and after bottling them up, turned all over to Mr. Masters, milk inspector. At the time the driver informed Mr. Coughlin that one of the cans which he tested contained buttermilk.

Mr. Masters testified that he analyzed the four samples and found three all right and one to be skimmed milk. Under cross-examination, however, he said that skimmed milk and buttermilk analyzed exactly the same and that there was no law compelling milk dealers to label receptacles filled with buttermilk. His Honor did not believe that the prosecution had shown that the milk in question was skimmed and not buttermilk and ordered the defendant discharged.

Five of seven offenders before the court for drunkenness this forenoon were visitors to the city, one coming from Maine, two from New Hampshire and one from Billerica. The latter was a middle-aged woman who was recently released as a first offender. When questioned by the court, she said that she had been drinking cider in the suburban town and came to Lowell yesterday to get some beer for a change. Judge Enright decided to put the woman on probation and she started for Probation Officer Silattery's office but returned shortly and asked to be sent to jail in order to overcome her craving for liquor. At her own request, his Honor imposed a 20 days' sentence to the Lowell jail. Peter Haggart came to Lowell from Goff's Falls, N. H., and after being found guilty of drunkenness was given five minutes to leave the city with a five months' suspended sentence to jail hanging over his head. William F. Stanley of Hudson, N. H., was sent to jail for 15 days and James Bennett of Brockton and Clarence P. Braddon of Maine were given suspended sentences on condition that they stay away from Lowell.

Phyllis Ducharme was complained of by his wife for non-support. The latter testified that she had received only about $50 from her husband during the past year and she had struggled continually to support her family. A four months' sentence to the house of correction was ordered and Mrs. Ducharme will receive three dollars weekly from the county.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

SHARPSHOOTERS IN COURT AT SALEM FOR CAUSING DEATH OF LYNN BOY

SALEM, May 6.—Robert W. Griffin, a former cavalry lieutenant in the United States army, and his Indian wife were put on trial in the Superior court here yesterday on a charge of manslaughter, in having caused the death of Michael P. Griffin, aged 16, in a Lynn theatre, May 19, 1914, where the defendants were appearing in a sharpshooting act. It is alleged that Mrs. Griffin, in trying to shoot a potato from the head of the Griffin boy, missed her aim and fatally wounded him. Griffin, who previously pleaded guilty, was allowed to change his plea to not guilty, his wife also pleading not guilty.

Mrs. Griffin, speaking in her defence, said she was the daughter of a Comanche chief and was accustomed to sharpshooting from girlhood. She had seen exhibitions all over the world and did not know there was any law against them here. The boy had volunteered for the act, she said, and the wound was entirely accidental.

The defendants had no counsel, but presented their own case in a clear, straightforward way. On May 21, Judge Sullivan made his argument to the jury and court then adjourned. Judge Quinn charged the jury this morning.

GOMPER'S STATEMENT

SAYS CONVICTION OF LABOR LEADER JOHN R. LAWSON IS A TRAVESTY ON JUSTICE

BOSTON, May 6.—"The conviction of John R. Lawson is a travesty on justice. If there is any elementary justice in our country, he will never have to serve again, much less a life-time sentence."

This was the view which Samuel Gomper, president of the A. F. of L., expressed to a reporter last night of the sentence imposed upon Lawson Monday when the Colorado labor leader was found guilty of murder in the first degree in connection with the death at Ludlow, Col., Oct. 25, 1913, of John D. McDonald, a deputy sheriff.

EXTRA PAIR OF RIBS

EVERETT DOCTOR REMOVED THEM FROM YOUNG LADY OF THAT TOWN

BOSTON, May 6.—Dr. Gyrdie W. Dickinson of Boston and Everett performed, with apparent success, a remarkable operation when he removed a 13th pair of ribs which for years had caused Miss Alice Allen of 24 Henry street, Everett, excruciating pain.

The operation was performed at the Whidden Memorial hospital, Everett, and was witnessed by several eminent surgeons and physicians, who assisted Dr. Dickinson.

The ribs (an extra pair), which were regularly formed and placed between the seventh and eighth vertebrae, so forced down upon certain joints and veins that Miss Allen suffered a constant pain in her shoulder. It was so severe that she had to give up her school life some 14 years ago and also her intended vocation as a teacher. She had to learn to use her left hand instead of her right, and in many other ways suffered from the malformation.

The evening's festivities were unanimously voted a complete success and the organization received the warm wishes of everybody. Judging by the enthusiasm displayed last evening it will prove to be permanent. The officers elected are as follows: Thomas P. Scanlon, president; Joseph Perry, secretary; James J. Mahoney, treasurer.

SCENE FROM JACK LONDON'S "ODYSSEY OF THE NORTH" AT THE ACADEMY TODAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KETTER'S THEATRE

Remember that, with all the good shows at the B. F. Ketter theatre, in the past, there has never been such a rush for seats as characterizes the present week. Without question the biggest week's business in the history of the theatre will be the result, and it is due to the fact that probably the most attractive combination of acts ever offered locally is on the tapis. "The Fashion Show," a style musical-comedy, featuring Hugo Jensen, Melba Barker, Blanche Latell and Earl Carr, and four mighty classy models, is the leading feature of this show. Beginning this afternoon Jensen will design six entirely new gowns, and will show them on his models. Also, the veritable entertainer, gets a half dozen encores at each performance, and the Five Violin Beauties, with Miss Ethel Sharrow holding a leading position, proves to be one of the very best of musical entertainments. "The Fisher," a clever little comedy, is played by Marion Buell & Co. and Maxens & Clements, grand opera singers, are among the best in their line. Other points of interest are Litten & Co. artists, entertainers, the Musical Chef, the Hearst-Selig and the St. John-St. Vincent de Paul football games. Seats are going fast. Get one. Phone 28.

THE OWL THEATRE

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

A beautiful and thrilling photoplay of Jack London's "Odyssey of the North" is the feature of the Academy of Music performance for today, Friday and Saturday. The leading part in this six-reel production is played by the celebrated Hobart Bosworth and the role he plays is one in which he appears at his best. The story is a powerful one and there is not a dull moment throughout the entire six parts. The picture is one of the famous Paramount triumphs and has been widely commended. The program at the Academy during the last three days of this week is one of the highest merit. In addition to the Paramount offering, patrons will see two other good dramas and a comedy.

FOR MEMORIAL DAY

HELD

At the post meeting last evening, general orders from department and national headquarters, relating to the recent department convention and to Memorial Day were read. Comrades Augustus V. Hovey, of 185, W. L. Dickey, of 120, and George E. Worthen, of 42, were appointed by the department commander on his staff. George E. Bryant was elected and installed as officer of the guard, to succeed B. S. Clough, who resigned at the last meeting to become adjutant of the post. Commander Caverly, called the post up and at "parade rest" taps were sounded by the Bugler Bryant and Halls were extinguished in memory of our late Com. W. E. Eaton, who was buried with post honors in Belle View cemetery, Lawrence, April 12, 1915. Q. M. Arnold, expressed the thanks of the family and relatives, for the impressive G. A. R. services at the grave. The sick call revealed the fact that although many of the veterans were sick during the last week, there is a slight improvement in most of them. Reports from the post Memorial committee were received. Rev. George C. Pierce, of the 1st, 2nd Mass. Inf., is to be the orator at the joint Memorial services in the First Congregational church Sunday p. m., May 30. The program for this service is ready for the printing committee and the commander's general orders for Memorial week are also ready. Past Commander Arthur Hamblin and Comrade Frank Coburn, spoke under the hood of the order.

CITY MARSHAL REMOVED

SALEM, May 6.—After summarily removing from office yesterday morning City Marshal Cornelius F. Harrington because that officer would not waive the exclusive power given him by the new city charter in the matter of appointments, Mayor O'Keefe of Salem last evening caused the entire membership of the police department to be lined up before him at police headquarters and informed them that many of them had been remiss in their duty and that he is about to call a "police expert" from Jersey City to reorganize their department.

Harrington was chairman of O'Keefe's campaign committee.

THE JITNEY BUS

The craze for the popular jitney bus is growing. Starting out west, it has come closer and closer and now it seems we shall soon see it operating on our own streets. Time alone will demonstrate whether the jitney is a passing fad or whether it will become a permanent institution, but meanwhile there are aspects of the question that merit close attention.

The weight of testimony from those cities where the new transportation system has been introduced indicates that it is opposed strongly by the street car companies and favored strongly by the general public. There are side issues that cannot be ignored, however, if the people of the community would realize what the ultimate effect of the jitney may be on general transportation and general conditions.

In Providence, the patronage of the jitneys has resulted in great loss of revenue to the car companies, for the jitney runs over the short routes and leaves the long haul to the electric. It has long been the contention of the street railways that the short distance patron makes the long distance run possible as a paying proposition, and the introduction of the new factor has so seriously affected the margin of profit that the street car companies have petitioned the city officials for an abatement of the franchise tax. This would be a serious blow to the taxpayers and might easily result in an increased tax rate.

Furthermore, in Providence the railroad officials say that they will be forced to rearrange their rates according to a zone system. This may make it fifteen cents to some outlying districts that could have been formerly reached with a nickel fare, and the effect on the citizens in the suburbs will be serious. Should this come to pass, it will have the effect of tending to congestion within the five cent limit, to the general disadvantage of the community. When some years ago, the city of Glasgow, Scotland, arranged its street car routes in a zone system, the plan was hailed generally as scientific and efficient, but it resulted in unspeakable shun conditions within the region of low transportation.

The question of jitney regulation is also a serious one. As yet the system is too new to permit of full adjustment to municipal conditions, and consequently there is considerable confusion. It is only fair that the public should be protected sufficiently and that at the same time the city should receive a revenue for the privilege of using the highways. Were the jitney craze to prove permanent, it would have a serious effect on the revenue of street car companies, and the public would eventually lose part if not all of the taxes now paid by the street railways for the franchise privilege. This revenue should be made up from jitney returns, but the exact regulations cannot be framed offhand. In their espousal of the unique system that is making such a stir in all directions, the public should not lose sight of the fact that the jitney bus has aspects which invite long and serious reflection, if the city is to gain in more than rapid transportation within restricted zones. The introduction of a system that would monopolize the short rides and leave the long to the railways would strike at the suburbs, would retard the city's growth outward because under present conditions few could afford to pay double or treble the present rate of carfare.

GOVERNOR ON EDUCATION

Those who heard Governor Walsh's eloquent and earnest plea for educational extension at the banquet of the teachers' organization must have been impressed with the soundness of his views and the sincerity of his attitude. It was no mere academic platitude uttered for political effect but an expression of a situation that is apparent to all who come in touch with the masses of the people. Furthermore, the scheme of educational extension embraced in his bill is not an untried theory but an educational project that has been tried successfully in the great farming state of Wisconsin where man, woman, boy and girl have an equal opportunity to secure elementary and university education under state auspices.

Governor Walsh brought the needs of Massachusetts home to his audience by telling of his recent visit to a great private correspondence school in Scranton, Pa., where almost 100,000 citizens of this state are enrolled for courses that to many are costly. When there he looked up the students from Clinton, many of whom he knew, and the struggles of some, as related by him, must indeed have shown that the state could bring the light of education to many homes that are now hedged around by the prohibitive wall of poverty. After his poignant recital of concrete instances, his audience must have hoped in all sincerity that he will be successful in putting through a bill that does credit to his heart as well as his judgment.

The views of Governor Walsh in this connection are too broadly humanitarian to be classed as partisan. And it is to be hoped that party politics will be sunk in the treatment of the bill by the legislature. He has received the endorsement of many of the leading educators of the state, and the bill has the approval of the committee on education, but there is a disposition in some quarters to withhold approval, for political reasons. Could he come before the Massachusetts public on the whole as he came before the Lowell body Tuesday evening, there is no doubt that he would receive popular commendation and approval for a bill that, if passed, would mark a new era in Massachusetts legislation.

JAPAN AND CHINA

While the great powers of Europe are playing their deadly war game, events in the far east are rapidly approaching a crisis. Shortly after the commencement of the war, Japan took possession of the German provinces of the Chinese coast, assuring the powers that while their aims were unselfish and that Chinese interests would not suffer. Later, Japan sent a diplomatic note to the great neighboring republic in which were many stipulations which China could not well accept without recognizing Japanese sovereignty over China. China accordingly refused to acknowledge Japan's right to assume direction of the new republic, and now Pekin is arming for a possible defence while Japan prepares an ultimatum. So far, no nation has directly protested, as threats against Japan were im-piled rather than mentioned directly, but now the world is watching the eastern situation anxiously.

If war should break out between Japan and China, without the protest or active interference of outside powers, the immediate effect is not hard to anticipate. Japan is prepared for a conflict while China is practically helpless. To the outside observer, the moral right is on the side of China, but in this day moral rights do not offer a strong defence to warships and great guns. Still, it is hardly possible that the world would permit Japan to take advantage of the general situation to grasp the great opportunities in the struggling republic which has so recently emerged from the centuries of darkness and misrule. Great powers are selfish, in many cases recognizing no right except the right of might, but China shall not be friendless if the designs of its progressive neighbor should imperil its aspirations for national liberty and democracy.

BUSINESS COURTESY

Former Senator Root declared recently at a banquet in New York that if this country is to make a substantial increase in its volume of business with South America, it will have to be very courteous in its business dealings. This doctrine may sound peculiar to a people that have regarded courtesy as belonging to social life as differentiated from business life, but in Latin America and many other countries, courtesy and politeness are carried into business. All merchants who deal directly with the public know full well the value of courtesy, for the courteous clerk may drive away an old customer by rudeness or indifference. It is now the practice of some of the greatest business leaders in the country to foster cordial relations with the public, realizing that in courtesy is the germ of good business. If the manners of South America are different, they are generally better than ours, and it is advisable that all who aim at trade extension there take advantage of the advice offered by the shrewd Mr. Root.

SOAKING THE CITY

Soaking the city is a very popular game. It is generally very interesting, it is often amusing, but it is always expensive—in the long run. Robbing the city is all of this, besides being, of late, a law art.

But, do not forget, Mr. Citizen, that No Use to Try and Wear Out Your Told It Will Wear You Out Instead.

A COMPLIMENT
"Yes," said the amateur tenor, "I once received a high compliment from a very great musician. I was singing on board a New York liner, but without accompaniment, for accompanists can never keep time with me, you know."
"What did the musician say?"
"He said—and these were his very words—'When I saw you begin to sing without accompaniment, I was surprised; when I heard you I was amazed; but when you sat down I was delighted.'"

ALL TAKEN IN
An amateur photographer was desirous of taking a village church noted for its beauty, and as it was the village school he did his best to get there before the children came from class.
"Alas," just as he had got it nicely focused and about to press the button, a crowd of children came running and got taken in the photograph. Suddenly a bright idea struck him. He proceeded to group the children behind the camera, and then took a good photograph of the church.
"Are we all taken in?" eagerly asked the children, as he began packing up.
"Yes, you are all taken in," said he, as he walked away smiling.

TOO EARLY
M'Tavish and a brother Scot, M'Pherson, entered the tram and took their seats near the door. Sitting up in the corner was a nice young Italian lassie, and M'Tavish was always nudging his friend.
"Hoops, man," said M'Pherson, "I ken her fine."
"Too early, ye no gawn up aside her then?" asked M'Tavish.
"Och," said M'Pherson, "she hasna payed her fare yet."

Bad Teeth Rival the Enemy's Bullets in Disabling Soldiers in the European War

An editorial in one of the New York Newspapers states on good authority the following:

"In the trenches in Europe, more soldiers have been disabled through ill arising from bad teeth than by any other cause save the bullets of the enemy."

ARE YOU AT WAR WITH YOUR OWN GOOD HEALTH?

You are if you are neglecting your mouth and teeth. You are laying your system open, unprotected against the attack of most any known ailment. Do you think there's one soldier among the thousand suffering from bad teeth in the vast armies of the European countries who would not be only too happy to have your opportunity to have his mouth and teeth placed in condition which would mean for him increased health and strength with which to continue the struggle for his beloved country? Indeed there is not and yet many right here in Lowell postpone their trip to a dentist, the trip that means the greatest dividends in health and happiness. Why they do this is difficult to explain. There's positively no good reason for fighting against your own best interests. You are doing this though, if you are permitting your teeth to decay. If you are among the vast army of people who are neglecting their mouths, may we presume to ask

TOO MUCH PIE
As accidents are likely to happen in the best regulated families, so it is not surprising that one happens once in a while at the best conducted May breakfasts. As the result of one mishap Saturday morning a well known Lawrence man got an all too generous helping to that luscious cream pie that was served. He, with the members of his family, was seated at one of the tables enjoying a meal, when along came one of the waiters, with tray held high above his head, to get through the crowd. He did a real Japanese balancing act with that tray until he came directly back of where our friend was seated. Then he lost control, and down came tray, cream pie and all. The pie, cream side down, slid all the way down the side and back of the breakfaster, leaving its trail of delicious cream behind, and emptying a goodly part of it into his pocket. Reports as to his success in getting rid of the surplus helping are not forthcoming, but it is safe to say that the coat will not be worn again at a public function until it has been given a complete sanitation treatment.—Lawrence Telegram.

MAY NOT BEAT GERMANS
LONDON, May 6.—William Watson, the poet, has contributed a prose article to the Evening News in which he denounces the apathy of the British government and people in the following terms:

"It is high time that the masses of the people of this country had a direct and hammered into their somewhat slow minds, for no gentler means of introducing it will suffice, that it is very doubtful indeed, whether we are going to beat the Germans at all."
Criticism the "Jullian" assurances that all will ultimately be well. Mr. Watson professes the spirit of the Germans, and declares that "our allies and we ourselves are in imminent and grievous peril." Continuing, Mr. Watson makes the statement that Germany is "supremely formidable by the spirit that makes her an unprecedented menace and terror to us and to the world," and declares that "we are acting, so far as our land forces are concerned, if not a subordinate, at any rate a secondary part in this gigantic drama of the nations, and it will be the fault of our own apathy, sluggishness, and fatal optimism if the drama develops the last into a tragedy both for us and for the 'truest interests of mankind.'"

BOY FELL OVERBOARD

BOSTON, May 6.—While playing with companions on an Albany street wharf at the foot of Union Park street, yesterday afternoon, little Lawrence Sullivan fell overboard. The cries quickly attracted the attention of Frank Grinnell, driver of a bakery wagon for a North End firm. Grinnell jumped from his wagon and rushing to the wharf, plunged into the water of the South Bay, rescuing the boy.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION

To Govern Working Hours of Women and Children Favored by Hosiery Men

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 6.—Federal rather than state legislation to govern the working hours of women and children and other measures affecting manufacturers were advocated in a resolution adopted at yesterday's session of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear manufacturers. The resolutions declare that federal legislation is necessary in order that manufacturers in different states may be placed on an equally competitive basis.

Explains Why Germany is in the War—Three Main Causes

Mr. Carl D. Burtt, head of the German and college preparatory department of the high school, addressed the members of the Brotherhood of the First Trinitarian church last evening on a subject concerning the European war and analyzed the fundamental reasons why Germany is in the war. Mr. Burtt's well prepared address was very instructive. He struck the real reasons for the war more closely than any speaker who has yet attempted to explain them in this city.

The three main reasons presented were: First, the need of room for expansion for a people multiplying so rapidly in such a confined area, a need which the government does not want to meet by emigration after it has trained and educated the people to so high a degree of efficiency; second, the familiarity of the people with the army and navy as an integral part of the national life, developed to so high a degree of efficiency and with such thorough use

STRONG SERMON BY REV. FR. HEALEY ON DUTIES OF CHILDREN TO PARENTS

Again the mission for men at St. Michael's church attracted a vast congregation last night. Rev. Fr. Healey, O. P., was the preacher and he delivered a powerful sermon on the fourth commandment: Honor thy father and mother.

In opening the reverend preacher told of the creation of man by God and of the formulation of laws made by the Creator for man's guidance. To this end, he said, God instituted the commandments, so that man would honor his Maker, and in one of these commandments, he commanded all men to honor their parents.

Second to man's duty to God, said Fr. Healey, comes his duty to his parents. You will find man glorifying himself on his duty to his society, to his community, to his friends, and to his church, but before all this comes his duty to his father and mother.

Honoring our parents, said Fr. Healey, means not praise and flattery, but deeds, and the first way to honor them is to live up to our religion. No man, said Fr. Healey, ever brought honor to his father and mother unless they lived up to their religion. Man might be successful in his worldly life, might give his parents some of the comforts of life, but he said, they do not crave for this. They want him to live up to his religion and by living up to his religion he will have to live up to the teachings of the church and avoid sin in all its forms. When a man lives up to the teachings of religion, said Fr. Healey, people will say that he must have had wonderful parents, and when a young man attends mass regularly whether his clothes are shabby or not, he is honoring his father and mother. The reverend preacher also said that one of the finest examples of a young man who honors his father and mother, is the one who attends the regular meetings of the Holy Name society, lives up to its teachings, keeps the commandments and refrains from taking the name of Jesus in vain. Ambition said Fr. Healey, is the second attribute man must have. If he wants to honor his father and mother, and the young man to have ambition must aspire to be even better and greater than his father. Because a young man is left the breadwinner of the family at an early age he should not lose ambition, and he can aspire to be even greater than his father who probably didn't have the opportunities that are open to the young men of today. If he wants education, said Fr. Healey, and finds that he can't get it in the day time because he has to work to support the family, he can get it in the evening at night school. If he does this, said Fr. Healey, he won't be one of the young men who hang out in cheap pool-rooms, or one of those who spend their time on the street corners insulting young girls. That kind of young men are disgracing their parents, and you will always hear people say that they had a rough bringing up. If a young man wants to bring honor to his father and mother he must live up to his religion and have ambition. When the Braves won the world's championship, said the reverend preacher, seven Catholics on the team honored their parents by going to confession and communion. They were not afraid of what the world had to say about them, and they knew that by going to the sacraments they would have the grace of God and earn His blessing. Fr. Healey also said that if a young man wants to honor his father and mother, he will have to keep away from the sin of impurity. Imagine the mother of the boy who is a slave to impurity, said the reverend preacher on judgment day, when all his sins are revealed before her. She won't be honored, he said, but will feel the pangs of suffering and shame for that boy who was once her one ray of happiness in life. The third qualification that a young man must have if he would honor his parents, is "love." A young man has got to love his parents and be willing to die for them if necessary. In the ordinary home of today, you will find an old gray-haired and wrinkled mother, her hair has not turned white from age, but from the sufferings and sorrows heaped upon her by her boy. You'll find her sitting by the fire at a late hour waiting for that boy to return home. In a short while she'll take up some knitting to while away the hours waiting for that son to return home from his shiftful haunts. Presently she drops the knitting and gazes into the fire and then starts to cry. That mother is thinking of that wretched son of hers when he was a little babe in the crib, and of the days she nursed him and stood by him until he grew up to be a man. This kind of a man will reap no uncertain reward when his time comes, he will pay the penalty that God has provided for such sinners. Every mother yearns for her son's love. She longs for his boyhood kisses, and for his arm around her neck in loving embrace, and for a smile of kindness from his eyes at least once in a while. "Go home" to that mother of yours tonight, and get down on your knees and tell her you love her. Fr. Healey also said that every young man should try to give his parents a comfortable home, and that it should be every young man's boast that he had the happiest and most comfortable home in the world. If the young man would save all the money he spends on drink, gambling and women, said Fr. Healey, he would be able to make this proud boast, and give his parents a good home and make them happy in their declining years. Benediction of the blessed sacrament followed, and the mass concluded under the direction of Choirmaster James Murphy rendered appropriate hymns. The services ended with congregational singing.

Put your ear close to the ground

every time you see a man drawing real joy out of a jimmy pipe, for it's better than a five-to-one shot he's smoking Prince Albert, the tobacco high spot.
You, like a whole lot of men, never will know what a barrel of fun can be dug from a pipe or a makin's cigarette until Prince Albert passes your piazza!

For it can't bite your tongue, and it can't parch your throat. That's why men the nation over know their business when they demand

You should know this brand is made by a patented process that removes bite and parch. And let it drift in that you can fire-up P. A. until the cows come home and it just won't make your tongue tingle!

So, you men with a sad pipe past, come around somemore and sort of get acquainted with Prince Albert. Let the light of jimmy-pipejoy break into your soul. You'll wonder why you didn't wake up earlier and hear the robins sing in the old cherry tree.

Get started on the tidy red tin, then you'll graduate to the crystal-glass pound humidor with the sponge-moistener top that keeps your P. A. fine like silk. A lot of men do that thing!

Buy P. A. in any neck of the woods. See tippy red bags, 10c tidy red tins; handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors—and—that classy pound crystal-glass humidor.

MANCHESTER BARBER SETS NEW RECORD—NOT A DROP OF BLOOD DRAWS DURING EXHIBITION

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 6.—Jos. Guilmont, a Manchester barber, has established a record in shaving 84 men in one hour. The feat was performed at the shop of Horridus Pellerin, Monday night, and was witnessed by a large crowd.

The performance came about through the belief on the part of Mr. Guilmont that he could surpass the record of a Boston barber who shaved 62 men in 60 minutes. Mr. Guilmont went him 22 better, and the shaving was done so neatly that not a drop of blood was drawn on one of the men shaved.

HOULTON, Me., May 6.—At a special session of the Houlton municipal court, held at the county jail last night before Recorder Stetson, Harry Bolster, the young Easton farmer, charged with the murder of John Timothy of Lawrence, Mass., at Easton last October, was formally discharged on motion of County Attorney Archibald, but was immediately rearrested by Deputy Sheriff Lawlis on a warrant issued by Trial Justice Pessenden of Fort Fairfield, charging murder. The hearing will be held at Fort Fairfield. This is done in order to save the county the expense of bringing witnesses to Houlton.

IS GUILTY OF PERJURY

NEW YORK, May 6.—A verdict of guilty was returned late last night against Frank D. Safford, the aged hotel clerk of the Hotel Kensington, in Plainfield, N. J., who was charged with perjury in connection with proceedings growing out of the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Rae Tanzer against James M. Osborne, widely known criminal lawyer. The jury deliberated more than seven hours.

Considerable excitement followed the announcement of the verdict. After Judge Hough had left the bench, Assistant United States District Attorney Homer B. Wood, who conducted the prosecution and Benjamin Slade of counsel for the defense, engaged in a wordy passage. A disturbance followed which deputy marshals finally quelled, clearing the crowd from the court room.

Judge Hough said he would make an investigation into the occurrence. In which it was reported two of the jurors were involved.

The jury in convicting Safford recommended him to the mercy of the court and asked he be dealt with leniently. He will be brought up for sentence on Monday next. It was learned after court adjourned that trials of the six remaining persons under indictment in connection with the case revolving around Mr. Osborne will be begun forthwith. The first to be tried, it was stated, would be Miss Tanzer herself.

MORE THAN 3300 HORSES FOR ARMIES OF ALLIES GOING OUT THIS WEEK

BOSTON, May 6.—More than 3300 horses for the armies of the allies will be shipped to England this week from Boston.

The Leyland line steamship Colman, which sailed yesterday afternoon for Avonmouth and London, carried 597 head. The horses came by rail from different points in the west. The Leyland line steamships Cambrian and Nisnian, which will leave tomorrow for London and Manchester respectively, and the Bohemian, sailing Saturday for Liverpool, will also carry horses. The Cambrian will take about 700, Nisnian 800 and the Bohemian about 500.

It is understood that 20,000 more horses for the British army will be shipped from Boston by steamers of the Leyland line.

Bringing the largest and most valuable shipment of wool ever shipped to Boston, the British steamship Colusa, under charter to the White Star line, is expected to arrive in a few days from Australia ports. The vessel picked up her immense cargo at Newcastle, Melbourne, Port Pirie and Brisbane, sailing from the latter port April 1. She followed a course through the Panama canal, cutting off about 2000 miles from the old route. The distance via the canal is about 9500 miles. The cargo of the Colusa consists of 22,000 bales, valued approximately at $1,500,000. The entire cargo is consigned to Boston importers.

The former British bark Bahama, now at this port loading a cargo of sugar for England, has been changed to American registry and her name changed to Ruth Sperry, after a daughter of a Boston merchant who is one of the stockholders in the vessel.

Light receipts of fish yesterday caused a sharp advance in prices. Dealers' quotations were as follows: Steamed, 5-1-2 cents per pound; market cod, 4-5-4 cents; haddock, 6-1-4 to 7-3-8 cents; steak cod, 5-1-2 cents; large hake, 4-1-4 cents; medium hake, 3-1-2 cents; steak cod, 3-1-4 cents.

Because of the heavy movement of wool and other freight from New York to Boston, the steamer Hercules, property of the Metropolitan line, made an extra trip last evening. The steamer arrived in the morning and was rushed back to the pier for the latest evening.

The Norwegian steamer Falk arrived yesterday from Manzanillo, Cuba, with a cargo of sugar for the Rev. Sugar Refining Co. On board were 1000 tons of the captain, made the trip with his father and brought with him his bicycle. During the trip the boy rode his wheel on deck and was so expert that even when the vessel was rolling in a heavy sea he could maintain his equilibrium. Capt. Joransen's wife and young daughter also accompanied him.

THE ART OF SMILING

It was always believed by her friends that Cecil was not a pretty girl. She herself realized this fact perhaps more keenly than any of them. It might have worried her more than anybody suspected, but Cecil went her way in rather gloomy reticence, and was painfully lacking in self confidence.

It was two years later in the city, that Cecil was considered a very attractive girl by a new coterie of friends. Her hair remained the same, she dressed her own quiet way, and she did not adopt the latest modes in powders as did so many of her friends. Cecil was innately a quiet girl, and the city had not robbed her of her charm, but Cecil had learned to smile.

The smile sprang directly from the heart and was reflected in her shining eyes, as well as in the graceful curves of her lips and fine showing of her teeth. Cecil was happy, she had learned to smile, and she was considered attractive.

town and South Groveland, has retired after 45 years of service in the priesthood, and will probably make his home permanently with his sister in Newburyport. It was announced yesterday, Father Hally's advancing years caused him to ask for the retirement from Cardinal O'Connell.

Fr. Hally will be succeeded by the Rev. P. J. Durran of the Sacred Heart church, Cambridge, who has been named as administrator.

ROOSEVELT ON STAND

Colonel Prevented From Giving Testimony in Regard to "Conditions in Albany"

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 6.—By a ruling made in the supreme court here today Theodore Roosevelt was prevented from giving testimony in regard to the "conditions in Albany."

Justice Andrews decided against the defense after counsel for the former president presented lengthy arguments setting forth the contention of the defense.

Col. Roosevelt resumed the stand immediately after the ruling was made for cross examination in William Barnes' suit against him for libel.

"I don't care to have anything further to say to Col. Roosevelt," remarked Mr. Ivins with a smile. So, contrary to expectation, the colonel was not cross examined upon his testimony of yesterday.

Opening of court today was preceded by a low-voiced conversation between leading counsel for the litigants and Justice Andrews. Mr. Ivins leaning over the judge's bench and showing Justice Andrews a copy of a New York evening paper and also of a Syracuse paper.

When the conference was over Justice Andrews reiterated his warning to the jury about reading newspapers. Then counsel began their argument on the inadmissibility of evidence concerning local affairs in Albany. The jury was excused at the request of Mr. Ivins.

Mr. Bowers then quoted the last question asked the colonel yesterday. He argued that the evidence should be admitted in mitigation of damages.

He quoted laws, cases and decisions and argued that the evidence should be admitted in connection with the question of malice.

Mr. Bowers said: "I expect Col. Roosevelt will testify that Mr. Barnes bargained with one McCall. I expect the defendant will testify that Mr. Barnes found places in gambling houses for men to work."

"It is a question of whether or not Mr. Barnes is guilty of corruption and it matters little whether it was in the state or the county. Might it not be that Col. Roosevelt told the truth about Mr. Barnes?"

Mr. Bowers then took up the statement complained of and discussed fully by folio. In regard to Charles F. Murphy, Mr. Bowers said Col. Roosevelt charged that they were morally and politically alike.

When Mr. Bowers concluded, Justice Andrews said: "This is purely a question regarding the mitigation of damages. I agree with you that the defendant has a right to give any evidence which made him believe that the charge when he made it was true. He can tell any facts and anything he read."

"The evidence given, however, must have bearing on the precise charge made. It all depends upon the precise construction placed upon the article. I think the whole gist of the article bears upon state affairs. Therefore, I think any information which defendant may have received confined to county and city affairs in Albany is immaterial."

When Mr. Bowers concluded, Justice Andrews said: "This is purely a question regarding the mitigation of damages. I agree with you that the defendant has a right to give any evidence which made him believe that the charge when he made it was true. He can tell any facts and anything he read."

TRIPLETS BORN IN JAPAN TO CHINA

Sudden Increase to the Family of A. E. Johnston of Stevens St.

A. E. Johnston, the well known cabinet maker, whose residence is at 2 Stevens street, is wearing a very pretty smile and passing around cigars, and of course there is a number and a valid one, for he is now the father of nine children, the number having been increased by three since Tuesday, as his wife gave birth to triplets.

The new arrivals, three boys, are sound and healthy and have already given evidence of perfect lung power. They are the pride of the parents. Their respective weights at the time of birth were 6 1/2 pounds, 5 3/4 pounds and 4 1/2 pounds. The Johnston family is now composed of seven boys and two girls.

HELD PRETTY MAY PARTY

A charming May party was held in Lincoln hall last evening in aid of St. Margaret's parish, conducted by a bustling committee of ladies of that section. The affair was largely attended by young people from all over the city and, like all St. Margaret's parish affairs, it was a delightful event in every sense. The conventional dance order was omitted and a series of games and puzzles were played during the evening, adding much to the social success of the affair. Doyle's orchestra, hidden behind a mass of potted plants and greenery, played the latest New York hits.

Fees were served at intermission and on resuming dancing a confetti dance was held, a veritable downpour of multi-colored confetti coming out of the gallery and as the tape twined about the dancers, the effect was really fascinating.

The lion's share of the credit for the affair must go to Miss Mollie Scannell, the general manager, whose personal effort contributed in no small way to the success. Assisting her were the following well known ladies of the parish: Miss Cathleen Driscoll, assistant general manager; Miss Julia Driscoll, floor director; Miss Mary Conroy, assistant floor director; Miss Mary Murphy, chief aid; music committee, Misses Catherine Conroy and Marie O'Donnell; refreshment committee, Mrs. James Morrison and Mrs. Charles McCarty.

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

Much disease, trouble, suffering, depression and worry, usually blamed to other causes is due to constipation. Even chronic constipation can be corrected by care in the diet and proper treatment with a gentle laxative. The use of harsh laxatives, unfortunately so common, gives temporary relief but in the end aggravates constipation. Pinklets are gentle, sugar-coated granules, they act gently, causing no nausea or griping. They clear away the waste and prevent congestion. With a little persistence, which the result is well worth. Pinklets really correct chronic constipation.

RETAIL JEWELERS MET

THEY HAVE PREPARED AN ORDINANCE AGAINST INDECENT VANDALISM OF JEWELRY

The members of the Lowell Retail Jewelers' association met at the board of trade rooms late yesterday afternoon and transacted considerable business. The meeting was presided over by Frank Ricard and a new member, Abbott Lawrence, was initiated.

A feature of the afternoon was the discussion of a proposed amendment which will be presented to the municipal council for enactment, concerning auction sales in this city and also the business of the itinerant jewelry vendors who visit Lowell quite frequently.

It is understood that the members of the board of trade will take up the matter with the jewelers and the council will be asked to approve the proposed ordinance. A special meeting of the organization will be held tomorrow afternoon at which time final steps will be taken to bring the proposed ordinance to the attention of the city fathers.

The members of the association have Lowell stores close on Wednesday afternoon instead of Thursday as in Nashua, Lawrence and other cities, but at yesterday's meeting it was decided to drop this matter and follow the other business men.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, May 6.—The foreign situation again was the foremost factor in today's irregular market. Recoveries in the later dealings followed with reports that negotiations between Italy and Austria were progressing favorably.

Foreign affairs exerted an unfavorable influence on the market for commodities, but the situation in the far east was a factor in the market's recovery.

RIVALS FOR "BASE BURGLARIZING" CHAMPIONSHIP OF JOHNSON CIRCUIT

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

One should remember that most "supervision" is meddling, and that one does the child a real injury in correcting a mistake which, with a little more time and experience, he would have been able to correct for himself.

It is well to keep in mind also that little children, some of them at least, have a peculiarity shared by many of us adults, and that is a nervousness under even slight inspection. Even though we may refrain from actually interfering in the child's fumbling efforts to conquer his own lack of muscular precision, we may wear on him nervously if we give too close attention to his efforts.

The right thing is to show him, if necessary, what he is to do, and then if it arouses his interest so that he sets to work upon it, we will do well to busy ourselves somewhat ostentatiously, with something else in the room.

This spring brought out many smartly dressed children who paced up the avenue beside their elders on the way home from church, evidently conscious of dainty new finery, as older women would not dare to appear conscious of the same.

And all the little girls were beruffled coats. Sometimes there were but two ruffles, but oftener there were three, or four, or even six, fluttering ruffles below the waist or belt. These ruffled coats did not fall to the knees, but way between knee and waist line, the frock of white lawn and embroidery showing beneath.

An enchanting little coat was of Edgewood blue mohair and worsted mixture with buttons of white pearl and six narrow ruffles of Wedgwood blue pussy willow hemmed, overlapping each other below a wide belt of blue suede. The little girl's hat was trimmed with blue cornflowers and her blue eyes matched the tones of her new costume.

For the little mother-to-be, there are a number of requisites, none of which should be forgotten. Plenty of night gowns, of extra amplitude, are, of course, the first necessity. Then come the pretty bed clothes, made with reference to the poetic attractiveness of motherhood.

In one instance all were of washable crepe, made with dainty and original touches. The nursing night gowns, by the way, were of unique designs, having a buttoned-over piece at the front for convenience in nursing. The bonnet caps matched or pleasantly contrasted with the bed sacques, and one could readily imagine how prettily these will frame the sweet mother face.

Then, for the time when the home duties will be resumed, there is a quota of house dresses made on the order of kimono aprons, but having the buttoned front like the night gowns, so that baby's comfort shall be easily compassed.

Nowadays enlightened people realize that a child with broken down or painful teeth cannot masticate its food properly, and that the digestion will be impaired unless dental care is given. The following prescription is fine for children's teeth, if compounded by a careful dentist:

Precipitated chalk, one ounce; powdered resorcin, powdered myrrh and powdered castile soap, each fifteen grains with a few drops of wintergreen added to flavor it. If a sweet taste is desired, a half grain of saccharin may be added to one ounce of powder.

Genuine castile soap and tepid water makes a good tooth wash. The following is also recommended for the same purpose: Boracic acid, one dram; tincture eucalyptus, five drams; absolute alcohol, four ounces; oil of peppermint, fifteen drops. Great care should be taken in brushing the teeth not to irritate the gums and make them bleed, as this will cause them to retract.

Without question there are children who are "pictures of health" and at the same time lazy enough to exasperate their parents and teachers. When it has been made sure that the picture of health is not a deceptive appearance, it is time to look for their causes, and not till then. Judging from the appearance of the schools, there are lazy children who have good health.

But the usual attitude toward indifference to work is hardly effective in making children get over it. To scold and to drive must help in getting a particular task finished, but is not very helpful in establishing habits of industry.

By nature the child adapts himself very readily to the establishment of such habits. In the first place there are the instincts of activity, the native curiosity and the imitiveness. And in the next place is the ease with which repeated acts become organized into habits. Could anything be easier than to make a child get into the habit of doing something all of his waking time?

The making of little garments for the expected baby is lovely and fascinating work. Every stitch brings you closer to the little newcomer. It is a good plan to lay out all your work in a systematic way. Make all the night-gowns at one time, fold them carefully and put them away; then all the prettiest coats, and so on through the list. Keep pick-up work on hand to help while away the last long months.

Do not use the machine if you can avoid it; either have someone do the stitching for you, or be content to sew everything by hand. Put small flat buttons on everything and have no pins on your baby except for the napkin and stockings. Let simplicity rule the entire layette.

Design the dresses yourself, not with rows and rows of insertion, but with cunning rows of small hand-run tucks, tiny feather-stitching, daintily-embroidered bow-knots or tiny sprays of flowers. Finish the necks with a soft binding and edge of tiny lace. Nain-sooks and the various soft, fine material are suitable for dresses.

AUNTIE'S NEW BLOUSE

"Where did auntie get that beautiful blouse?" questioned Marjorie enthusiastically, as she lovingly fingered the folds of a black net creation which Marie was shaking out preparatory to laying away.

"In Paris, of course," answered Marie. "Wherever else do you think you could get one like that?"

"It is a pretty novelty across the water," continued Marie. "To replace the linen blouse, which is worn less and less, this blouse is of black net without lining, crossed in surplice fashion and with short sleeves. As you see all the daintiness of lingerie and ribbon underneath is revealed by transparent orsage, which is of an intricate full of attraction, as well as the fineness of the net, which allows of its being worn with the most elaborate afternoon suits."

"Why," said Marjorie in a shocked voice, "how do they dare to wear them?"

"Well," rejoined Marie, "without wishing to dispense conservative habits, the transparent effects are becoming more and more daring. Here is an example," and Marie picked up a robe laid of broadtail, the skirt draped very much toward the back. The lower part of the robe was in princess effect, extending up in a band to the bust.

"It is here that the audacity of the gown is felt," continued Marie. "The shoulders and the sleeves are of black tulle, trimmed with a wide, outlined, here the lace effect is left out underneath, and the neckline goes about in this unusual decorative. Luckily, her short coat is worn, since no robe is seen unaccompanied by its coat."

"I suppose I shall come to it sometime," sighed Marjorie, "but I am sure I should be blushing every moment I had it on," and she rushed away to wonder at the astonishing freaks of fashion.

MURDERS IN NEW YORK

Twenty Since January 1 — Six Mysteries — Men, Women and Children Victims

NEW YORK, May 6.—Forty-eight hours of intensive work convinced the police last night of these two things about the murder of four-year-old Charlie Murray: The degenerates who killed him also killed Leonora Anna Cohn on March 19.

Only success in the face of tremendous odds can bring about an arrest before still another outrage of the same sort has been committed.

These conclusions have been reached after endeavor under the spur of much more than this crime alone. This spur is official recognition of the fact that since the first of the year murder has loomed the compass of everyday life in New York city.

In the 125 days that had elapsed with yesterday, there were sixty-five deaths by violence—one every four-and-a-half days. The ratio shows a decided falling off from 1914's record of one every twenty-nine hours, and a still poorer marked decrease from 1913's, when there was one every twenty-six hours; but in the character of crimes the situation has been without parallel in recent years.

Twenty of the murders are still unsolved, in spite of the use of methods declared by the police authorities to be the most scientific yet possible in this community. Some of the twenty will never be solved, the authorities believe. Six on the list have offered elements of the mysterious and the dramatic that surpass the tragic, even. Children at play on the streets, women about their household duties, men on their business rounds, fell victims to these crimes. The red hand struck in places where it is not often lifted.

Began When Baff Was Slain

The bloody sequence was begun Nov. 24 last when Barnett Baff was shot down at West Washington Market. The fabric of that assassination contained the threads of business rivalry and of the retribution visited on Herman Rosenthal, for Baff was killed on the eve of laying before the district attorney evidence of systematic extortion among the poultry handlers, of whom he was a leader.

Rufus A. Dunham's name was written first on the list of this year's mysteries. In the police phrase for want of a better name, Dunham had "no right to be killed," for neither revenge nor profit was served. A collector for a Brooklyn installment house, he was on his rounds of South Brooklyn on Dec. 19, when a hammer was used to kill him. A Gravesend swamp yielded up his dismembered body Jan. 1, and a sewer his head and limbs on March 11. It is surmised only that the theft of the $15 or $20 he had taken in was the motive behind the crime.

March 14 saw a second man slain in the course of his day's work. Charles Miller, known in his wrestling days as "Big" Miller, was on duty as a clerk in the Hotel Atlon, 159 West 34th street. Two men came up to his desk and with drawn revolvers demanded access to the cash register drawer. He fought back till mortally wounded by two of the seven bullets fired at him.

Along the "best policed block" of the west side Miller's murderers made their way to freedom. His own alarm on a police whistle summoned aid, and while the officers carry this case as still "unsolved" it is one that will be solved some time, the police say. The done using "stick-up" man who fired the shots is known, and demands for his arrest have covered the country.

Death Sealed Lips of Doyle

Three weeks later came an echo of the Baff case, though with little mystery surrounding it. On the morning of April 3 Luke Doyle died in Hudson street hospital. Held as a material witness in the Baff murder, Doyle was released from the Tombs to be shot down on March 11. To the day of his death he held his tongue, but the police declare that he could, if he would, have made the case an open book. His own fate, the authorities add, was the certain, if indirect, result of his knowledge of Baff's.

Early on the morning of April 5 Otto Zinn was roused by the noise of safe robbers at work in his restaurant at No. 56 Third avenue. With Stefan Kvenin and Roman Held, his porters, Zinn made his way to the cellar, toward which the robbers had started with the safe. None of the men came back alive, and the third of the mysteries awaited the police.

When the police were summoned they found the three backed to death with a hatchet. The search of the next few days established a basis for a theory that a "red-haired giant" had done the triple murder, but for all the work done then and since there is no promise that an arrest will ever come except through the guilty man's own initiative.

April 19 brought to the Bronx a mystery perfect in every element. The body of a woman was found beneath a pile of stones at Noble avenue and One Hundred and Seventy-Seventh street. Active and widely extended inquiry has brought to light neither the identity of the woman, the place of her killing nor the motive for it.

On April 23 came murder in the home—the fourth of the six referred to. Just a week before, Mrs. Julia Heilmer of No. 217 Albee road, Brooklyn, gave work to Joseph J. Hanel, who called himself a steward on the Inland Waterland. He was, in reality, fresh from a term for house-breaking in Moyamensing prison, Philadelphia, and pretended to be a "victim" of the war only that living on charity might be made easier for him.

Discovered, as the police now believe, drinking beer, as he had promised he would not, Hanel used the bottle as a weapon, and with a blow killed his benefactress. He stripped from her body the small amount of jewelry she wore, and although but an hour elapsed before the alarm was given, that hour was sufficient for Hanel to make his escape to Philadelphia, pawn the jewelry and go into hiding. Not for a moment does headquarters doubt that time will see justice served in this case, but it is still "open," though the number of detectives that worked on it at the beginning was 600, and within 24 hours circulars by the tens of thousands carried the news to other cities that Hanel was charged with the murder.

The fifth and sixth of the cases extraordinary bear a resemblance that is in itself one of the difficulties that beset the police. These are the "Ripper" murders of five-year-old Leonora Anna Cohn, slain in a hallway at No. 325 Third avenue, on March 10, and of four-year-old Charles Murray, slain in a hallway at No. 270 First avenue, Monday night.

Cunning that goes with the most baffling of all the types of degeneracy has made these two crimes seem sure of a place among the historic outrages of the city. No crimes have ever been made the object of more highly specialized investigation by the New York department. Seven weeks after the first of them had been committed, ten detectives are still at work on it. As for the second, methods new to police practice are being tried to the utmost.

Chief among these was the automatic transfer to plain clothes duty of 20 policemen regularly on duty in the neighborhood of the Murray home. They joined the six men of the homicide squad of that detective district, while 30 other men were assigned in addition. The inspectors of the detective division have been in personal command, and it has still been necessary for them to warn the mothers of the city that their children are at the mercy of a monster.

JUDGE ENRIGHT'S FINDING

Judge Enright has filed a finding of $250 and interest for the plaintiff in the case of H. F. Askenasy, a Boston jeweler, vs. Charles L. Knapp, executor of the will of J. W. Fletcher, which was tried in the local police court on the afternoon of April 21. Charles J. Wier appeared for the plaintiff, and Judge J. A. Fisher for the defendant.

It will be recalled that J. W. Fletcher, the plaintiff, was a Lowell man who died suddenly in his apartments in Boston. After his death the plaintiff sent to his estate a bill for a diamond ring which he alleged was sold to Mr. Fletcher a short time before his death. The defense contended that the ring was not found among the deceased's property and that he either did not purchase the ring or that it was taken from his apartments. The ring was said to be valued at $250.

THE NEW UNIVERSITIES DICTIONARY

THIS paper, devoted to public welfare, fighting for better education, always seeking to give men and women, boys and girls, more chances for self-advancement, has secured for its readers the exclusive rights to the only dictionary containing the thousands of new words recently brought into general and proper use by scientific, religious, artistic and political advances.

All other dictionaries are out of date. Every dictionary printed before this year is useless. You cannot understand the big ideas that are rebuilding the world unless you have The New Universities Dictionary constantly at hand in home and office for quick reference.

Five great universities contributed the strength of their leading English and Latin teachers to the production of this great educational enterprise. With their distinguished assistance it was made a complete inventory of today's English. Harvard is represented in the book by Percy W. Long, A. M., Ph. D.; Cornell by Clark S. Northup, Ph. D.; Pennsylvania by John C. Rolfe, Ph. D.; Columbia by Forrest S. Lunt, A. M.; Princeton by Morris W. Croll, Ph. D., and the Editor-in-Chief is George J. Hagar, whose biographical sketch in "Who's Who in America," takes up about a half column to relate his great services to education.

The New Universities Dictionary has not a dry line in the whole book—every page is of vital interest. Besides the best vocabulary ever printed, it contains twenty-five separate and distinct vocabularies of special activities, such as automobiling, golf, war, aviation, music, and many other arts, sciences and sports. Furthermore, it presents special dictionaries of Americanisms, foreign words and phrases, etc.

The book that this paper thus places within your grasp at the bare cost of handling is illustrated with expensive pictures, alone worth more than the reader is asked to contribute to the cost of distributing. It is the best illustrated dictionary in the world—profuse in page and double-page color plates, an absolutely new process of photographic reproduction.

Word-study is the short-cut to self-education. A well-stocked brain and a well-trained tongue provide the right word at the right time, and a whole fortune changes hands. That's the way millionaires are made. Make your start to-day. This paper presents the opportunity with the valuable coupon found elsewhere.

NATURALIZATION SCHOOL

FORMER SENATOR FISHER WAS THE INSTRUCTOR LAST NIGHT—NEXT WEEK'S PROGRAM

Former Senator Edward Fisher instructed the naturalization class at the Green school last night. It was the fourth in a series of ten naturalization lectures and the meeting was well attended. The speaker, among other things, told of the duties of a senator and gave other information for the benefit of the would-be citizen. Mr. Fisher has volunteered to conduct a special meeting on May 23, at which questions and answers of a reviewing nature will be given.

The speaker for next Wednesday evening will be Melvin G. Rogers, who will speak on "Town Government." Men are asked to be present promptly at 7:30 o'clock in order that they may get the full benefit of the meeting and also that the meeting may not be delayed.

PAWTUCKET CHURCH SOCIABLE

There was a large attendance at the regular monthly social of the Pawtucket Congregational church last evening. At 7 o'clock supper was served under the general direction of Mrs. Stanley I. Garnett, and was followed by a comedy sketch entitled "Her Dear Baby." The following took part: "Annie West," her niece, Miss Ethelred Whitcomb; maid, Miss Esther Douglas; "Reginald Blair," Jefferson Mansfield; "Jack Gay," Alonzo Putnam, Jr.

THE SPELLBINDER

The classic expression of former Commissioner Brown to former Mayor O'Donnell, in public meeting: "You need a good punch in the snout," upon which horrified newspaper critics commented at length, to the detriment of the entire administration, is but mere nursery prattle compared with the language that one hears at the meetings of this year's administration.

Talk about names thrown around the aldermanic chamber! From that of the Almighty, down the line, while the shorter and uglier ones have the preference.

When they present the scenes that characterized Tuesday's public meeting, what transpires in those popular secret sessions must be left to the imagination.

Commissioner Putnam's Suggestion

Commissioner Putnam may not have meant to be sarcastic when he said: "Let's hear from the lawyers on the question," when the council was wrangling over the legality of a bid presented, but it would seem as if "Put" couldn't resist the temptation to hand one to his colleagues, inasmuch as with these lawyers on the board this year there has been more wrangling over minor legal points and more talk of court proceedings in connection with the conduct of the city's affairs than ever before.

Charlie Needs No Help

At Tuesday's meeting when things were waxing warm Commissioners were waxing warm. Commissioner Morse exclaimed: "If I can't make good on my own volition, then I don't want any newspaper to help me. You'll all see this fall what I've done this year and last year, too."

Thus, the commissioner positively refuses to have "goodness" thrust upon him, but, goodness knows, if he will make good any old way, whether of his own volition or in spite of himself, his own voice will rise up and call him blessed; and he's doing pretty well at that, though he shouldn't compel us to wait until fall, to see what he did last year. Street work generally deteriorates with age, and there are some people unkind enough to claim that some of that so-called "goodness" done last year will be in need of another coat of top-dressing, this fall.

Chance for Section 29

Section 29 of the city charter, up to this year, has been apparently a useless embodiment of the municipality's code of rules. It reads as follows:

"No measure passed by the municipal council or by the voters, as provided in this act, shall require the approval of any court or of the attorney general, or shall be required to be published in order to become effective, unless otherwise provided in this act."

It begins to look as if hereafter about every measure passed by the municipal council will require the sanction of the courts or the attorney general, judging from the protests and hearings over the proposed contracts, etc., that are filling the papers on the occasion of each meeting of the municipal council, not to speak of the new cemetery trustees' law, which has yet to be defined. These unseemly wrangles over contracts are not to be wondered at, irrespective of who is right or wrong, as they are a natural outcome of the high-handed manner in which the city's business has been conducted in recent years.

SUPPLEMENTARY LISTS

PLEASE OUR READERS—NEW UNIVERSITIES DICTIONARY IS PRAISED FOR COMPLETENESS

The demand for The New Universities Dictionary being offered by this paper continues unabated despite the fact that great quantities have already been distributed. Letters from many readers express in highest terms the general satisfaction which this remarkable book has given.

The twenty-five supplementary dictionaries giving the definition of words properly used in connection with commerce and law, war, golf, aviation, baseball and other forms of sports are esteemed with particular favor by individuals whose interests center on one or the other of these specialized activities.

Another feature eliciting special comment is the splendid way in which the volume is illustrated with color plates and duotones. Included in these illustrations are an excellent photo of a submarine boat, that unusual type of craft which has played such an important part in the present war in Europe, undergoing a sea test. Types of some of the most formidable battleships in the English, German and United States navies are also shown and various kinds of airships which also have figured so conspicuously in the military operations of the European armies are strikingly pictured in action.

to purchases. Section 27, providing for publicity for contracts, appears to have no effect, and in many cases where the letter of the section has been lived up to the specifications have been such as to preclude competition.

High School in "Site"

That new high school, according to Mayor Murphy, is at last in "site," but in "site" only, for the building itself is not considered. At the banquet of the teachers Tuesday evening His Honor spoke of the needs at the present time of large expenditures of money for a new high school and a vocational school, for which the city council and the school committee are putting forth efforts to select sites.

A week or more ago a member of the school board informed the Boston Globe correspondent that the public could expect that a site would be selected this year.

Thus it would appear that it is going to take the combined efforts of the municipal council and the school board, in secret session and in public, and with a year's deliberation, to select a site upon which some future government may erect a building, provided it likes the site. Surely, that is relieving the needs of the public with rapidity. However, if only a site is selected, something will have been accomplished, and that's going some for a "do-nothing" administration.

Police Civil Service Law

The friends of former Police Officer John W. Mahan are wondering at the workings of the civil service law, as far as it affects applicants of the police department, as a result of the recent experience of the former officer. Mr. Mahan, who resigned from the police force some time ago, decided to take the examination again this year and it seems in the clerical examination he received a rank of $515, the highest rank received among some 47 competitors. Knowing his physical prowess, his friends felt assured that there would be nothing to it, but top place for him, on all examinations. When he applied for the strength test he was informed, it is said, that he would have to wait another year as he was too late for the physical examination, and hence it would appear his high rank in the clerical examination avails him nothing, though why, if it were too late to take the physical examination, he was permitted to take the clerical, is what his friends cannot understand, and, of course, they attribute it to politics.

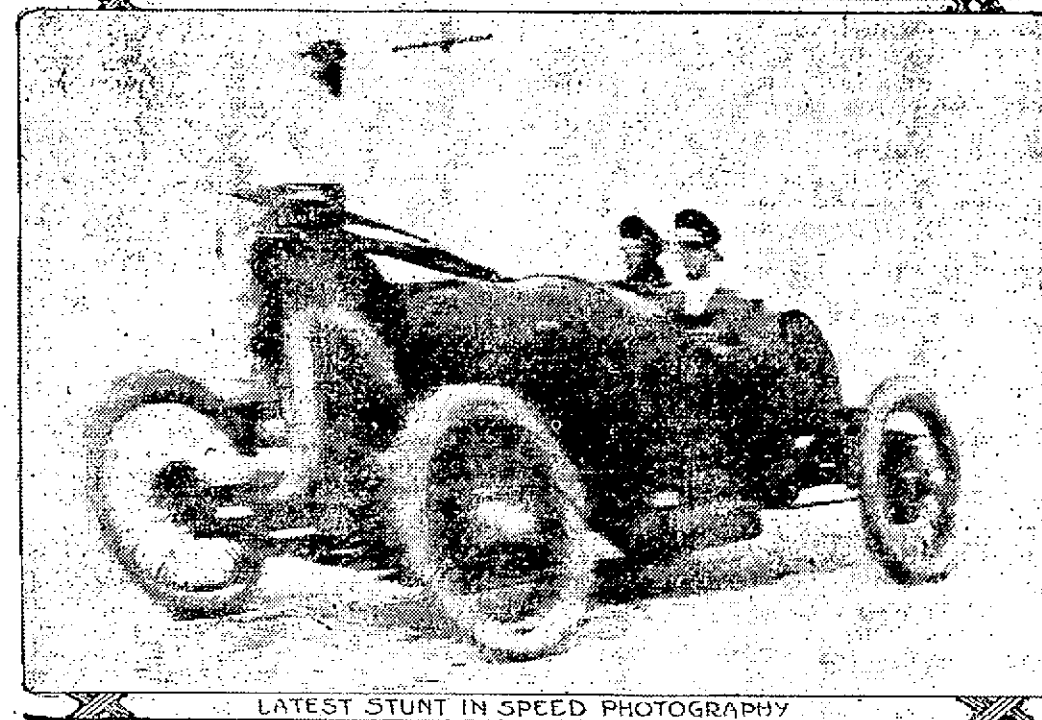

The recent appointment of new police officers was made, it is said, on the night before the new list went into effect, and hence those appointed "just got by." Among those on the list it was the impression that there were seven positions to be filled, but His Honor made only six appointments, as hence Mr. Truett, who was seventh on the list and who expected an appointment, was sorely disappointed, especially as under the new list his name dropped to tenth place.

Some Park Board Rules

Judging from complaints received at this office recently, there are some people in Lowell who are not aware of the rules of the park commissioners relative to trees on public streets and for their benefit the rules are published as follows:

1. No root or branch of any tree shall be cut, broken or otherwise disturbed or interfered with in any way by any individual or employee of a public or private corporation until the same shall have been examined and a permit issued from this board.
2. It shall be unlawful to attach any guy rope, cross-bar, cable or other contrivance to any tree, or to use the same in connection with any business purpose whatever, except under a permit from this board.
3. Requests for removal or trimming of trees must be made upon blanks furnished by the board, park commissioners, and must state the size of the lot in front of which the work is to be done, the kind of trees to be trimmed or removed, and the kind and condition of the nearest tree upon the adjacent property.
4. Trees shall be planted in the streets of the city of Lowell only on permission of the superintendent of parks, and shall not be less than 35 feet apart, and as much farther apart as may be directed by the superintendent, for the different varieties of trees.

No person shall put up or affix in any manner any placard, notice or bill, either written or printed, upon any tree in any street or public place without the consent of this board.

8. No person shall hitch any horse or other animal to any tree or tree guard in any street or public place.

9. Any person violating the foregoing rules and regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall on conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding $20.00, for each offense.

Enforcing Speed Rules

Supt. Welch and other officers. I am informed, spent Sunday afternoon riding along the Pawtucket and Princeton boulevards in search of violations of the speed rules on these thoroughfares, using the new police auto as their means of locomotion. As yet there have been no complaints, and hence it is assumed that there were no violations of the law.

But how about one week ago Sunday in Andover street? The police auto said were down that way one week ago and discovered some well known citizens speeding along more rapidly than the law allows. As yet the public has heard nothing from that trip, though it is said the material for a few prosecutions was there. Of course the man who owns an automobile and has a certain amount of political influence is different from the boy who shoots craps for a penny. If he is flush, for a while, but the law is contemplated by the law-makers draws no distinction among its violators. Then there is that great unwritten law of the present administration: "Equal rights for all; special privileges to none."

The Auto Lettering Ordinance

The general public would think more of the members of the municipal council if they would cut out the "four-lining" relative to the lettering of the city autos, repeal the present ordinance and not have the machines lettered at all. This lunacy about amending the ordinance because it provides no penalty, and because there isn't room on the backs of the machines for six-line letters, seems rather ridiculous coming from men supposed to have a sufficient amount of gray matter to command a salary of $2500 per year. The ordinance has been deliberately violated and evaded in several of the departments, and the excuse is because there is no penalty attached for such violations. It shouldn't be necessary to threaten the city's public servants with a fine to make them obey the ordinance. They are sworn to the faithful performance of all their duties when they take office and one of their duties is to obey the ordinances. As far as providing means of identification is concerned it is useless to letter the machines "L. P. D." or "L. P. D." or any other set of letters which may stand for a variety of meanings. In the old days when horses and carriages were used by the municipal officials, instead of autos, there was probably as much joy-riding though it was never considered necessary to letter the city's carriages. Either letter all machines boldly. Property of the City of Lowell or don't letter them at all. Probably there'll be no great amount of criticism if they are not lettered. But don't try to evade the ordinance, with foolish excuses for such evasion.

The Five Biggest Men

Mayor Murphy has named his "five biggest men in Lowell" as trustees of the public cemeteries and surely they are men of some weight in the community: Messrs. John L. Robertson, the well known furniture dealer; John A. Osgood, the druggist, and former member of the board of health; Simon B. Harris, auctioneer and former police inspector; William H. Rigby, assistant superintendent of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., and a decidedly popular mill official, and George H. Taylor of C. L. Hood's, a former councilman and alderman. Now that they have been appointed they probably will soon be asking the famous question of another great man of days gone by: "What are we here for?" as it will take the courts to decide just what powers they have as a result of the extraordinary intelligence evidenced in framing the bill, under which they have come into office.

The appointment of Mr. Harris on the board of trustees will cause those who attended the recent lot-owners' meeting to recall that gentleman's attitude and remarks on that occasion. At that meeting I have been informed, somebody made a motion that a committee of three, consisting of Mr. Charles Weston, Rep. Lewis and the secretary of the Federation of Churches be appointed to wait on the mayor and confer with him relative to his appointments on the board. Mr. Harris opposed the motion, stating that the mayor could be depended upon to use good judgment in making his selections and that he should not be dictated to or interfered with, or words to that effect. The motion wasn't put into effect. Another gentleman at this meeting expressed concern lest His Honor appoint any but lot owners on the board, but now his fears are at an end.

The members thus appointed should now show their appreciation by heading one of those petitions calling upon the mayor to be a candidate for a second term, because if His Honor has ever fit to oppose the cemetery bill before the governor, in all probability, it would not have become law.

Now, we may hear a host of candidates for the position of superintendent of cemeteries although from the personnel of the board of trustees, the prospects don't look bad for Supt. Duckworth, who at present is holding down the office in satisfactory manner. Messrs. Harris and Duckworth were members of one of Former Mayor Brown's several police commissions in 1902, while it is understood that there are others on the board who are favorably inclined toward Mr. Duckworth, and who are above being parties to any scheme to give one man a political job at the expense of a faithful servant.

Ward 8 Representative Field

Already there are eight candidates for the legislature in ward 8, not counting Mr. Kennedy, of progressive tendencies, it being assumed that Rep. Lewis is to lay aside the cares of state officialdom to take a chance in the municipal field. Of these, two are from precinct one; five from precinct two and one from precinct three, with probably more to come. With a whole flock of candidates in the field, Rep. Lewis might have a good chance to slip in for a third term, for the vote will be well split up if they all remain in the contest until the primaries. Think it over, Clint.

Those Signboards

Just when the municipal council has about convinced the public that it is going to do something in regard to the erection of signboards, it throws up its official hands and adheres to its reputation as a "do-nothing" administration. It made such a splurge that the public had really begun to think that it was deadly in earnest and was about to attempt to accomplish something. Then it quit and the signboards will continue to go up despite the protests of the city beautiful committees and the anti-signboard crusaders. The reason given for withdrawing its official objection, after the court had sustained its injunction proceedings is that the matter would involve too much expense. Yet the city has a law department for which it annually appropriates a substantial amount of money for the purpose of taking care of just such matters, and a city solicitor who is ever ready and willing to attend to the city's law business. After intimating that it would carry the matter to the supreme court and make a test case out of the particular case at issue the municipal council suddenly backs down, and with no better excuse than that the court proceedings will be too expensive; a matter of about $75 or $100, and the time and traveling expenses of the city solicitor. The action of the municipal council causes again the uncharitable inference that the members "couldn't stand the gaff" of political influence.

There's One Consolation

This is the last week of vaudeville of Keith's while the Opera House and the Merrimack Square theatre have closed. But cheer up, the municipal council will continue its weekly meetings for some time to come.

PLANS FOR LOWELL DAY

OPENING OF WHITE WAY WILL BE GALA DAY FOR CITY OF LOWELL

The executive committee of the Lowell board of trade and the superintendents of the Bay State Street Railway Co. held a conference in the quarters of the board of trade late yesterday afternoon for the purpose of reaching some agreement as to the number of street cars to be used on Lowell day in bringing the suburban residents to the city, and also as to the distribution of these cars. After talking the matter over for some time it was decided that 40 or 50 electric cars of the jumbo type would be sufficient to care for about 10,000 people, the number that is expected to help the residents of this city in celebrating the opening of the new "white way," possibly on May 26.

According to arrangements, special electric cars will leave the suburban towns and surrounding cities, some in the forenoon and others in the afternoon and no fare will be collected en route. Each passenger will be given a credential with the names and addresses of the business men who are contributing toward the expenses of the day, and with these credentials, later in the day, the visitors will be able to secure free tickets to return to their homes, providing they have purchased amounts equalling $2 or more while in Lowell.

It is expected that the day will be a notable one in the history of Lowell. The board of trade is making arrangements for some kind of entertainment during the day, while in the evening a banquet for the members of the organization will be held at the Casino, and at 8 o'clock Mayor Murphy will throw a switch in the banquet hall and all the lights along the "white way" will be turned on. Then, according to arrangements, the police department, fire department, high school regiment and members of the board of trade, the latter in automobiles, will leave the Casino and parade through the lighted section. The affair will close with a great patriotic meeting at Monument square. It is expected Gov. David I. Walsh and other notable visitors will attend the opening of the "white way." Secretary Murphy of the board of trade is very busy in soliciting funds to carry out the program as planned and thus far his efforts have been crowned with success. It is believed that the sum of $1300 will be needed to meet all expenses and this sum is now nearly provided through the efforts of Secretary Murphy.

HORSE BECAME FRIGHTENED

While standing in front of the grain mill on Anne street yesterday afternoon, a horse owned by E. H. Dunham became frightened and dashed through King street to the corner of John and Palge street, where it was stopped by a pedestrian. No damage was done to the wagon or contents.
